Catholic Societies Honor St. Patrick---7 Divisions, 6000 in Line

With the sun shining brightly as though conscious of his duty on this day, with the streets of the city thronged with thousands of spectators, and with every condition ideal, the celebration of the feast of St. Patrick, postponed from March 17, was carried out today with the largest and most imposing parade of its kind ever seen in Lowell.

The local Irish and other Catholic organizations, augmented by five companies of the state militia and by Catholic societies from many other cities and towns, turned out to the number of between five and six thousand. In one respect at least, this procession possessed the quality of being unique, in that in it marched societies of other nationalities, including the French, Italian, Polish and Lithuanians, all of whom made a splendid showing.

Chief Marshal James J. McManmon, and Chief of Staff Thomas J. O'Donnell had good reason to be proud of the success of the grand event, the brilliant array of so many organizations, their fine appearance and the general harmony which prevailed throughout.

1000 KILLED AND 4000 WOUNDED

Servians Suffered Heavy Losses in Attack on Adrianople—Tales of Great Suffering

BELGRADE, Servia, March 29.—The Servian troops suffered great losses in their attack on Adrianople. The Third and Fourth battalions of the Thirteenth column of infantry lost 1,000 men killed and from 3,000 to 4,000 wounded, including one hundred officers. The first transport with about 1500 wounded is expected to arrive here today. Fears are expressed that the medical supplies are insufficient for the needs of the sick and wounded. With the Second column of the Bulgarian infantry, the Thirteenth column of Servians received orders the night of March 24 to attack Fort Jout Tepelar. The Turks met the advancing infantry with a terrific fire. The Bulgarians were obliged to withdraw but notwithstanding this check the Third and Fourth battalions of the Thirteenth Servian column were ordered to take a position near the forts at all costs. Not only did they do this, but they captured the fort itself. A Servian officer who was wounded at Adrianople said in an interview yesterday:

Many Cases in Flooded District---Men Digging Corpses From Mud

DAYTON, O., March 29.—The city water works, which have been out of commission since Tuesday morning were restored at noon today, relieving what has been one of the most serious phases of the situation here.

George F. Burba, secretary to Gov. Cox, has telegraphed the chief executive the following:

"The situation is rapidly improving. Ninety bodies have been recovered and the work of digging corpses from the mud and debris is progressing."

Official reports and identification of flood victims poured in steadily today. As fast as the bodies were identified they were buried.

Four Military Zones

Over a thousand militia under command of Adjt.-Gen. Wood have the afflicted zones thoroughly patrolled and little or no disorder is reported. The city is divided into four military zones.

Secretary of War Garrison sent word from Cincinnati today that he expected to reach Dayton late this afternoon. It was reported that the federal government would take control of Dayton both from a military and sanitation standpoint. Adjt.-Gen. Wood said he heard of no such plan and that he did not believe it would be put into effect. The water had drained off from almost all of the flooded area, leaving thick layers of mud. In some instances the mud was several feet deep. It soon began to dry in portions of the streets exposed to the sunshine, but for blocks the searchers for bodies waded through a sea of oozy mud.

Homes of 75,000 swept Away.

A brilliant sunshine threw an uncanny light over the distorted scenes in the areas where the homes of 75,000 people were swept away or toppled over. A view down almost any street revealed tumbled over houses, pianos, household utensils and dead horses massed together in indescribable confusion. At two points the bodies of horses were still caught in the tops of trees, where they had been swept by the rushing waters.

Relief Station Established

Over on the north side of Dayton, close to the flooded district, a relief station was established under martial law in the Longfellow schoolhouse, where thousands of homeless people gathered for supplies of food and clothing. Every able bodied man was pressed into service.

50 Killed When Building Fell

At least 50 people were killed when the Leonard building collapsed Wednesday night, according to the statement of Detective Kinkaird today. Kinkaird was marooned by the flood in the city hall just across Main street from the Leonard building. Standing in the window of police headquarters he was watching passersby on the street below prior to the coming of the torrent. He saw 20 people, he says, enter a saloon which occupied one-third of the ground space of the Leonard building. None of them got out. Other people had entered other stores in the building and some were on the upper floors. Kinkaird felt sure that there were at least 35 in the structure and possibly more.

When the waters came, a portion of the persons caught in the building made their way to the roof. As the walls began to tremble these let out terrible shrieks and calls for help. Two men leaped into the flood, a distance of four floors and were killed instantly. The others went down with the building.

Two Killed Instantly

Kinkaird said that the police were taking steps to examine the interior of the ruins. More than 20 persons were rescued from the market houses near the city building Thursday night by Edward Schaffer, who sat astride of his horse and swam into the markets carrying a rope. About 20 people were trapped in the markets and standing on meat blocks.

Schaeffer fastened the rope around one after another and the police officers and detectives in the building pulled the men to safety.

Hospital Filled With Sufferers

In the city proper the relief committees worked through the night, searching for the sick and destitute and sending them to places where they could be provided for. The city hospital is filled and the authorities have been notified that a number of cases of diphtheria have developed in the Good Samaritan hospital separated from the city proper by the flood. There have been three deaths since Thursday. All the public utilities are still out of commission but food and medicine brought overland from Brown's bridge on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad during the night has temporarily relieved the needs of a great many persons. It is not known that anyone was killed in the collapse of the Roggi hotel near the Baltimore & Ohio station yesterday as ample warning of the unsafe condition of the building had been given. The military and civil authorities have inspected many buildings and a number have been condemned, including the Schultz theatre, one of the largest blocks in the business section.

THE GREAT FLOODS

Continued

Destruction in Southern Valleys

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29.—Final recession of the flood waters in Indiana today is expected to lift the veil that has covered whatever loss of life has occurred in the flooded cities in the Wabash and White River valleys, while the flood crest, sweeping down toward the Ohio is spreading wide destruction in the southern valleys of the rivers and along the Ohio.

Terror increases in Evansville, Vincennes and all the small towns along the lower Wabash with each hour as the swollen waters of the Wabash and White rivers in Indiana swell the crest of the lower river. If loss of life occurs it will not be for lack of warning as the people, fearing repetitions of the horrors in Central Indiana, are spreading warning of the flood's approach throughout the great valley that is threatened. Relief work in Peru, West Indianapolis and Brookville the worst point of the flood's attacks are progressing rapidly. Sixteen bodies have been recovered in Brookville, 29 are known dead in Peru, but search of all West Indianapolis thus far has failed to establish any drownings. Several small fires in West Indianapolis last night destroyed or damaged a number of homes, fire companies failing to get any water from the city mains. Indianapolis street car service is rapidly becoming normal, but it will be several days before a pure water supply can be furnished.

Refugees in Indiana towns are receiving ample provisions and Gov. Ralston will investigate the needs of all flood sufferers. Three companies of state militia have been ordered to Logansport to assist in the relief work and West Indianapolis, under strict quarantine, is being cleaned and made sanitary safe for the return of the refugees.

Refugees Flock to Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—With the Ohio river covering the entire lower section of this city and with refugees from the stricken up-state towns coming in by hundreds Cincinnati this morning faces a situation that will require the combined efforts of all of its relief and civic organizations to cope with. Every hotel in this city is crowded to its capacity while every moving van, auto truck and freight street car has been pressed into service removing families from the floor area. The river reached the stage of 65.9 feet at daybreak and was rising at a rate of 1½ tenths of a foot an hour. More than 60 city blocks are under water whose depths ranges from between half a foot to ten feet. The city was practically cut off from traffic communication with Covington, Ky., last evening when the approach to the suspension bridge became covered with water at a depth that prevented car or foot service. A rise of another foot will put the South Covington and Cincinnati street car company's lines, which operates all street cars entering from Kentucky, out of commission owing to the fact that the power house will become swamped at this stage. The central bridge leading into Newport was abandoned early last evening.

The water reached the second floors of a number of business houses on Front street and was up to the first floor of several blocks of houses on Second street. Several lines of the Cincinnati Traction Co. operating in the lower district have been abandoned.

Reassuring word from the packers, commission men and general produce merchants came early today when it was estimated by experts that Cincinnati had enough food supplies to last at least ten days without inconveniencing anyone.

Sixty city blocks in Newport and Covington are under water and as almost all the manufacturing plants on that side of the Ohio are located in the lowlands thousands have been thrown out of employment.

Baseball Grounds Flooded

CHICAGO, March 29.—The St. Louis National league baseball team arrived here last night from flood-bound Indianapolis minus their uniforms, bats, etc. Manager Huggins reported that the equipment reposes in the club house at the ball park there with water up to the fence tops. The club left on a later train for St. Louis for their first game of the spring series this afternoon with the St. Louis league team. New uniforms and other paraphernalia await them there but many of them were put out over the loss of favorite bats and gloves.

Wife of R. R. President Rescued

CHICAGO, March 29.—President Brown of the New York Central railroad company arrived here last night with his wife whom he saved from the flood at Dayton. Mrs. Brown was none the worse for her experience except that she is suffering from nervous strain. She had been marooned since Tuesday morning.

Bodies Recovered at Zanesville

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, March 29.—(Via telephone to Pittsburgh)—Four bodies had been recovered up to 6 o'clock this morning and the flood in the Muskingum river had receded to Second street.

John L. Sullivan Starts Relief Fund

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—John L. Sullivan, who refereed a prize fight last night called on the crowd to "come through like true sports" for the relief of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers. The former heavyweight champion dropped $50 in a hat and started it on its rounds. Other hats went through the cheering assembly and a golden flood was poured into the ring. The donation totalled $3000.

22 Bodies Recovered

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—Two known dead at the four little villages of Harrison, Cleaves, Valley Junction and new Bethlehem at the mouth of the Great Miami where it empties into the Ohio is 22. Twelve bodies were recovered at Harrison, two at Cleves, six at Valley Junction, and two at New Bethlehem. With the exception of the bodies of two men all have been identified.

Hamilton Death Toll 100

HAMILTON, O., March 29.—Less than 100 is the estimate today of the dead in the flood here. As the water recedes the evidence of the property destruction is more appalling, but the death toll it is believed, will not exceed 100. Piled high upon the east side of the court house are caskets awaiting the flood victims, whose bodies are being gathered as rapidly as possible. Militia are guarding the city property. The military authorities allowed hundreds to return to their homes in the flooded area to make repairs and clean up their houses. The health authorities took charge of the cleaning up process.

Parties of searchers were organized today to penetrate the great drifts of debris extending along the flooded river as fast as the water goes down in the search for bodies.

Militia Called Out

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 29.—Gov. Major today ordered Adjutant General George O'Meara to take three companies of Missouri National guard to Mississippi county to protect property from threatened floods.

More Bodies Recovered

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The work of the searching parties at work in the flooded district today increased the list of bodies recovered from the water to fifty-six. The water was subsiding materially and the work of rescue was thus made easier. Scores of big transfer wagons traversed the inundated streets of the flood district today, carrying relief to the hundred marooned in the upper stories of houses. Many of those marooned refused today to leave their homes, declaring that the worst was over and that they wished to stay with their property.

"Present indications at Cincinnati point to a somewhat crest stage than first reported about 65 feet, rather than 70 feet.

"At Louisville the morning stage is 41 feet, 13 feet above the flood stage. Another rise is expected.

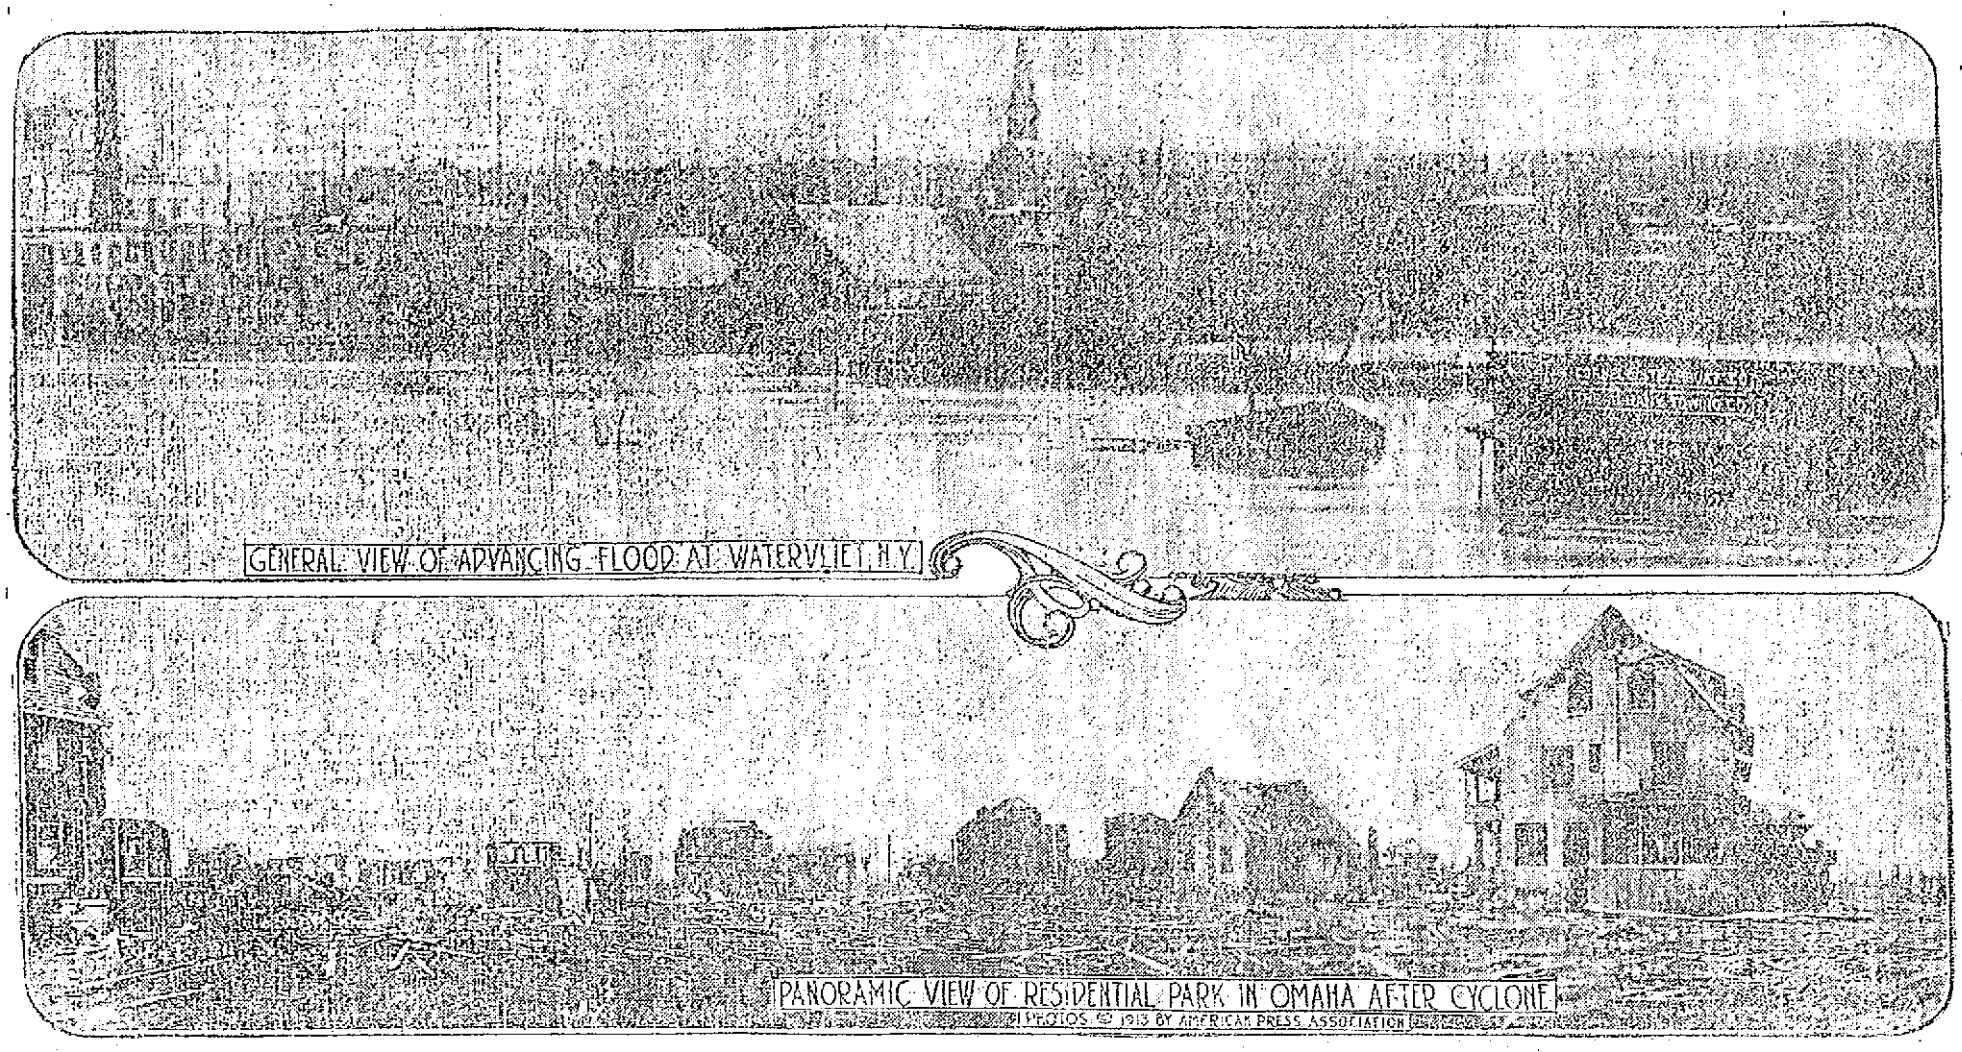

"Reports from Evansville are missing. The last advices from that point indicated that the lowlands would be inundated last night. The Cairo stage this morning was 49.1 feet or 4.1 feet above the flood stage. The river at that point will rise more slowly for the next few days. The flood situation on the lower Mississippi remains unchanged."

BROWN THERE IN PINCHES

Three Fingered Hurler Had the Class

Mordecai Brown, who hopes to be a regular on the Cincinnati Reds' staff this season, pitched many brilliant games for the Cubs, but none more effective and important than the playoff for the National league championship in New York Oct. 8, 1908. Brown's work that day showed his true class and proves that if his knee comes around all right he will be of great assistance to the Reds. The Cubs reached New York shortly before noon on the great day and literally fought their way into the Polo grounds through the tremendous crowd which surrounded the gates and extended for several blocks down the street in front of the park.

Chester started out to pitch, but lasted less than an inning. A pass and a single put two men on, and then the left hander struck out Roger Bresnahan who first tried to bunt and then decided to wait for a base on balls and succumbed to Jack's curve ball. Donlin then doubled to right, scoring a run and leaving men on third and second, with only one out. Chester was relieved, and Brown went in to hold the Giants safe. He did so, laughing at the dangerous situation which confronted him. Brown struck out the next batter and then got the third man and finished a difficult round with only one run scored against the Cubs.

Chance's men fell severely on the great Mathewson in the third inning, when a pass, a triple by Tinker, a single by Evers and doubles by Schulte and Chance gave them four runs in a bunch, which was all they could score during the contest. Brown got by in his usual artistic manner until the seventh inning, when a pass and two hits filled the bases with Giants and no one out. The crowd was crazy with delight, seeing nothing worse than a tied score and, rooting like mad for the Giants to take the lead, as they felt confident that Matty could hold the Cubs safe for the next two innings. It was a ticklish place for a pitcher, but Brownie was equal to it. Chance, fearful that Brown was in bad shape, walked out to the box and said: "What's the matter, Brownie?" in a voice loud enough for all the infielders to hear him. Brown replied: "Nothing's the matter, Frank. I'll get 'em. Give me that ball."

He took the ball from Chance's hand with a movement of the most supreme confidence and stepped back into the box. His manner and their knowledge of the indomitable nerve inspired all the Cubs with a feeling that they could not lose and put them on their toes. Fred Tenney was at bat, with the bases full and no one out. His effort was a line drive to right field, which Schulte caught, the runner from third scoring after the catch. Harry Doyle, who was out of the game with a bad ankle, limped up to bat for the next hitter and lifted a high foul close to the grand stand. John Kling went back for it, ignoring the pop bottles and score cards which some of the more excitable fans tossed in his way to confuse him and made the catch. The third man was an easy out, and Brown had gone by as tough a place as any pitcher was ever in, without damage.

The last two innings were a pipe for him, and the Cubs won the game and the championship, following this notable victory with a clean sweep over the Detroit Tigers in the world's series.

It was a splendid exhibition for Brown, whose calmness and courage in an emergency was reflected by his team. That was a great week for the Cubs, by the way. On Sunday they played the Pirates at Chicago in a game which would have given Pittsburgh the championship if they had won it. The Cubs won. Then they lost idle for three days, dashed to New York and played the memorable game which would have given the Giants the championship if Brown had not been too strong for them. Then two days later, the Cubs opened the world's series in Detroit and beat the Tigers in the first game of the world's series, which they eventually won—four games to one. So in one week they won three of the most crucial games ever played, and they did it on the nerve which kept up in the race for so many years and made them famous, besides coining a fortune for the owners of the club.

BIG MATTRESS FACTORY

Owned by J. J. Doherty Who Purchased Land

HAS NOW 12,000 SQUARE FEET OF FLOOR SPACE

Mr. Doherty While Making All Kinds of Mattresses Makes a Specialty of Felt Quality

Some people in Lowell, perhaps, have never heard of the Lowell Mattress factory which is located at No. 12 [illegible] street, formerly the Joseph [illegible] estate, and is owned and managed by John J. Doherty. The other day [illegible] passing through Hale street the writer met Mr. Doherty, an old [illegible] of schoolboy days, and was [illegible] to learn from him that he [illegible] purchased the property on which [illegible] business, and though not surprised was pleased to hear of his [illegible].

Mr. Doherty is a Lowell boy and after finishing his school days he engaged in the mattress business in the employ of the late Hapgood Brothers on [illegible] street, where he was employed for several years, and where he learned the business in all its details. He left the employ of this firm to engage in business on his own account, and he has been continually increasing his business until at last he has purchased the property on which his factory is now located including his residence, and today the factory is one of the best equipped in New England, and mattresses of the very best quality are turned out by him at this factory. He has enlarged his business from a dozen mattresses a day, the output when he first started, to from 250 to 300 mattresses per day. He makes mattresses of any quality and description ordered, and his up-to-date machinery enables him to turn out fine work.

The building covers nearly 4000 square feet of land and comprises three floors, giving him a floor space of nearly 12,000 square feet. Going through this factory could be seen the mattress in all stages of manufacture. On the first floor is the sewing-room, where the ticking for the mattresses is [illegible]. This room is equipped with all modern appliances, and it is simply wonderful how quickly the mattress can be stitched, stuffed, sewed up and completed for the market by the aid of machinery designed for that purpose. There are many different kinds of machinery in the factory and they are quite expensive, one machine used for filling costing over $1000, but, as Mr. Doherty says, it is worth it. He said it is indispensable, and without it he would have to be satisfied with one-third of the business which he is receiving.

His trade is mostly supplying our local furniture dealers, and he supplies about every furniture house in the city in whole or in part. He also supplies most of the hospitals and hotels of our city with his mattresses. The mattresses are made of different materials, some are made of excelsior, others of silk floss, and others of hair, but Mr Doherty's specialty is the felt mattress. This felt mattress is the popular mattress of today being durable, serviceable and comfortable, and the price is so reasonable that it is within the reach of everybody. Mr. Doherty is the only person in town who makes right in his own factory felt mattresses, or rather uses that material for stuffing. These mattresses are known as the Merrimack Brand, and are made exclusively in this city by the Doherty factory. On the second floor is located the office and stock room, and it certainly looked from the amount of ticking and other material used in the construction of mattresses that he had enough material on hand to take care of the mattress trade of New England.

The work rooms were a very interesting sight where men were busily engaged in preparing the felt which was passing from one machine to another until it had reached the right stage for the building of mattresses. It had a soft flexible, downlike texture, and is guaranteed not to get matted down to a substance that would in any way interfere with its comfort giving qualities. As Mr. Doherty says, which is quite true, his business furnishes more comfort to the human family than any other business, as nearly one-third of our life time is spent in peaceful rest and slumber, and without the aid of a restful mattress our rest would not be enjoyable.

There is no middleman between Mr. Doherty and the retailer. In many of the other big mattress establishments throughout the state they have to employ high priced drummers and salesmen going up and down the country at [illegible] large salaries for their efforts, and they also have expensive buildings to maintain, and the expense to the manufacturer, the drummers, and others add very materially to the expense of the average mattress, and necessarily somebody has to pay the bills, and of course, it is the purchaser.

Renovating Mattresses

The sanitary condition of this factory is another feature that is looked after very closely, special care being given to the rebuilding and renovating of mattresses. Everything is scrupulously neat and clean in this place, and it is always in condition for public inspection.

"It is a pleasure for one to [illegible] an old school mate who has forged his way to the front from a very humble beginning to the owner and manager of one of the largest industries of this particular line in our city. He employs a large number of people in getting out his goods and his teams may be seen going through the city here and there at all hours of the day. The Merrimack mattress which he called to my attention, [illegible] in the highest possible [illegible]. The felt is a new [illegible] [illegible] of the mattress he [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] mattresses.

[illegible] determination [illegible] desire to [illegible] business [illegible] [illegible] with everybody [illegible] this thriving enterprise [illegible] to take root and develop in our city [illegible] has reached the size we see it today. April [illegible] known as the [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] exhibited, and Mr. Doherty [illegible] steadily fill an important part [illegible] the products of his factory. [illegible] [illegible] for future [illegible].

JOHN WOODBURY KERNAN

Elected Superintendent of Park Dept.

THERE WERE MANY CANDIDATES FOR THE POSITION

Tribute to Late Freeman B. Shedd—Mr. Whittet's Work Praised—Moody School Steps Question Settled

John Woodbury Kernan of this city was elected superintendent of the park department last night by the park commission. Mr. Kernan is a civil engineer and is said to be a very capable young man. He will succeed Charles A. Whittet whose term of office expires today. There were a number of candidates for the position and the board, after looking him up, selected Mr. Kernan. Judge Pickman did not vote for him, but his inclinations were favorable. Judge Pickman did not vote at all. "I presume that Mr. Kernan is a very capable man," said Judge Pickman, "and while I do not feel as if I knew enough about him to vote for him, I am free to confess that my inclinations are for him." The other four members of the board, Messrs. Carr, Hall, Greene and Rountree, voted for Mr. Kernan. Other candidates for the position included Michael M. Sullivan, William J. Collins, Frank C. Stowell, Joseph C. Tufts of Roxbury, Alfred Skinner and Herbert L. Chapman.

Mrs. Lawrence of Crescent street was present, with two other ladies, at the meeting, and said that a charge of $19 had been made against her in 1903. She did not wish to pay the tax for such work. She said that the city men forced themselves on her land when other men had been hired to do the work.

Judge Pickman allowed that the matter was up to the city solicitor for an opinion as to whether the tax may be abated. It was finally voted that a hearing be held at the next meeting, and that Mr. Stowell, who had charge of the work for the department, be present at that meeting.

Judge Pickman read a tribute to the memory of Freeman Ballard Shedd, who had done so much for the development of the park and playground system in Lowell, and who died in Miami, Fla., March 13. Judge Pickman said that Mr Shedd stands first of the citizens of Lowell on its roll of honor with respect to his gift to the city for rest and recreation purposes and for his interest in the playground movement in the city.

It was voted to send a properly engrossed copy of the memorial to the relatives of deceased, and that it be spread on the records of the park commission.

Judge Pickman then read an appreciation which he had prepared of Chas. A. Whittet, the retiring superintendent. He said that to Mr. Whittet is largely due whatever measure of success the commission has had in the administration of its trust. It was voted to send a copy of the resolution to Mr. Whittet and also that it be spread upon the records.

Will Pay for School Steps

The board voted to pay for the steps to the Moody school that were built two years ago and thus was buried a not very important controversy, but a matter that should have been settled long ago in order that the man who did the work might receive his pay. The majority of the commission voted to pay the bill.

Election of Mr. Kernan

Relative to the selection of a park superintendent, Judge Pickman, after reading communications from candidates, said he had written to Olmstead Bros. and they had recommended Ralph W. Curtis, a Cornell graduate, who was assistant superintendent of parks in Boston. Since this communication had been received, he said, Utica, N. Y., had snapped up Mr. Curtis. He receives $150 a month in Utica, which Mr. Rountree said, would prohibit him from being engaged here, where the salary is $1500 a year.

Mr. Carr felt that Mr. Kernan will fill the bill because he is a practical contracting engineer, who is very highly recommended. He said there is no politics in his selection of Mr. Kernan, if there was he would wait until a new member of the board is chosen.

Judge Pickman wanted the statements about Mr. Kernan fortified by recommendations other than from the man himself. He wished to look into the matter further.

Mr. Greene said he had received very good reports as to Mr. Kernan's abilities as an engineer.

Mr. Carr wanted action taken before the busy season opens, when it is very necessary that some competent man be employed.

Mr. Hall considered Mr. Kernan to be the most promising candidate he had talked with or heard from.

Mr. Carr moved and Mr. Rountree seconded that a vote be taken for superintendent of the park commission. It was so voted. Mr. Kernan was elected, receiving the votes of everybody except Mr. Pickman, who did not vote, saying, in substance, that his inclinations were to vote for Mr. Kernan, but that he did not know sufficiently about him to vote for him.

It was voted to have the secretary notify Mr. Kernan of his election and to state to him that his duties would begin April 1.

Mr. McManmon by untiring energy and constant activity was a strong factor in the success of the parade while Mr. O'Donnell gave evidence of his military training and experience by his splendid work in the preliminary arrangements and in marshalling the various divisions into their respective positions.

The procession as a whole consisted of seven great divisions and these were arranged so as to be seen to the best advantage. No small part was made up of the out-of-town people who came to Lowell in great numbers to take part.

The route was about two miles in length; the start was made soon after 2 o'clock. At St. Patrick's parochial residence, the parade was reviewed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Anderson, Rt. Rev. Mgr. O'Brien and other clergymen and at city hall by Mayor O'Donnell and other members of the municipal board, Lt. Governor Walsh, State Secretary Donahue, the mayors of other cities and invited guests.

THE REVIEWING STANDS

Prominent Church and Civic Dignitaries Review Parade at City Hall and St. Patrick's Rectory

There were no spare seats on the very substantial reviewing stand at city hall. The stand was built by the lands and buildings department, which department is under Commissioner Cummings, and forms an extension to the Merrimack street entrance to the hall. It was made large enough to accommodate a good number and those who were seated there today, included Hon. David I. Walsh, lieutenant-governor; Hon. John Jacob Rogers; Frank J. Donahue, secretary of state; Hon. J. Edward Barry, mayor of Cambridge; Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, mayor of Boston; Hon. M. F. Scanlon, mayor of Lawrence; Hon. William Henchey, mayor of Woburn; Hon. William H. Barry, mayor of Nashua, N. H.; Hon. J. J. Deane, mayor of Waltham; Hon. John P. Hurley, mayor of Salem; Congressman Eugene E. Reed, of Manchester, N. H.; Mayor O'Donnell and other members of the municipal council; members of the senate and legislature from the Lowell districts; Hon. Thomas P. Riley, chairman of the democratic state committee, and ex-Mayors Noyes, Pickman, Casey, Meehan and Farnham, heads and superintendents of city departments and others.

All offices at city hall closed at the noon hour and Mayor O'Donnell entertained the visitors in his spacious reception room where a buffet lunch was served during the afternoon.

At St. Patrick's Rectory

The following named clergy occupied the reviewing stand at St. Patrick's church: Rt. Rev. Joseph 49. Anderson, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Boston, representing Cardinal O'Connell; Rt. Rev. DIVISION ONE

Military Companies, Irish Volunteers and French Military Guards Make a Grand Showing

The first part of the first division was composed of a battalion of Massachusetts and New Hampshire militia companies, and indeed a parade is not complete without the boys in line. The battalion was in command of Capt. Philip McNulty of Co. M, 9th regiment, who was acting major. The captain received great applause along the line and his military bearing as well as the fine appearance of the soldiers under his command was favorably commented upon.

It would be difficult to go into every little detail concerning the militia companies, but be it said that the local companies, C, G and M, commanded, the first by Captain George Peterson, the second by Capt. Walter R. Joyes and the third by Lieut. Daniel Christian, were spick and span in their full dress uniforms of blue. The militiamen also wore white gloves and black shoes and carried rifles with the exception of the officers who carried swords. The three local companies turned out in full numbers and certainly made a hit with the thousands who cheered them along the course of the march.

The officers of the companies are as follows: Co. C:—Capt. George Peterson, First Lieut. Harold Patten and Second Lieut. James J. Powers, Co. G:—Capt. Walter R. Joyes, First Lieut. Thomas W. Doyle and Second Lieut. Schuyler R. Waller. Co. M.:—Capt. Philip McNulty, First Lieut. Daniel Christian and Second Lieut. Paul E. Kittredge.

The members of Co. K, 1st N. H. regiment, Capt. Anthony J. Foye, and Co. B, 1st N. H. regiment, Capt. Edward J. Kelley, were also very numerous, and they were cheerfully welcomed to this city. Their marching and general appearance were perfect in every way and they are to be complimented on the fine showing they made both in number and appearance.

Wolfe Tone Guards

Another prominent body in the division of Irish military organizations was the famous Wolfe Tone guards, with Captain Patrick Fitzgerald leading the company. This body comprising about 60 members as they passed along the route were accorded enthusiastic applause from the spectators. The uniforms of the Wolfe Tone guards were similar to those of the militia and the other Irish volunteers, the men wearing dark blue military coats, light blue trousers, leggings, blue caps with insignia of the company on the front and carrying rifles. First Lieutenant Francis J. Kierce and Second Lieutenant Michael J. Monahan assisted Captain Fitzgerald in directing the company's movements.

Sheridan Guards

In the absence of Captain Thomas Daly of the Sheridan guards who was acting major of the entire battalion of Irish companies, Lieutenant Michael T. O'Rourke led the guards in his place. Like the other Irish military bodies, the Sheridan guards won much applause for their marching and general appearance. This company with the others contributed its share of the strikingly attractive military appearance of the St. Patrick's demonstration this afternoon. Their uniforms were similar to the others, the dark blue military coats and caps, the light blue trousers and the white gloves adding greatly to the general effect. The guards carried their rifles and the officers marched in their usual positions.

Meagher Guards

Another brilliant feature of this division was furnished by the Meagher guards, who were attractive new uniforms, consisting of dark blue military coats, trousers of cadet blue, a dark blue military cap adorned with crossed guns and the letters "M. G." The men of this body carried their rifles and the military effect of the Meagher guards was most pleasing to the spectators and guests in the review stands who were not slow in manifesting their appreciation of the company. Captain John J. Higgins was the leader and the other officers including First Lieut. Charles O'Brien, First Sergt. Michael Hyde, and Quartermaster Sergt. John J. Curran marched in their respective positions. The company was heralded by a large American flag, together with the flag of green. This brilliantly uniformed organization was one of the features of the first division of the parade and the members numbered in the neighborhood of sixty men.

Out of Town Companies

Among the Irish military companies from other cities who came to Lowell to take part in the grand St. Patrick's demonstration which was witnessed by so many thousands of people this afternoon were the following: The Emmet Guards of Lynn, led by Captain McHugh; the Grattan Guards of Lawrence, led by Captain Graham; the Sarsfield Guards of Haverhill, with Captain Driscoll as their marshal, and the John Boyle O'Reilly guards of Charlestown commanded by Captain Clark. All of these were elaborately uniformed after the manner of the local organizations of a similar nature and from their splendid appearance and well drilled and spirited showing, met with the manifest approval of all. They carried their rifles, adding greatly to the grand military display of the first division of the parade.

The French Companies

The French-American guards of the city made a very fine showing and were well greeted all along the route of the parade. The four local guards form a part of the French American Volunteer Brigade of the United States, and also a battalion of the second regiment of the said brigade. At first it was a question as to whether the guards should participate in the parade as a battalion with Major Joseph Lamoureux, but finally it was decided that each guard turn out individually.

First in line came Garde Frontenac with Capt. Albert Bergeron in command. They were about 24 in number and indeed they made a very fine showing. The men, neatly attired in blue uniforms with yellow trimmings, and blue caps, and carrying swords, presented a brilliant scene. They marched in regular military order and occasionally cut very difficult figures, as they excel in fancy drilling, having on previous occasions won trophies in parades and prize drills.

The guard made quite a hit when at intervals under the command of the captain the men formed a cross and marched for some distance, then falling into squads of fours and eights. All along the route of the parade the men were warmly applauded by the many onlookers. The other officers of the guard are First Lieut. Horace Desilets and Second Lieut. Alphonse Valterand.

Garde d'Honneur came next and the 26 men of this company, headed by their captain, Joseph L. Lamoureux, certainly did their share in the appearance of this semi-military division. The "soldiers" who carried rifles wore cadet gray pants and navy blue coats ornamented with red trimmings and gold braid, and blue caps. Their marching was perfect and many words of praise could be heard along the streets, reflecting much credit on this guard, which is composed of members of the C. M. A. C., and which is the oldest French-American guard in the city. The guard's appearance in every way was very pleasing, and its members once more showed how carefully they have been trained by their able captain.

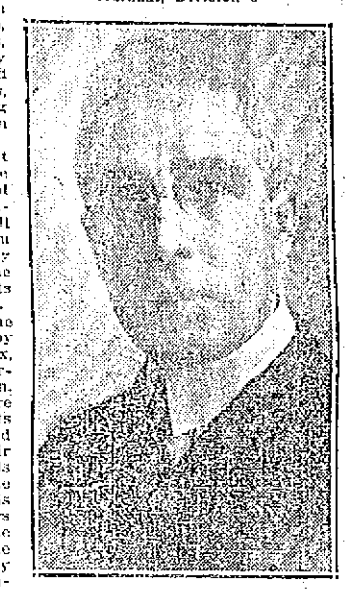

Third in line came Garde Jacques-Cartier, consisting of about 24 men and officers. Although but a young organization, this military association has already made its mark in Lowell and their appearance today was still better than on previous occasions. They marched in squads of fours and eights, under the command of Capt. Alfred Grenier and their marching was perfect. The men, all well proportioned in build, wore navy blue uniforms trimmed with pale blue braid, and carried rifles.

The A. G. Cadets was the only French semi-military organization which marched to the music of its own drum corps. Unfortunately only Co. A of the organization was able to turn out, but even at that some 40 boys were in line. Their uniform consisted of full navy blue coat and cap and white duck pants. The boys made a great showing and their work in the military line reflects much credit on the spiritual director of the Cadets, Rev. Jerome Diss, O. M. I., who spared no time in training the young ones and giving them instructions which are now very valuable to them. Also a great share of the credit goes to the major of the battalion, Arthur J. Lamoureux, who also spent much time at the armory of the Cadets in St. Joseph's college. The drum corps, which is composed of five snare drums, a base

THE INCOME TAX

The law that is to be framed by the present administration at the extra session of congress regarding the levying of income tax, promises to be one that will raise questions of peculiar delicacy and difficulty in framing which the democratic party will open up vast possibilities of future gain or loss. Being one of the most far reaching measures of years it is also by being generally discussed, as expected, and widely differing opinions are being expressed as to the proper methods to be employed in putting it in practice. Among those who suggest plans are interested parties who have long been inimical to federal income tax, and who now suggest radical measures under the guise of an awakened interest and approval. The sincerity of such must be questioned, particularly when among the suggestions offered by them is one that in levying income tax no income, however small, should be exempted. To do this they say is to descend to measures that are not distinctively American and democratic.

On the other hand there is a section of the public, including such notable men as Hon. Champ Clark, who would place the limit of exemption at a very high figure, and levy the income tax only from the possessors of large fortunes. It is also suggested by those who hold the latter view this tax should not be levied at a flat rate but should be arranged on a gradually ascending scale, those having most wealth paying a proportionately higher amount than those who receive smaller incomes. It would seem right and just in a general way that the bulk of federal income tax revenue should come from those who own immense fortunes, but on further consideration one must sense and realize that such an arrangement would savor much of socialism and seem rather a re-distribution of wealth than the levying of a national income which is the logical purpose of the income tax.

Those who claim that the exemption of any income from the operations of the proposed income tax is un-American and undemocratic will find it difficult to prove just how American and democratic any measure would be that would base a new national income on the meagre earnings of the poor. While such a measure would raise a stupendous revenue it would be at a great cost, built on a false foundation, and would ultimately have an injurious effect on national life and energy. Those who lean to the socialistic theory that would tend to check an accumulation of wealth are advocating measures still more un-American. There must necessarily be an exemption of income, and this exemption must be at a moderate figure. To try to reach the amount of this exemption limit at the present time is futile, for one proposing such figures considers merely the relations of industry and income in a sectional manner or as they affect the conditions of a definite region. It is only by a wide discussion and calm investigation that would include the interests of the whole country a law could be established that would be satisfactory to the majority. The present government has the means to make this searching investigation. Although federal income tax as a national measure is new to us it has long been successfully operating in other countries, and the prudence and justice of the president and his supporters may be depended upon at this juncture to evolve a method of tax levying that will be fully adequate, while entailing special hardships on no individual or class.

TO THE HAGUE

Although the Hague tribunal for the smoothing out of international complications has justified its existence and been a large factor towards preparing for more enlightened measures of arbitration between the nations for the future, the sphere of its usefulness has been recently extended. An international educational conference, to be held there next September, is a promise of the future possibilities that open up a vista of progress and usefulness such as was undreamed of in its formation. It is inspiring to think that future international conferences at the Hague will not have for their object the storing of arms and the disbanding of hostile armies, but the discussion of plans that will be of mutual benefit to the young Russian in the far regions of Asia, the children of southern climes, or the youth who crowds for knowledge among the pulsing life of our American cities. Strange as it may seem, there is a natural sequence in this arrangement: largely through the education of the future must the dream of world peace and the federation of mankind be established. At this conference America will be represented by distinguished educators named by the Washington state department. Four have already been selected, including Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, who spoke here a few weeks ago; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., university, California; Dr. C. H. Judd, director of the school of education at the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, special collaborator of the United States bureau of education. It is significant that Mrs. Andrews has gained wide prominence for her views on world peace as it depends on education.

Although the future peace of all nations would be subserved by such conference as that to take place at the Hague, they will have a very direct and salutary result on the trend of modern education. All educational methods are either the result of tradition or the needs of modern requirements. Each branch has its faults and its virtues, and by a worldwide comparison of methods and results the good can be very readily separated from the bad. We have much to learn from the older countries and we have much that it would be to their advantage to know. Abroad, particularly in Germany, the general use of vocational training has grown, and their educators are able to tell from positive results in what the system is to be commended and in what it is defective. England prides herself in the thoroughness of her primary education and from her we could learn with advantage in this respect, for while our methods develop superficial cleverness and brilliancy we fail in developing accuracy. By a sincere and thorough exchange of ideas all of these topics could be covered, and uniform systems of education could be established that would go far towards promoting a better spirit in the future attitude of all peoples in their foreign and domestic relations.

THE PARADE

The splendid spectacle that passed through our streets today was one of which any city might well be proud. In honor of an old and cherished ideal the Irish people again demonstrated their unmistakable patriotism and devotion. Once again in these bright and hopeful days, as in the past when their way was darker, they mustered in their thousands and marched under flags and banners of freedom to the strains of martial music that woke fond and proud memories of hope and pride in their hearts and in the hearts of many of the multitude which lined the streets. But there was one feature that attracted special attention and favorable comment. Side by side with the Irish and American marchers were representatives of the French, Polish, Italian and Lithuanian races, all handed together in a common celebration. Such a spirit is inspiring and commendable, and as ingratitude is not an Irish trait, their action will be remembered in the future when celebrations of their respective festivals will call forth such a demonstration as that of today. Special praise is due also to the many participants from out of town who came here to add to the success of the occasion. To them and to all we offer congratulations on the success of a memorable event which reflects credit on Lowell and the spirit that made it possible.

SECRET SERVICE MEN

It is said that President Wilson is to retain the services of the three secret service men who acted as a personal guard to President Taft. Because of the sudden propensity to travel that Mr. Taft developed they were kept pretty busy during the last administration and were called upon to exercise their vigilance under more varied conditions, and in a greater degree, than seems to be promised by the present attitude of President Wilson. This should make them particularly valuable. Probably they will appreciate being kept on under the changed condition particularly as their tasks are to be lighter. Of course the portly figure of the last president was more easily watched, but the spare form of the present chief executive will be more easily guarded.

PROGRESSIVE

The four members of the progressive branch of the republicans in the house at Washington who have openly declared their intention of supporting President Wilson and his policies have done credit to their sense of right and fair-mindedness. The measures advocated by the president and his supporters are surely progressive enough to enlist the sympathy of all sincere men who march under any of the "progressive" banners. More good can now be gained for the people as a whole by a united, whole-hearted support of the present administration than by a too strict and persistent adherence to party lines.

Seen and Heard

So far as we know, the first representative government that the world ever had appeared in the case of the Roman tribune. After a hard and long fight the plebians (the plain people) managed to get a tribune whose business it was to represent them in the government circles. Before the creation of the tribunate the common people had no representation whatever in the lawmaking part of the government, the whole thing being in the hands of the patricians. From the Roman tribunate have sprung historically and logically all the representative devices that are at present to be found on earth, says the New York American.

In earlier days it was a custom in many households for each child to learn a verse from the Bible each Sunday. In this way the children became familiar with the wonderful book, and to them the experience described by Rev. E. J. Hardy could not have happened.

Sir Ernest Shackleton said one morning to a little waiting maid who brought him tea, "What a rainy day, Mary! It is almost like the flood."

"The flood, sir?" responded the little maid, with a puzzled smile.

"Yes, the flood, Noah, you know, the ark, Mt. Ararat."

She shook her head and murmured apologetically, "I ain't had time to read the papers lately, sir."—Youth's Companion.

Robert Loraine, the English actor, was asked by a reporter if he liked America.

"Yes," Mr. Loraine replied, "I like America very much. I especially like American enterprise. American enterprise makes the enterprise of other nations look like Tommy Price.

"Tommy Price was a grocer in my native Australia. I entered his shop in my boyhood once and asked him for a bar of a certain kind of soap.

"'Ah, I've stopped keepin' it,' said Tommy, with a facial movement that was half a yawn and half a scowl.

"'Stopped keeping it,' said I. 'Why, Tommy, it's the most popular brand of soap on the market.'

"'That's the trouble,' said Tommy Price. 'People kep' comin' and comin' for it. By crimus, I'd get sold out as fast as I'd get stocked up. So I just stopped keepin' it.'"

WHEN ALL IS DONE

We rise in the morning as soon as 'tis light
To strive for such triumphs as others have won;
We toil all day long, and far into the night,
Yet what is it all when our labor is done?

We think to be happy with honors and lands,
So we battle and slave on our way to success;
We wear out our brains and we blister our hands,
And what are they worth when these things we possess?

We think 'twill be fine in great splendor to ride,
And o'er those we meet our own influence weave;
We puff up ourselves with importance and pride,
Yet what is it all when our point we achieve?

So we worry and fret throughout all of our years,
And sometimes we triumph, and sometimes we fail;
At the end we but sob through the mist of our tears,
What so many have asked: What does all this avail?

—Thomas P. Porter.

I could see the whole of the action. The three whales were swimming abreast, blowing now and then as they rose from a shallow dive. Only one of us moved and that was Caesar, and I noticed that he pushed the oar a little to port in order to avoid the hull and take the yearling. I had guessed rightly about the yellow streak, says a writer in Outing.

But even the yearling was no plaything and as he rose close under the bow the sea slid off his mountainous back as from a ledge of black rock, a light green in contrast to the deep blue into which it poured. The cavernous rush of air and water from his snout almost sprayed Bynoe in the face as he drove the iron down into him. He passed under us, our bow dropping into the swirl left by his tail and I could feel the bump of his back through Caesar's oar.

I wondered for the moment if the boat would tip. There seemed to be no turning, for the next instant the flying spray drove the lashes back into my eyes and I knew we were fast. Blinded for the moment, I could feel the boat going over and through the seas, skittering after the whale like a spoon being reeled in from a cast. When I finally succeeded in wiping the hairs out of my eyes there was nothing to be seen ahead but two walls of spray which rose from the very bows of the boat, with Bynoe still clinging to the stay with his head and shoulders clear of the flying water.

THE SMALL DREAMS

When I was a young girl I dreamed great dreams
Of giant castles fashioned on a hill of gold;
The gold is but a gorse-bush, and haply it seems
My castle's but a cottage, now that I am old.

Now that I am old, I dream small dreams
Of tiny feet that falter, and tiny songs unsung.
Though I heard the trumpet blare and saw red gleams
From the flying feet of Cherubim, when I was young.

When I was a young girl I dreamed long dreams
Of ever-flowing rivers and earth and sky unrolled;
My sky's a window square, the rivers are but streams,
And the earth is a hedged meadow, now that I am old.

Now that I am old, I dream short dreams
Of small, warm woods and little paths among;
I who saw stretched shadows and the sun's long beams
On the cedar trees of Lebanon, when I was young.

And youth is a memory with its long, deep dreams,
Its venture unadventured, the glory still untold;
But I can keep forever, unashamed it seems,
The small dear dreams of comfort, now that I am old.

—Frances Chesterton, in Literary Digest.

Thousands of Women

Have Been Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,

There is no doubt about this fact. Why! during the last 30 years we have published in the newspapers of this country volumes of letters from women who have been relieved of all their suffering by the timely aid of this grand old medicine. Letters like the following, true, genuine and honest expressions of gratitude coming from grateful hearts. Surely you can believe these women.

Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Mich., says:—

"Sometime ago I was taken with a terrible pain in my right side, such sharp pains just like a knife sticking me. I tried hot applications but that did no good. I went to our family doctor (we were living in Fayette, Ohio, at that time) and he said it was organic inflammation. I doctored with him a while but kept getting worse. The pain was so terrible I could hardly stand on my feet. I would have that sharp pain in my right side, and a dull heavy pain the whole length of my limb. I realized that something had to be done quickly, so I looked up all of your advertisements I could find, and saw several that described my case. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first dose, and when I had taken two bottles my trouble was gone. Your medicine has done so much for me that I am willing you should publish this letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Michigan.

Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, Girard, Pa., says:—

"I take pleasure in informing you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had a sick spell last February, and for some months after that I was not regular and had many bad feelings. I was tired all the time, had dull headaches, not much appetite, and also what the doctor called organic inflammation. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise as I am now able to do my own work. You are perfectly welcome to use my testimonial for the benefit of others."—Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, R.F.D. No. 1, Girard, Pa.

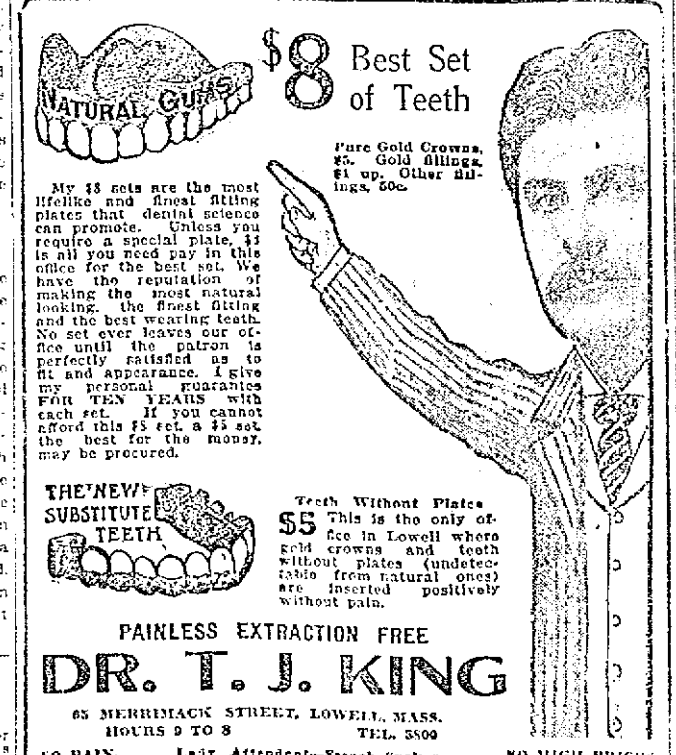

Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, Buffalo, N.Y., says:—

"I feel that I must write to you about your wonderful remedies. About ten years ago I was troubled with female weakness and was all run down. I was tired all the time and could hardly walk without feeling dizzy. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it, and also used the Sanative Wash. I got stronger, and have not had those dizzy spells since. I feel that I owe my health to you, and hope your remedies will help others as they have me. I tried most everything I heard of, and yours are the best medicines for women's ailments."—Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, 26 Glor Street, Buffalo, New York.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

All these testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. The original of each came to us entirely unsolicited. They are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits received from the medicine.

COM. JAS. DONNELLY

Gave Hearings on Petitions for Improvements

Commissioner James E. Donnelly gave a hearing on street petitions last night.

The petition to pave Plain street brought out a number of persons interested in the project. William A. Hogan spoke in favor of it and R. C. Hemman said that the thoroughfare at present is impassable. Laforest Bells, representing F. A. Wilson & Co., said that teams can't get through the street at times, because of the condition. He asked that it be paved with granite blocks. Charles B. Hanson believed it to be the worst street in Lowell and Daniel H. Walker who does a lot of trucking through there asked that the council consider only one thing, the paving with granite blocks. Many others favored the petition.

Miss Ellen L. Floyd appeared in favor of a petition to build a curbing on the easterly side of Dartmouth street, in front of premises at 158-160.

Miss Charlotte Ryan and A. J. Ryan favored a concrete sidewalk on portions of Westford and Rutland streets.

Daniel J. Hart and a Mr. Barker favored a petition for edgestones on the northerly side of Mt. Hope street, from Colonial avenue, a distance of about 120 feet.

Charles Stickney appeared in favor of his petition to widen Central street at its junction with Prescott street.

Mrs. Bridget Conroy and Mr. Hogan favored a petition to lay edgestones in Griffin street.

John Scholes favored edgestones being laid in front of his property at 80 Midland street.

On the petition of Josephine G. Chase for a cinder sidewalk on the westerly side of Lincoln street, between Hale street and Angle street, John Gardner appeared in favor as did Meyer Markins of 47 Angle street, James Durkin, Mr. Bettencourt and Manuel Sousa.

On the petition of John Downing that a sidewalk with edgestones and cinders be laid on a portion of both sides of Tenth street, Mr. Downing appeared. The street is in a deplorable condition, he said, and many children pass through the street.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT

C. M. A. C. Baseball Team Held Whist and Entertainment in Association's Rooms Last Evening

A crowd which taxed the capacity of C. M. A. C. hall last night attended the second annual whist and entertainment which was given by the baseball team of the club. The affair was a real success and reflected much credit on the organizers, especially on the chairman of the committee, Joseph Payette, who spared no time to make the event an unprecedented one in the history of the C. M. A. C.

The attendance numbered over 40 and all spent a very enjoyable evening. The first part of the soiree was devoted to whist and suitable prizes were awarded the following winners: Brunnelle, Dan Ayotte, Philippe Guimond, Mathias Morin, Bertha Carpentier, Arthur Archambault, Alice Poitier, Arthur Charron, Wilfrid Achim, Hormidas Bisson, Laura Chouinard, Arthur Chouinard, Eva Lablanc, Henri St. Cyr, Alma Levasseur, Alice Fauvel, Philippe Joly, Edgar Asselin, Flori Vincent, Ernest Lemire, P. Prescott, O. Rivard, Anna M. Blais, A. Guertin, L. Geoffroy, T. Trudel, Lena Boisvert, Ernestine Thurber, Bildege Ducharme, Fred Lussier, Miss L. Ladeur, Pat Genest, Emery Racette, Rose Lena, M. L. Dupuis, A. Duval, Arthur Lussier, Mrs. Arthur Lussier.

The prize given by Frank Ricard was won by S. Brunelle and Dan Ayotte.

At the close of the whist tournament a minstrel show entitled "A Night at the Clubhouse," was presented by the members of the baseball team, and the sketch which proved very interesting and entertaining was well received.

Joseph Payette presided over the gathering. Those responsible for the affair were as follows: Joseph Payette, Arthur Lussier, George Simard, Louis Simard, J. B. Salvas, Isidore Trudel, Charles Chandonnet and Adelard Lussier. Isidore Trudel acted as interlocutor in the minstrel part and his work was very commendable. The Highland orchestra was also in attendance.

SMILING HANS WAGNER OUT FOR TY COBB'S BATTING HONORS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 29.—Judging by the manner in which Hans Wagner cavorted around the diamond in the recent series with the Boston Red Sox here, it surely looks as if the veteran shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates will have another great season to add to his already brilliant record. The "Flying Dutchman" batted, fielded and ran the bases like a youngster. Last spring Wagner did not show up so well at the training camp. Many critics were of the opinion that Father Time was beginning to take hold of the Pirate shortstop. However, Wagner again fooled the wise Ikes and had a fine year in all departments. Now that he will start the campaign in good condition the experts believe he will give Ty Cobb a good run for the batting honors of the major leagues. Wagner celebrated his thirty-ninth birthday recently and has been in harness longer than any other player in the major league.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lee Magee of the Cardinals is said to be the fastest man on the team. They say he has enough speed to furnish several athletes.

Manager Griffiths is in no hurry to get rid of his youngsters. The old fox wants to get as perfect a line as possible on his men before cutting any of them loose.

Muggsy McGraw still calls Cooper the greatest find of the year. The Giant leader is greatly impressed with the recruit's showing and may retain him as a regular on the team.

The St. Louis Cards are willing to take Rafael Almeida—that is, if the Reds are willing to let him go. The Cards could use an infielder who can hit.

McGraw has announced that players on his team sipping of the foaming hops will be fined $25. This is the first season the Giant pilot has taken a stand of this sort.

John Ganzel tells Rochester papers that he doesn't believe Tommy McMillan's hold-out will stick. He evidently has conversed with Thomas recently.

Hugh High, the youngster whom the Tigers obtained from the Connecticut state league last year, is pretty sure he will stick. He is unusually fast and a good sticker.

Manager McGraw has warned his players not to abuse the umpires. Muggsy says he will attend to the arbiters on unjust decisions.

Eddie Ainsmith of the Senators has been testing his throwing wing for the last couple of days and has been successful in lining the ball down to second in the same old way.

"Doc" Johnston has been doing great work at the initial sack for the Naps and has clinched the job.

Nap Rucker, the star hurler of the Superbas, picks the Pirates to land the flag this season, the Giants second and the Cubs third.

Buffalo expects to get Thorpe after McGraw has wrung all the advertising out of him.

Bresnahan Picks Cubs

Roger Bresnahan has joined the ranks of the prophets. The noted catcher who will wear a Chicago Cub uniform this year comes out boldly with the assertion that the team under the management of John J. Evers has a better chance to win the National league pennant than the Pittsburghs, providing, of course, that the Giants fail to come up to expectations. Bresnahan aired his views when asked recently why he signed a Cub contract instead of accepting the Pirates' liberal offer.

"I didn't double cross the Pirates and Barney Dreyfus," replied Roger. "Because I never gave my word that I would play with them after I settled up with the Cardinals. I accepted what I believed was the best proposition available. Murphy offered me a fine contract to go with the Cubs, but it was no better than the one Dreyfuss was ready to pay. Herrmann, too, was anxious to secure me for Cincinnati, and probably would have topped both Murphy and Dreyfus in point of salary figures. I had all I wanted of a loser in St. Louis, and naturally having experienced the sensation of catching for a world's champion team in New York, under McGraw, I wanted to get with another winner. The Cubs looked pretty good to me on paper, and as Evers is a pal, I decided to sign and do my best.

"I firmly believe that the Cubs will finish ahead of the Pirates and will come very near winning the flag. The Cubs would have taken the pennant last year with a little more strength in the box. If we get into the world's series, there'll be a slice of big money for me which there wouldn't be a chance of picking up if I had gone to Pittsburgh or Cincinnati. The Cubs have a greatly strengthened pitching department, an improved outfield and a corking good shortstop in Corriden to replace Tinker. Archer and yours truly will make things hum behind the bat, and that means death to base stealers. I am satisfied to play ball and let somebody else do the managing in future. It makes life easier. We've got the Giants to beat."

Bowling Games

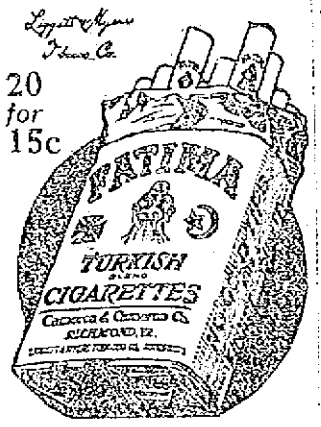

The Hamilton team proved too strong for the Lawrence Hosiery in their bowling game last night, taking the match by the score of 1259 to 1251. The Wonders were easy winners in their game with the Jolly Six, taking the first two strings by large margins. The spool room had nine pins to the good after their contest with the Office bowling team last evening. Team Two defeated Team Three in the Y. M. C. A. bowling tournament. The winners took all three strings.

M'KINNON WON FROM GRUPPE

Jimmy Gardner Gave Clever Exhibition of Manly Art—Fiske Defeated Reardon

Bill McKinnon, the Roxbury middleweight, won his bout with Billy Gruppe of St. Louis last night in the eleventh round of a scheduled twelve-round go before the members of the Lowell A. C. Martin Flaherty, who refereed all the bouts, stopped the affair in the eleventh session on account of the marked advantage that the Roxbury boxer had and Gruppe's weakness from McKinnon's body punches.

Gruppe is one of the quickest and smoothest boxers that has ever been seen here and the way that he snapped himself back from the ropes was a revelation of ring work. Whenever McKinnon would prove too aggressive and follow him too closely Gruppe would sag back onto the ropes and the minute that his opponent came up close enough would spring from the ropes as though thrown from a sling. This was greatly appreciated by the members who took in the contest and, although a loser, Gruppe was the more popular of the two fighters after the bout had been stopped.

Up to the seventh round neither man had shown much more than an inclination to feel out the other but in the seventh both scrappers stood up and swapped some fine looking haymakers. McKinnon had all the better of the infighting but Gruppe would have had a chance if he had been able to stand him off and fight at long range. In the eighth, ninth and tenth sessions McKinnon worked over some hard punches to the St. Louis man's body which slowed him up visibly and succeeded in giving him a bad looking nasal organ as well. The eleventh round saw the last of Gruppe's strength leave him and Referee Flaherty's decision was generally acknowledged to be the only fair thing that could be done under the circumstances.

The feature of the evening, however, was the appearance of Jimmy Gardner in the ring with Jimmy Mahan as a punching bag. Gardner showed to the delighted audience just how he built up his boxing reputation and whipped over all sorts of blows which Mahan was powerless to stop. Both wore big exhibition gloves so that no damage was done by Gardner's blows. The pivot punch, a la Gardner, brought down the house.

Jimmy Reardon, the local boy who has twice appeared with Sailor Fiske, was slightly outpointed by the man from the navy in their eight-round semi. The Lowell boy has a great left-hand but did not seem to cut loose with it last night except on special occasions. Whenever he did use it he stabbed his opponent with great force and up to the last round it looked as though Reardon would be given the decision. In the last round, however, the sailor came strong and sent in some wicked looking swings with both hands.

Finney Boyle completely outclassed Young Smith, both local boys, and won on a knockout in the third period. Gardner Brooks was an easy winner over Young Cooney in the other preliminary, putting Cooney away in the second session of a scheduled six-round bout.

The Y. W. C. A. Basketball Team

The Y. W. C. A. basketball team will meet the girls' team from the Manchester high school this afternoon at three o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. hall. This will be the last game of a very successful season as the local team has won six and lost two games this year.

The team is composed of the following: Miss Frances Legnat, rf; Gertrude Libbee, lf; Jennie Hay, jc, capt.; Blanche Harrimah, sc; Sadie Sweatt, rg; Thora Johnson, lg; substitute, Misses Esther Leddes, Gladys Pendexter and Frances La Flamme; Miss Frances E. Bent, coach and manager.

Presented Diamond Ring

A pretty gathering of friends took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Caisse, 101 Fulton street, the occasion being the 21st anniversary of the birth of their daughter, Alice, who was agreeably surprised with the presentation of a handsome diamond ring.

In the early part of the evening over 50 couples, all friends of the young woman gathered at the home of her parents, and at 9 o'clock when she returned to her home she was seized by a number of her lady friends and carried into the reception room where the presentation was made by Miss Flora Primeau. The hostess of the evening although taken fully unaware responded in fitting terms, and a pleasant evening followed.

Evening Drawing School Awards

The members of the machine drawing class of the evening school received diplomas of graduation last night at the Mann school. The graduating class consisted of eight men and they were presented diplomas by Perry D. Thompson, of the school committee, who addressed them briefly.

Gustaf H. Olson was awarded a set of valuable drawing instruments by Samuel H. Thompson, for producing the best results during the past three years. Honorable mention was given to Eugene O. Gaudette and John O. Burman.

Several mechanical drawings were on exhibition during the evening and they showed the results of careful and thorough work. The end of this school year completed the 31st year of Mr. Stephens as a teacher of mechanical drawing in the public schools.

The Fight Grows Harder and More Bitter

A Great Chance for the Public to Buy at Cut Prices

A piano sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a markdown sale. The very nature of the business here is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular piano store where they are expected to make a profit on each piano. We don't let any piano loaf around our floors; a sacrifice tag is clapped on which on the face of it reads competition defied and it is sold to the first wise man or woman for the price marked on the tag. Price doesn't mean anything at these sales. We cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors, we want none, and we give none. In sales like these someone's loss is your gain, the profit is all yours. The finest instruments of the world's best makers are in the sacrifice list.

ENGINEER JAMES DWYER

Recovering From Serious Injury

The many friends of James Dwyer of 441 High street will be glad to learn that he will soon be able to leave the hospital where he has been for the last two weeks or more. Mr. Dwyer is an engineer in the employ of the Lowell Water Works and sustained severe injury to his foot while alone in pumping station No. 4, at the boulevard.

Thinking that the water was not pumping as fast as it should and that something had gone wrong, Mr. Dwyer proceeded to investigate and while making certain changes a machine weighing several hundred pounds fell upon his foot. He fell to the floor and in such a position that he was unable to assist himself in any way. He called for help and a man who was working on the outside heard his call but thought that it was some fellow in another part of the station and did not pay any attention to it. A little later the man on the outside heard screams and upon entering the station he found Mr. Dwyer on the floor and almost unconscious. The man removed the heavy weight from Mr. Dwyer's foot and summoned the ambulance.

Mr. Dwyer was removed to St. John's hospital and the doctors did everything possible but the crushed flesh festered and blood poisoning set in making several operations necessary. The operations on the foot and leg were successful and Mr. Dwyer is now out of danger and doing well.

If Mothers Only Knew!

By Dr. True

Nineteen-twentieths of the sickness of children have two causes: constipation and worms!

The danger of constipation is understood, but there are 50 different kinds of worms that may exist in the stomach and bowels, and children are especially apt to have them. Usually stomachand pin worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue; eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body may be hot; and often, in children, convulsions.

Rid the child of worms and you will have a healthy, happy child.

NOTE—Dr. True's own prescription, sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir, is the best remedy in the world for worms. It destroys all worm life, expels worms from the body and makes the child healthy again. All dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

The final performances of "Zaza" will be given by The Lonergan Players at the Opera House today and commencing next Monday and for the entire week the company will be seen in Jan Hallack's Bold's powerful drama "The Confession," a play that has been endorsed by Cardinal Farley and many eminent Catholic clergymen. A strong point in this play is the unreliability of circumstantial evidence. How a chain of circumstances can be so arranged by skilful lawyers as to point to the guilt of a man, is clearly shown in this play, which deals with the release of a man falsely accused of murder. He is convicted and sentenced to death, and even on circumstantial evidence the law of the state has decreed that he shall forfeit his life as a penalty for his crime. Almost too late it is made clear that the man is innocent of the accusation, and the state is kept from committing a crime to punish a crime.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE SINGERS

April 10th is the date for the appearance here at the Opera House of the Boston Opera House singers and already there is a lively interest in the engagement. Among the artists to appear are Mlle. Evelyn Scotney, Ericstine Gauthier, Myrna Sharlow, Messrs. Alfredo Ramella, Jose Mardones, Raoul Romito, Rudolphe Polsari and others. The program to be rendered will include the garden scene from "Faust," "Martha," in English, the third act from "Rigoletto," the sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor" and several other numbers.

Merrimack Square Theatre

When it comes to gathering interesting novelties Manager Carroll of the Merrimack Square theatre must be reckoned. This week he had the talking pictures and next week, aside from doubling them over he has arranged an all feature program that's as good as anything Lowell has seen in a long time. As aforesaid the talking pictures have been held over and will be presented with an entire change of subjects. There will be an excellent variety, but perhaps the best known of them all is the speech made famous by Patrick Henry. This is declared by everyone to be the most notable achievement yet made by the talking pictures. Every word in this famous speech is in perfect accord with the picture, while the sound is as clear and distinct as if the speaker were on the stage in reality.

The Temple Players are to be here again. That ever popular band of fun makers back again with all the old favorites and a new offering. Other offerings of more than ordinary merit include Grace Young and company in the one act playlet, "At Rainbow Bridge;" Dora Rhanes, the gypsy violinist and Marie Lavant, the silver voiced song bird.

Moving pictures of St. Patrick's day parade celebration taken today will be shown at all performances next week. If you were along the route of the parade you most likely got your picture taken. Come and see yourself next week. Other photo-plays include "The Battle of Bloody Ford" and some excellent comedy subjects. For the Sunday concerts to be given tomorrow a special program has been arranged.

Keith's Theatre

The success scored by the Thomas A. Edison talking motion pictures at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, has prompted the management to reach out and secure the very best subjects on the market at the present time, for the presentation next week. "The Temptations of Faust," a picture and record modelled after the world famous story, should bring to the minds of vaudeville goers the possibilities to be achieved in this new entertainment medium. The pictures of the present week faintly intimated what is to come in the future. Truly Shattuck, one of America's best known singing comediennes, will appear in the second act of pictures. In this she will sing her latest song hit, "When Mother Was Twenty-One," and a medley of the older songs. Miss Shattuck's voice records wonderfully well, while her wholly charming personality appears in the pictures. By special request the lecture picture of the present week will be shown. "The Telephone Girls," a plump half dozen, with Eddie Drake as their comedian, will hold down the second spot on the bill. With a tuneful extravagance they will delight all, for they are really pretty young women, with splendid voices and with a vehicle which is all new. Britt Wood, widely known as "The village rot-up" and the "town clown" will give his inimitable mouth-organ solos. Britt will also talk some, said talk being of a nature to arouse interest in the dullest soul. He is like unto no other entertainer. Arthur, Richards & Arthur, two young women and a man, have a dancing and singing novelty, while Courtez & Florence will present "The Tamer," a little sketch with an air of probability to it, and which is very cleverly done. Everywhere this pair have been the success of the sketch has been emphasized. Penn & Klaus, German dialect comedians, maltreat the English language in a laugh provoking manner, and Lewis & Chaplin, "Just Nonsense," sing and talk and dance. The acrobatic feature of the bill will be that given by the Meanade, a man and woman, whose lightning-like celerity will astound audiences. Good tickets for all performances during the week may be obtained in advance at the box office. Tomorrow afternoon and evening the special Sunday entertainments will be continued.

Concert by Hoffman Quartet

An event that promises to be the musical treat of the season, to lovers of music, is the concert by the famous Hoffman string quartet of the Boston Symphony orchestra, assisted by local talent, that is to be held in Associate hall, tomorrow afternoon, in aid of the Knights of Columbus building fund. The opportunity to listen to a concert by the four artists that compose the Hoffman band of musicians is, indeed, a very rare one, and one that does not come to the lot of the people of this city very often. This quartet is eagerly sought for by all musical organizations throughout the entire country and it has engagements running well into next year already on its book, which would not be the case if its equal as a string quartet could be secured.

Four talented musicians with each and every one an expert on his own respective instrument, playing classical melodies that have come down the ages and have survived, is what is awaiting the ears of the people of this city in this concert.

In addition to the Hoffman group, the committee in charge has arranged with Miss Katherine Mullen, a local soprano, whose merits as a singer need not be retold in this instance and Miss Ouida Bissonnette, an accomplished pianist, to appear and contribute to the program.

The Playhouse

The matinee performance of "The Minstrel of Clare," at The Playhouse this afternoon will not start at 2.15 o'clock, the usual time. Instead the curtain will go up on the first act at 2 o'clock to accommodate those who desire to see the parade. It is expected that the line will have passed the down-town section by this time. Next week Mr. Weston is to present The Drama Players in Preston Gibson's interesting American romantic comedy drama, "The Turning Point." The piece is one which enjoyed a successful run at The Hackett theatre, New York City. At that time the press and public of the metropolis endorsed the offering as one of the very best of its kind that New Yorkers had seen in seasons. The story of the play is unusually interesting and it has features attached to it that should appeal strongly to all. There is sufficient humor in its lines to satisfy all, in staging it Mr. Weston will again demonstrate his worth as a producer of unusual merit. Mr. J. Anthony Smythe and Miss Mann will appear in the leading roles and the others will be pleasingly cast. First performance Monday night. Prices 10 to 50 cents. Box office telephone 811.

drum and the cymbals was a great help to the young "soldiers," and their work was very commendable. The Cadets made a very fine showing and many a cheer and handclap they received on the line of march. The other officers of Co. A are: Arthur Desleges, captain; Joseph Dusseault, first lieutenant, and Aleide Bellefeuille, second lieutenant. The boys all carried rifles with the exception of the officers, who were equipped with swords.

Pulasky Hussars

About fifty members of the Pulasky Hussars, Polish society, dressed in highly colored uniforms and preceded by their fife and drum corps were next in line. They were led by Marshal Alexander DeLuga, who was mounted. He was followed by Capt. Benedict Lenard and men carrying the Polish and American flags after which came the members of the Pulasky Hussars all dressed in uniforms of crimson trousers, blue coat trimmed with white and black helmet with large plume. The above society made a very good appearance.

DIVISION TWO

Made Up of Local and Visiting Hibernian Divisions—County President Chief Marshal

Division Two was made up mainly of local and visiting lodges of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and it was one of the most attractive in line. County President James J. Harold of the A. O. H. was the division marshal. He and his staff were mounted and made a fine display at the head of the division.

The wearing of the regalia, similar for every division, attributed a neat effect to the marching of this body and this was emphasized by the fact that the marshals were distinguished in their rank by white sashes instead of green, while the officers wore the green sash and were distinguished by their frock coats and high hats. The Manchester Hibernians turned out in great numbers and vied with the others in attractive appearance. The Nashua members of the order to the extent of two divisions, one from Lawrence and the fourth division coming from Andover, completed the splendid array. The Spindle City band marched ahead and the division marched to the tune of lively Irish airs.

Division 1, A. O. H.

About 200 men turned out to swell the ranks of Division One, one of the oldest divisions in the state of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and formed the first section of the second division of the parade today, and the body was led by Marshal Jeremiah J. Connors and his aids, John Hughes and Charles Howe, all three being mounted. They were dressed uniformly in frock coats, high hats, white duck pants and dark leggins, wearing white gloves, and Marshal Connors wore a white sash. The sashes of the aids who rode behind Mr. Connors were green. To keep up the custom followed by the other Hibernian division, the forward platoon comprised the officers of the division, who wore tall hats, dark clothes and white gloves, and the regulation green sash of the order. The body of the division wore the customary insignia of the Hibernian order, consisting of the blue cap with green and gold trimmings, the green sash worn over the right shoulder, badges, belts and white gloves. They formed an attractive first rank for the Lowell section of the second division of the procession and received favorable comment along the course followed by the societies. A barouche accompanied this division, bearing Messrs. John O'Hare, Michael Linane, Terrence Gray and Charles Callahan.

Division 2, A. O. H.

Division 2 of the Hibernians beautifully accomplished its part in upholding the splendor and high standard of appearance in the parade of the order in general and as they passed the reviewing stands they were accorded a round of applause. They marched to the lively music of the Fr. Mathew Fife and Drum corps. The ranks were made up of about 125 members, dressed in the customary regalia of the order, including the blue-black caps, adorned with a band of tinsel and green border, green sashes, belts and swords, and white gloves. The officers presented an attractive appearance. Two of the officers carried batons, and the others blackthorn sticks. They wore tall silk hats, frock coats, dark trousers and white gloves. The marshal and his aids were mounted and led the division. They, too, wore the silk hat, prince Albert coat, white duck trousers, black leggins and tan gloves. Marshal Timothy J. O'Connor wore a white sash as a distinction of his rank while the aids wore the regulation green sash. This division well deserved the applause which it received from the spectators along the line of march.

Division 11, A. O. H.

With an attendance and general appearance well up to the mark of excellence which was in general set by the Order of Hibernians in this procession, Division 11, well known because of her energetic spirit in all such events, commanded the attention and admiration of the spectators as they marched along in their place in the second division together with the other A. O. H. divisions. Marshal John T. Hendricks led this body of men, and his staff of aids came next, the front platoon being made up of President John Meinerney and the other officers and some of the past officers of the division was similar to that of the others of the Hibernian order.

Division 28, A. O. H.

Patrick McCann, a prominent member of the Hibernian order was the marshal and the leader of Division 28 in the parade and he presented a very neat appearance in his high silk hat, Prince Albert coat, white duck trousers and leggins, and mounted on a spirited horse. He was accompanied in the lead of the division by the following aids also mounted, James Sullivan, John Carville, John Lester and Mr. McLoughlin, all similarly attired as himself, only wearing dark trousers. All carried riding whips and wore white sashes. The division, one of the strongest and best known in the order comprised about 250 men in line, marching with an easy swing to the music furnished by the Brookline fife and drum corps. They wore the attractive uniform consisting of the dark caps with green adornments, green sash, belts and white gloves and carried canes. They were a strong factor in the appearance of the order and received their generous share of the applause from the enthusiastic spectators.

Division 8, A. O. H.

No less attractive than the others was the appearance of Division 8 of the Hibernian order. The marshal of Division 8 was Mr. Thomas Reynolds and he was in the lead and mounted, accompanied by a corps of aids. The officers formed the front rank in a well arranged platoon and wore frock coats, silk hats, white gloves and green sashes with the exception of President Daniel F. Reilly who wore a white sash similar to that of the marshal, to distinguish his rank. In this platoon were Andrew E. Barrett, Thomas Dorcy, Patrick Finnerty, John C. Rourke, John Barrett, Nicholas Sorcghan, Michael Monahan and Patrick Heslin. All were attired as was President O'Reilly, but wore green sashes instead of white. The division itself, numbering in the neighborhood of 350 men, wore the usual regalia worn in affairs of this kind, consisting of the dark cap with green trimmings, green sash and white gloves. They were arranged in an attractive manner and won the admiration of the spectators. They, too, bore up the standard of the A. O. H. in general.

The Manchester Hibernians

Immediately following the five Lowell divisions of Hibernians came divisions from Manchester, each comprising a large body and all together numbering considerably more than 1000 at a rough estimate. Great spirit was shown by the Manchester Hibernians in coming to this city in such large numbers to participate and assist in the celebration of the feast of St. Patrick. The marshal in general of all four of these divisions was Patrick H. Malley, and he, like the others, had a corps of aids following him and assisting in directing the movements of the division.

Other Hibernian Bodies

The final section of Division 2 of the parade comprised four Hibernian divisions, including Divs. 1 and 2 from Nashua, and Division 3 from Andover. They were accorded the same hearty reception and received the same favorable comment from all as did the other visitors, showing that the spirit manifested by them in coming to this city to parade was not unappreciated. Mr. B. F. Dunn of Nashua was the general marshal of this section and with aids chosen from the various divisions, marched in the lead.

DIVISION THREE

Made Up of Holy Name Societies of the Various Parishes Had Large Turn-Out

Division 3 of the parade, comprising the men of all the Irish Catholic parishes of the city, and some of the surrounding towns, and including the various branches of the Holy Name societies, was one of the largest and most imposing in the parade, having nearly 2,000 men in the parade. This division was led by General Marshal Thomas J. Fitzgerald and his staff of aids, mounted, and wearing tall hats, frock coats, white duck trousers and black leggins and white gloves. The marshal wore a white sash. The Holy Name society of St. Patrick's parish came first in line, this distinction coming from the fact that it is the oldest in the city. The entire division, as well as the branch from St. Patrick's, was led by the Lowell Military band. A striking military touch was contributed to Division 3 by the company of O. M. I. Cadets, divided up into their various sections of infantry, cavalry and artillery and attractively arranged in the middle of the division.

St. Patrick's Holy Name Society

The Holy Name society of St. Patrick's parish bears the distinction of being one of the largest in the city and as it is the oldest, it led the division of Holy Name organizations. They turned out to the number of about 400 and the members wore dark colored suits, silk hats, white gloves and their coats were adorned with the beautiful badges of the organization. Their marshal, Thomas Mahoney, headed the society in the procession, accompanied by an escort of the aids and the officers marched in a special division immediately behind the marshal and his assistants. The chaplain, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, marched with the society. Music was furnished by the Lowell Military band. The Junior Branch of the society, 300 strong and accompanied by its own fife and drum corps, followed the senior branch. Altogether they formed a fine appearing body to lead the third division.

St. Peter's Holy Name

St. Peter's Holy Name society is well known as practically the largest in the city, and its members are possessed of a great spirit of enthusiasm. Thus it was in today's parade that they turned out with a delegation that well nigh reached the 600 mark. The well known Lowell Cadet band preceded them, furnishing music for the marching. Like the members of the same organization of the other parishes, the large body of men comprising St. Peter's Holy Name society were attired in uniform dark suits, derbies and white gloves and arranged in an attractive manner. The officers, of course, formed a special platoon in front and the body was led by its marshal, John J. McDonough, together with his staff of aids, all dressed in frock coats, high hats, and wearing white gloves. Rev. John F. Burns, spiritual director, marched with the society.

Immaculate Conception Parish

Charles H. Higgins was the marshal of the Holy Name society of the church of the Immaculate Conception, one of the largest as well as one of the most energetic in the city, which came next and the ranks of this organization was a great factor in the large turnout of the parish division in general. Following Mr. Higgins were his aids, and Joseph Dallagher, president of the society, with the other officers forming the first platoon.

O. M. I. Cadets

A beautiful as well as familiar feature of the procession was the appearance of Lowell's noted military organization of young men known as the O. M. I. Cadets, a well drilled and extremely neat appearing body as they swung along. The infantry section wore bright new uniforms, comprising blue coats, white duck pants, blue caps, and brown leggins. The cadets were led by Major Francis Haggerty and his staff, mounted, his staff including John Monahan, William Conroy, Owen Conway, Joseph Taff, Edward Lannon, Harry O'Dowd and Reginald Cox. They were followed immediately by the drum corps. Then came a big feature of the division in the form of a cavalry squad of 32 mounted cadets dressed in neat khaki uniforms similar to those of the famous "Rough Riders." Next in line was the regiment, in their new uniforms and finally the artillery and hospital corps. The entire company formed a sort of an escort to the Immaculate Conception Holy Name society which body it followed. Lieut. McArdle, military instructor of the order, marched with the cadets as did Chaplain Fr. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. The cadets won great applause along the route.

St. Michael's Holy Name

The Holy Name society of St. Michael's parish was a prominent and heartily applauded feature of the parish division and they turned out to about the number of 250. Marshal John Haviland, led his staff of aids and the other officers of the organization followed. Next came a barouche containing Rev. Fr. Shaw, pastor of St. Michael's parish, John McCluskey, first president of the organization, and other past presidents. Rev. Fr. Mullin, chaplain of the society, also marched with the body in the forward ranks. The Naval Marine band of Charlestown, playing lively airs, rendered music marching just before the society.

Sacred Heart Parish

That division of the parade comprising the Holy Name organization of the Sacred Heart parish, preceded by the Mission church band of Roxbury, won applause from their numerous admirers along the line of march and were commented upon very favorably by those in the different reviewing stands. They were a fine appearing body of about four hundred members, led by John R. Kiggins, their marshal and his several aids. The officers marched next in a division by themselves. Dr. James B. O'Connor and John W. Daly, aids to Mr. Kiggins, took charge of the division after the manner of lieutenants. All wore the badges of the order. The society was heralded by two large banners, one the United States flag and the Irish flag.

St. Columba's Holy Name

Another well known branch of the Holy Name organization was that of the energetic little parish of St. Columba in Pawtucketville and the members of this society manifested a spirit of enthusiasm in turning out almost to a man, their number exceeding 100. Matthew Wholey, the marshal was the leader and his staff of aids and the officers formed the front platoon of this section. The members were uniformly dressed and received an enthusiastic greeting from the spectators along the line.

St. Andrew's of North Billerica

One hundred and seventy-five strong, the Holy Name organization of St. Andrew's church of North Billerica made a fine display, each of the members carrying a United States flag and wearing the badge of the order. Rev. E. J. Cornell, pastor of the church, marched with the society in a prominent place. Music was furnished by the Norbury Mission Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, a bright body of musicians for whom there was considerable favorable comment. Marshal Thomas Sheridan led the society and the officers including President John F. Gannon, Vice President John S. Welch, Recording Secretary Bart Hayes, Financial Secretary Charles Hayes and Treasurer Timothy McCarty formed the front rank. The marshal and officers wore high hats, frock coats and light colored gloves.

St. John's Church, No. Chelmsford

The men of St. John's church in No Chelmsford turned out in large numbers in the parade as a sign of their interest in the demonstration and a feature of the delegation from this parish was the appearance of the Boy Cadets in full uniform. The Forge Village Fife and Drum Corps furnished the music for both organizations. The ranks included a large number from St. Catherine's parish in Graniteville. This section was led by Marshal Edward Tucke and his staff of competent aids, all attired in tall hats, frock coats and wearing white gloves. The music was lively and the men won the applause of the spectators as they marched along.

DIVISION FOUR

This Feature of the Parade Was Made up of Boys Who Made a Fine Showing

The St. Mary's Cadets of Lawrence had nearly 200 boys in line. They were accompanied by their fife and drum corps composed of 20 pieces, and they made a showing equal to any other military organization in the line. Wearing the regular cadet uniform and equipped with rifles, the members of this society have won fame in Lowell. They showed they were carefully trained to military marching and much credit reflects on Rev. J. A. McDonald, O. S. A., who has been in charge of the young soldiers for some time.

St. Joseph's Cadets

Three hundred of some of the best drilled boys in the country, the members of St. Joseph's Cadets of Somerville, who were accompanied by several members of the staff came next. The young boys arrived in this city on schedule time and with the St. Mary's Cadets of Lawrence formed the fourth division. They were preceded by their excellent fife and drum corps composed of forty pieces, and their general appearance could not have been better. They were commanded by Major Frank E. Clark.

DIVISION FIVE

The Irish National Foresters of Lowell and Lawrence Made Good Impression Along the Line

Division 5 was made up wholly of one organization, the Irish National Foresters with Mr. Jas. Cryan as marshal and Charles Shanley as chief aid. This organization is fast rising to a position of prominence in Lowell, its membership being at present over 250. It is a benefit organization whose headquarters are in Ireland, where the organization is one of the most patriotic in the land, appearing as it does on all occasions when national sentiment is to be represented.

Today's turnout was highly creditable both in respect to numbers and general appearance. The men marched splendidly as they are not strangers to public parades. The divisions from Lawrence also made a grand showing and the division as a whole won much applause along the route. It had its own band from Lawrence and carried the Irish flag with the stars and stripes. Mr. Thomas Nevins is secretary and James W. McKenna treasurer of the local organization. The visiting branches were entertained in Leather Workers hall after the parade.

DIVISION SIX

Made Up of Italian, Polish and Lithuanian Societies One of the Features of the Parade

The Italian society, St. Anthony of Padua, represented by about seventy members fully upheld the standard set by the other organizations that took part in the parade. They were led by Marshal Vincent Marotta and accompanied by the Umberto band of Lawrence. Mr. Frank George rode horse back. Each wore a dark uniform with badge and sash of red, white and green and also wore a small green flag. They carried both the Italian and American flags.

The Chrissopher Columbus society was represented by about 60 members and they were led by Marshal John Foullee, who was mounted. They were accompanied by a band and each member wore a sailor cap and sash. Both the Italian and American flags were carried and each member wore a society badge.

St. Joseph's Lithuanian Society

The St. Joseph's Lithuanian society turned out over two hundred members and they were preceded by the Italian band of Lawrence. Marshal J. G. Varoski rode horseback and he was followed by the flag carriers bearing the St. Joseph's society flag and the American flag. Each member wore a black cap and a military cape with the society colors, and a small green flag.

DIVISION SEVEN

Fine Display by Various Societies, the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus Bringing Up the Rear

The seventh and last division of the parade was composed of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum, whose marshal, Michael Kelley, also officiated as marshal of the entire seventh division, the Burke Temperance Institute, the Knights of Equity and the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, four large organizations, who made a wonderful display in keeping with the general high standard set by all of the organizations at the outset. Like the others, they received their large share of the applause and well merited applause it was.

C. Y. M. L.

The C. Y. M. L. of St. Patrick's parish made a good impression upon the spectators by their magnificent turnout. They were led by their marshal, Mr. Michael Kelley; next came the officers, Mr. Thomas McDermott, the president, and the others, forming the front rank and the body of the order, comprising about 250 in line, followed. All were dressed in dark colored suits, wore derbies and white gloves, and green badges. The C. Y. M. L., which is one of the best known societies of Lowell had many friends in line to greet them with cheers and handclapping and the visitors and others in the reviewing stands made manifest their approval. Humphrey O'Sullivan rode in a barouche with the officers of the society.

Burke Temperance Institute

Marshal John E. Lawney led his men, consisting of the members of the Burke Temperance Institute, before the reviewing stands and along the line of march as the second section of the final division of the parade, and on all sides were heard words of appreciation and approval of the approximately 150 men. Following the marshal were his aids and in the front rank were President Patrick Mahoney and his fellow officers. They wore frock coats and high hats. The members and officers alike wore the blue temperance badge in a conspicuous place on their coats, and they were green carnations, supposed to be imported from Ireland. In the forward part of the society division was carried the large blue banner of the institute. Music for this society was furnished by its own fife and drum corps.

Knights of Equity

Another feature of the last division of the parade to receive a prolonged round of applause from the spectators was the Knights of Equity, who about 75 strong marched behind their marshal, Mr. Leo Molloy and his staff, the latter members being mounted and wearing the customary dress as an insignia of their rank. All the men wore derbies, dark colored suits, white gloves and looked well.

Fourth Degree, K. of C.

The Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, augmented by about 25 of the same order and marching to the music of the Lowell City band, formed a most beautiful and admirable organization to bring up the rear of the parade. Dr. T. F. Carroll was the marshal of this order. The Knights wore frock coats, black trousers, gray gloves and silk hats. They also wore their swords and baldricks and the badge of the order. The band, as the society marched past the reviewing stand at St. Patrick's church played the "Ironclad march" by Gounod, in honor of Bishop Anderson, the piece being procured especially for this occasion by Dr. Carroll. This was perhaps the first time it has been played by a band in the city of Lowell. The first rank of this section was composed of the officers of the order and the others followed. It was a most imposing display and won great applause from all as the members executed various marching evolutions, sometimes marching in the form of a cross and at others in other formations that would do credit to well trained military men.

The front rank of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus was made up of the following officers:

F. M. Dr. Thomas F. Carroll, F. C. Thomas J. Beane, F. A. Edward Cawley, F. P. Frank Mealey, Faithful Friar Rev. Francis J. Mullin, F. C. Fred Rooney, F. P. John A. Quinn, F. S. Jas. A. McKeon, I. S. Thomas P. Delaney, O. S. Peter A. Paradis.

The Decorations

An account of the decorations along the route appears elsewhere.

Met With Painful Accident

John J. Honan, of 25 Ames street, met with a very painful accident this morning at the Dennis Machine Company's shop, where he is employed. A bar of pigment iron fell from a bench and struck him in the left foot, crushing the great toe badly. Mr. Honan was taken to the Emergency hospital at once where his injury was quickly dressed. Although the injured member will lay him up for some time he was very fortunate to escape without having the entire foot crushed for the lump of iron was a large one and would undoubtedly have broken all the bones in his foot if it had landed fully upon it.

WORST STOMACH TROUBLE ENDED.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Lowell people testify.
Can you ask more convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. Catherine Neal, 62 Cosgrove St., Lowell, Mass., says: "I am only too willing to publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills in return for all they have done for me. I used this remedy in England when suffering from kidney complaint and was greatly benefited. Whenever a cold settles on my kidneys, backache follows, and last winter I was suffering terribly in this way. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured the attack. Since then, I have had no cause for complaint."

A CHILD'S WASTE CLOGGED BOWELS.

Makes it Cross, Peevish, Restless and Feverish—If Tongue is Coated Give "Syrup of Figs."

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get billous and constipated just like grown-ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen, Mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

BOY DIES OF LOCKJAW

Frederick Mason, a Lynn Lad, Was Injured by Electric Car One Week Ago

LYNN, March 29.—From tetanus, which resulted from injuries received when he was struck by an electric car on Western avenue, a week ago, Frederick Mason, an 11-year-old deaf mute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason of 17 Laighton street, died yesterday at the Lynn hospital.

When the boy was injured the skin was stripped from his right leg from the knee to the ankle and the limb was badly crushed. His mother volunteered to submit to the loss of much skin, which was to be grafted to the boy's leg, but when all preparations for the operation were completed, indications of lockjaw were noted and the boy's condition rapidly became worse.

LAW MOVES SWIFTLY

Harry Vaglas, Just Back From Greece, Arrested and Arraigned at Brockton in 30 Minutes

BROCKTON, March 29.—Harry Vaglas, aged 28, was given an example of quick movements on the part of the police department and police court yesterday. Harry formerly lived at 18 Everett street, but went to Greece after he had bought a ring and watch of S. E. Grossman, a local jeweler. The latter secured a warrant for Vaglas, but it was never served.

Yesterday Vaglas returned from Greece. He reached Brockton at 8.20. At 8.40 he was arrested by Inspector Brouillard and at 9.10 he was arraigned and sentenced to one month in the house of correction. He pleaded guilty to the charge of concealing leased property.

TWO HURT IN COLLISION

Auto Wrecked and Horse Killed in Crash

BOSTON, March 29.—Two men, one of whom the police say was learning to operate an automobile, narrowly missed death, the automobile was wrecked and a horse probably killed in a collision of an automobile and a team at Medford square, Medford, last night.

John F. Carr of 65 Walker road, Swampscott, was learning to drive the motor car, according to the police, and had an instructor with him. As they entered Medford square the automobile struck a horse hitched to a delivery wagon, swerved and crashed into a water hydrant.

Both Carr and the other man, whose name the police did not get, were thrown from their seats to the pavement. Both were badly cut and bruised and may have sustained internal injuries.

The automobile was shattered by the hydrant and the horse was knocked down and badly lacerated.

Destructive of Poultry Life

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Whether the concussion from the fire of the great naval guns kills chickens and geese in the shells is a fact, Secretary Daniels of the navy department has been called upon to answer. He received a letter today from a woman on the Virginia coast near Cape Henry charging that the target practice of the battleship fleet in Chesapeake bay and even in the ocean outside was destructive to all poultry life in egg form. Even as she wrote she declared the heavy guns were booming and she estimated that she had lost $75 in eggs. The inspector of ordnance at Indian Head already has reported that the heavy gun fire at the proving ground apparently did not in the slightest degree affect the fowl, which were hatched and raised in great numbers as close as 500 yards from the guns.

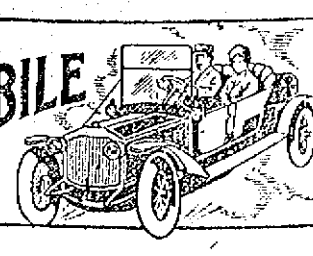

Loan of $10,000,000 to China

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Wilson learned today that an American financial syndicate stood ready to furnish the republic of China a short term loan of about $10,000,000 and would later negotiate a long term loan up to $100,000,000 or whatever should be China's need. The syndicate has asked for assurances that the United States government would not participate in any way in the negotiations.

Gov. Rivera of Lincoln Lost

NOGALES, Ariz., March 29.—Gov. Felipe Rivera of Sinaloa is reported to have been lost at sea while being taken on a military transport along the Pacific coast. He was arrested at his state capital by Huerta military authorities and being brought to Mexico City for trial. After the boat left Mazatlan word was sent back that the governor had fallen overboard.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

ACTIVITY STILL REIGNS

Salesmen of the Local Agencies Busy

THE LIST OF PROSPECTIVE BUYERS IS QUITE LARGE

Other Interesting Items Culled From Auto, Truck and Motorcycle Circles

At the Lowell Automobile corporation's salesrooms in Appleton street the salesmen, Milo Hale and Dan Cullay, are as busy on prospects working up during the Boston show, as are bees about a newly made comb. Milo and Dan are two of the most conscientious workers that can be found, and once they get anyone interested enough as to even tell the scent of gasoline, they work and work, until a sale is consummated. The results of their labors are quite apparent on all thoroughfares of this city as well as in the adjoining towns, for the Buick is more numerous than any other make of car.

During this week a consignment of three car loads of Buicks was received and unloaded by the mechanics of this firm and now await their respective owners. The salesrooms are daily visited by a continually increasing number of enthusiasts, which would convince the most skeptical that the pleasure automobile clientele is not on the decline as some think.

Fords Selling Fast

There is no apparent let-up in the sales of the Ford car at the Lowell Motor Mart at the corner of Merrimack and Tilden streets and Mr. Rochette, the proprietor of the mart and agent for this city and surrounding towns for this make of cars, reports as an average a sale each day, which is going some and a record that any auto dealer might well feel proud of.

F. M. Bill, Lowell's largest wholesale grocer with an establishment in Market street, is among the latest local purchasers of Fords, and he had such faith in the car and the man that is selling them that the telephone sufficed in making the purchase. It was not necessary to wait on Mr. Bill and explain the mechanism and merits of the Ford, it sold itself, through the way it has battled, like a gladiator of old, with all tests that it is possible to give a car, many of which had been made in the roads and hills of this city and nearby towns with Mr. Bill as an interested spectator. Mr. Bill lost a much higher priced car by fire within the past two weeks and his purchase of a Ford is assuredly a high compliment for this car.

International and Alco Trucks

The Ervin E. Smith company in Market street, agents for the International and Alco trucks, the lowest and highest priced trucks being sold, reports a very encouraging outlook for the coming season on the placing of these particular makes of trucks with the merchants in the city proper and the approximate towns. The International as is well known, has been the accepted light delivery wagon for many years, a position it obtained through the thoroughness with which it is built and the guarantee under which it is sold. In the Alco the company has the best and highest priced motor truck being built in this country. Of course, there is a reason for the difference in the price of this car and those of other truck builders, and it has become generally known among the public and motor propelled vehicle-needing merchants throughout the country, that the variance in the prices is but a secondary matter when the standup and lasting qualities of the respective makes are taken into consideration.

Two sales constitute the activity of the sales for this firm during the past week and both were internationals and were to A. B. Moore, the grocer of Tewksbury, Mass., and to the Turner Centre Creamery Co. of Thorndike street. A specially built body, which was shown at the Boston Truck show, was on the chassis sold to the Turner company. It consists of a full panelled body with ample room for the carrying of a good load of milk and cream cans.

Near "New" Car

Harry Pitts of the Pitts Auto supply in Hurd street received his big Palmer-Singer car from the paint shop yesterday after it had received an unfinished coating of battleship gray, which is the accepted color on automobiles for the 1913 season. Harry is never behind in the appearance of his car and when he received the "breeze" that the new gray was to be the color used extensively on the cars for this season he set at work to gather all the leading shades of this particular color. He then started in on a blending process to get a shade that while having gray principally in the body of the mixture would stand all the wear that the sun and rain could give it, which of necessity must come to it when it is on a car being piloted by the genial Harry, for the extensive business he does necessitates his attention always and the ground that he has to cover in making calls on his patrons is so great that the use of a motor propelled vehicle is absolutely necessary in the making of all the calls.

Harry was quite proud of the car yesterday and received many complimentary remarks from numerous bystanders very graciously and just to show that he was a staunch believer in reciprocity he threw one of his expansive smiles in return. The lights, brakes, speedometer and trimmings of this car have all been nickel plated and with the outlinings of the cars which are black, combine in making the car one of the prettiest seen hereabouts.

New "Couch" Side Car

One of the niftiest side cars for use with a motorcycle that has been seen in this city since the fad of bringing "another" with you on your motorcycle trips is the couch car that Mark J. McCann brought over the road from the manufacturers in Cambridge, Mass., yesterday morning. This new car is of recent design and Mr. McCann considered himself very fortunate in procuring one of the first that the company put out. The car resembles when viewed from the rear the rumble seat of a runabout automobile model, but has a greater depth than the "third seat" of an auto. From the front it presents a very inviting appearance with deep upholstery, that cannot but lend a great amount of comfort to the occupant, constitutes the inside. A large and roomy seat with a slightly reclined back contains ample space from the carrying of a good sized person with comfort. The chair is balanced on a three point extension so true that it will not act as a deterent in traveling at a good rate of speed, providing one desires so doing.

The car is painted in colors in accordance with the accepted colors of the builders of the various makes of motorcycles. Mr. McCann had quite a large number of callers to see the car last evening and he reports several excellent prospects. Sales and deposits on motor cycles are being received daily by Mr. McCann and he looks forward to a busy season.

Popes and Indians

Interest in the Pope and Indian motorcycles, which are sold by George H. Batchelder of Postoffice ave., is daily on the increase and the enthusiasts of this city who chat over the improvements made on motorcycles within recent years, while of a very critical mind in general, speak highly of the many merits and advantages of owning an Indian or Pope. Many deposits and completed sales are already on Mr. Batchelder's books for early-season deliveries and if present orders foretell, the interest in riding motorcycles is growing daily and the demand for cycles this coming season will be far greater than ever before.

Reo Car Sold

Geo. F. White, agent for the Reo car, reports the sale of a car during the past week to Arthur W. Goodwin of 251 Appleton street.

FLOODS CAUSE SHORTAGE

New York's Food Supply is Cut Off

NEW YORK, March 29.—Not a pound of butter was brought into New York yesterday and the price went up four cents a pound. The milk supply also was inadequate, up-state floods making it impossible for shipments to reach the city.

Dealers declare that there is but three days' supply of meat in the city, and unless trains now stalled in the flooded districts reach here early next week New York will face a meat famine. Eggs and other foodstuffs also were advanced in price today.

To Impeach More Sheriffs

AUGUSTA, Me., March 29.—An amendment to include Sheriffs Wilbert E. Emerson of Penobscot county and John W. Ballou of Sagadahoc county in the impeachment proceedings instituted by Governor Haines against Sheriff Lewis W. Moulton of Cumberland county for alleged failure to enforce the prohibitory liquor law was offered in the house by Representative Newbert of this city, the democratic minority leader, yesterday, when the resolve for an investigation of the charges was received from the senate. The resolve as amended was passed. Mr. Moulton is a democrat, while the other two sheriffs are republicans.

An order introduced by Representatives Scates of Westbrook (democrat), calling upon Governor Haines to furnish the legislature with the names of the officials whom he mentioned in his message as being derelict in their duty, was passed. The amended resolve and order were to be considered by the senate late yesterday afternoon.

James McCrea Dead

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—James McCrea, ex-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, died at his home in Haverford last night.

Increase German Army

BERLIN, March 29.—The suggested increase of the German army will be voted without opposition except from the socialists who will resist as a matter of form according to the general opinion expressed by the newspapers here today. The government's financial proposals to cover the necessary expenditure connected with the augmentation of the forces on which the federal council agreed only with difficulty will, however, be subjected to severe criticism.

Report of Census Bureau

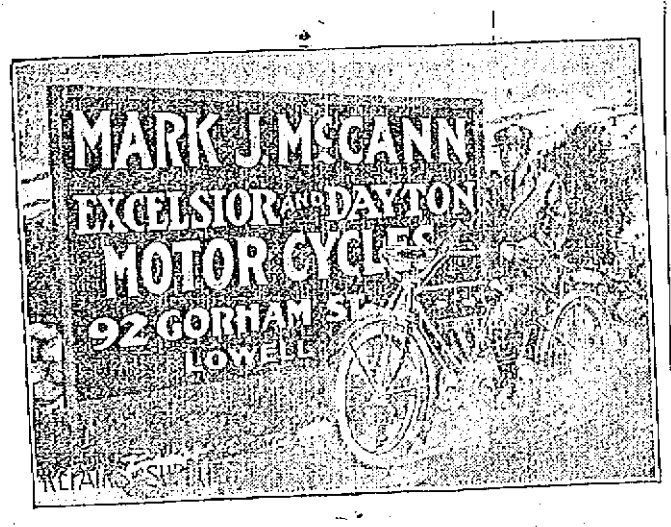

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The census bureaus today issued its report showing cottonseed statistics for the 1901 crop as follows:

Cotton seed crushed 4,549,935 tons; linters obtained 605,704 running bales; number of establishments 829.

Suffragettes to Siege White House

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Siege is to be laid to the White House by the suffragists, it was announced today at national headquarters as a result of the declination of President Wilson to include in his message to congress some reference to the suffrage cause. The president's declination was based on his belief that congress should take the first steps and that he would not be justified in inaugurating such a sweeping reform through recommendations. Miss Lucy Burns, one of the White House visitors, declared the reception of the women was pleasant and the conference was "spontaneous." She was accompanied by three other leaders in the suffrage movement.

"We are liable to have many more of these spontaneous meetings with the president," said Miss Burns significantly. The women openly expressed their disappointment at the failure to induce the chief executive to make mention of the "cause" and reprisals were openly discussed.

Attempt to Kill Diaz Denied

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—Denial was given yesterday to a report that an attempt had been made for two women to assassinate General Diaz at the hacienda del Christo, where General Diaz is resting.

1009 KILLED

Continued

"A month ago famine appeared in Adrianople. The food remaining was divided between the troops and civilians but the last few days starvation was at hand. The soldiers received bread made of hempseed mixed with straw and some horseflesh. The inhabitants could be seen by the besiegers gathering roots and plants hoping thus to find some kind of food."

Capture of Shukri Pasha

LONDON, March 29.—The honor of capturing Shukri Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief of Adrianople, with his headquarters staff, belongs to the Twentieth Servian regiment of infantry.

An official statement issued here today said that Shukri Pasha, two other Turkish generals, 22 field officers and 150 junior officers were in Hadwerlak to the northwest of the city when the Servian regiment stormed and captured it. On the following day Shukri Pasha was handed over by the Servians to General Nikola Ivanoff, the Bulgarian commander-in-chief. Seventeen thousand Ottoman troops also surrendered to the Servians and the quantity of war material captured by them in the taking of the city was enormous.

The Bulgarian headquarters staff has been informed that Servian cooperation with the Bulgarian troops is no longer necessary in the opinion of Servia and the withdrawal of the Servian forces from the vicinity of Adrianople will begin today.

Capture Turkish Leader in Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 29.—Shukri Pasha, the captured Turkish commander-in-chief of Adrianople, with his staff and seven other Turkish generals arrived here today. They were received with fitting honors. They will reside here during their captivity.

Bulgarians Pressing Forward

LONDON, March 29.—The Bulgarian troops pierced the Tchataldja lines in the neighborhood of Lake Derkos on the Black sea today and are pushing forward victoriously on Constantinople according to a central news despatch from Sofia.

Lansing C. Bailey Dead

UTICA, N. Y., March 29.—Lansing C. Bailey, oldest son of the late F. H. Bailey, died today, aged 42 years. Mr. Bailey had been in poor health for several years. He had been a member of the editorial staff of the Utica Observer for the last 15 years.

Segregation Bill Defeated

DENVER, Colo., March 29.—The segregation bill was laughed to defeat in the house yesterday. Mrs. Agnes Riddle attacked the bill on the grounds that "fallen men should be segregated the same as fallen women." Rep Bills declared his willingness to insert a section providing for her suggestion.

"But there would be no men left," shouted Mrs. Riddle.

Whereupon the house burst into uproarious laughter, which lasted ten minutes. Upon roll call on the bill Mrs. Riddle rose and warned:

"Let him among you who is without sin cast the first vote."

No one voted.

Spalding of the New England Telephone & Telegraph company on or before next Thursday to discuss the requests made by the girls' union.

Last night a joint meeting of the executive boards of all seven Boston Electrical Workers' union was held, by order of Frank L. Kelley, international executive board member, to discuss the situation and make any plans necessary.

Today the arbitration board of the girls' union met to arrange details for its further request for a hearing.

"A NIGHT AT CABARET"

Successfully Given by the Bachelors

CLEVER ORGANIZATION DELIGHTED LARGE AUDIENCE

In Associate Hall Last Evening—All Members Greeted With Vociferous Applause—Dancing Followed

The Twentieth Century Bachelor club, a group of songsters and comedians, who by their artistic work in all the cities and towns of this section have added lustre to the name of Lowell as a musical center, gave their annual musical oddity and hop entitled "A Night at the Cabaret" in Associate hall last evening. It proved to be the finest show which the Bachelors have produced; and they have given the public some rattling fine shows. Not only was it a social success but it was a tasteful treat to all who take pleasure in sitting back and drinking in those delightful impressions that enliven the mind and quicken the heart when listening to the side-splitting sallies of comedians who get their comedy not from books but from nature itself, and to catchy, humorous and sentimental songs rendered with all the snap and jollity and sweetness for which these young men are justly noted.

Keenly attentive to every sound from the stage, people jammed the door, balconies and stairways during the "show" while half that number gilded about the polished boards when the alluring, intoxicating notes from the Bachelor's own orchestra sounded the introduction for the first dance on the programme.

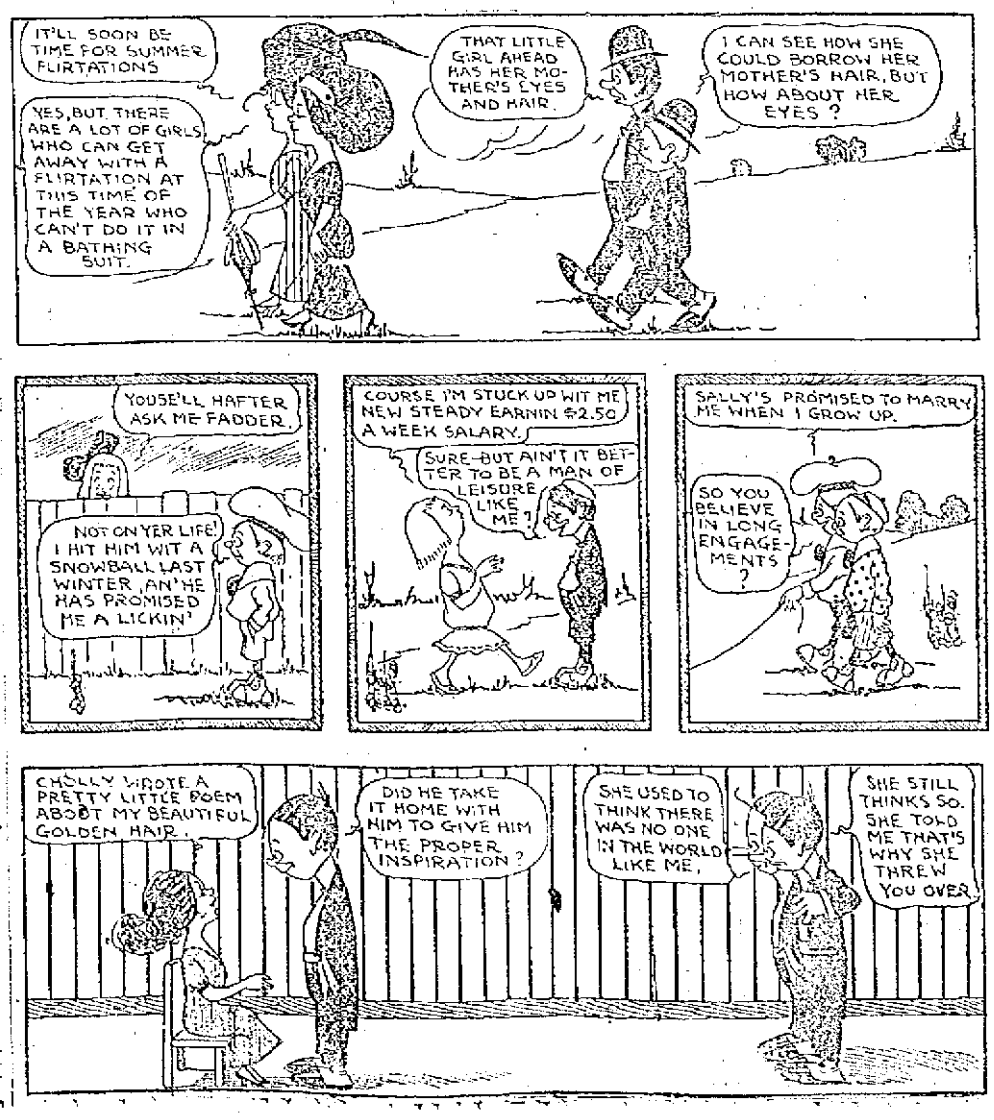

From the moment that the Bachelor's own orchestra struck up the first rode all was melody. That first note started on its merry way the Bachelor Club March, a medley of tunefui airs indissolubly joined together by the club's musical director, Mr. Richard J. Noonan. It proved to be a mighty catchy march and if the applause be any criterion, it was, too, a mighty successful piece of work. Each and every number was given in an artistic manner and space does not permit a justifiable criticism. Mr. John Devlin sung "Sweet Alleen Asthore." Jerry Langley gave "If I said Please." Mr. Kane McCarthy rendered "Last Night Was the End of the World." Jas. Roane took "McBride's Wedding Day," for his number. William Gookin's offering was "That's Why the Violets Live." Mr. William Marren entertained with "Low Bridge, Everybody Down." Francis Connor sang "In Twilight Town." Mr. Edward Shea delighted with "Don't Be Ashamed You're Irish." Commissioner James E. Donnelly rendered "My Dreams of You." Mr. Walter Davis' contribution was "That Broadway Glide." Mr. John J. Dalton gave "To Have, to Hold, to Love." "Good Bye, Sal" was the closing number on the program, Mr. John Gleason sustaining the solo.

The "oddity" having come to an end, the "hop" then began and continued until a late hour, the floor being thronged with dancers young and old.

The entertainment was under the direction of Mr. Charles D. Slattery, while Mr. Richard J. Noonan was the musical director.

The Old Lowell bank has received a contribution of $20 from Dr. William G. Ward toward the relief of the flood sufferers. The bank will be glad to receive any contributions and will see that the amounts are forwarded to the Massachusetts Red Cross society, in Boston.

MALLET LIBRARY

Was Purchased by L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique—District Council to Meet in Lynn

L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique which has three councils in this city, has again purchased the Mallet library, and the news of the transaction will be received with favor by the many members of the union. A few years ago the said library was purchased by the union, but later, inasmuch as the money for the purchase had been taken from the funds of society, the insurance commissioners ordered the union to sell the library in order to return the money to its proper fund.

At this time a movement was started among the members of the union to raise funds for the purchase of the library with the result that a few days ago the transaction was completed and the money was returned to its proper fund. The Lowell councils donated the following amounts toward the purchase of the library: Carillon, $25; J. N. Jacques, $24 and Laval, $5. The secretary of the committee on the library was Joseph F. Montminy of this city.

The quarterly meeting of District council, No. 7 of the union will be held at Lynn on Sunday, May 4. The affair will begin with a solemn high mass at St. Jean Baptiste church and will be followed by a dinner after which a public meeting will be held. The presiding officer of the day will be the substitute to the president general Joseph F. Montminy of Lowell. There will be delegates from councils from the following cities: Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport, Salem, Amesbury, Forge Village, Lynn, Danvers and Ipswich.

Jennings Found Guilty

BOSTON, March 29—"Guilty of murder in the second degree" was the verdict returned against James B. Jennings, the pugilist known as "Kid Carter," at 10.50 last night by a jury in the superior criminal court, for having shot William H. MacPherson in a barroom at Washington and Concord streets, South End, on Jan. 1.

Jennings heard the verdict with a sneer.

His counsel at once filed a bill of exceptions. The jury was dismissed by Judge Brown, and on the exceptions a continuance was ordered till April 26.

THREE CASES IN COURT

Few Offenders Before Judge Enright

The police court session this morning was a short affair, there being only three cases to dispose of. There were four releases by Probation Officer Slattery.

William W. Mulhinch was brought into court again, his case having been continued until today by the prosecution. Mulhinch pleaded guilty to stealing a roll of leather from the John Pilling Shoe Co. There was 185 feet of leather in the roll, valued at 13 cents a foot. Judge Enright sent the defendant to jail for a term of four months.

The case of James Smith, the 78 year old man, which was continued a week ago for this morning's session, was heard by the court today. The old man told the judge last week that he had a daughter living in Attleboro, but inquiries by the police failed to discover any such person as he claimed to be related to. He was sent to the state farm, from which place, he will probably be taken to the hospital at Tewksbury.

William H. Campbell, a second offender for drunkenness, was fined $6 and allowed two weeks' time in which to pay it.

Catholic Societies Honor St. Patrick---7 Divisions, 6000 in Line

With the sun shining brightly as though conscious of his duty on this day, with the streets of the city thronged with thousands of spectators, and with every condition ideal, the celebration of the feast of St. Patrick, postponed from March 17, was carried out today with the largest and most imposing parade of its kind ever seen in Lowell.

The local Irish and other Catholic organizations, augmented by five companies of the state militia and by Catholic societies from many other cities and towns, turned out to the number of between five and six thousand. In one respect at least, this procession possessed the quality of being unique, in that in it marched societies of other nationalities, including the French, Italian, Polish and Lithuanians, all of whom made a splendid showing.

Chief Marshal James J. McManmon, and Chief of Staff Thomas J. O'Donnell had good reason to be proud of the success of the grand event, the brilliant array of so many organizations, their fine appearance and the general harmony which prevailed throughout.

1000 KILLED AND 4000 WOUNDED

Servians Suffered Heavy Losses in Attack on Adrianople—Tales of Great Suffering

BELGRADE, Servia, March 29—The Servian troops suffered great losses in their attack on Adrianople. The Third and Fourth battalions of the Thirteenth column of Infantry lost 1,000 men killed and from 3,000 to 4,000 wounded, including one hundred officers. The first transport with about 1500 wounded is expected to arrive here today. Fears are expressed that the medical supplies are insufficient for the needs of the sick and wounded. With the Second column of the Bulgarian Infantry, the Thirteenth column of Servians received orders the night of March 24 to attack Fort Jout Tepelar. The Turks met the advancing infantry with a terrific fire. The Bulgarians were obliged to withdraw but notwithstanding this check the Third and Fourth battalions of the Thirteenth Servian column were ordered to take a position near the forts at all costs. Not only did they do this but they captured the fort itself. A Servian officer who was wounded at Adrianople said in an interview yesterday:

VIEW OF CHIEF MARSHAL McMANMON AND STAFF AT START OF PARADE

NOTES OF THE PARADE

A horse ridden by a boy in one of the Cadet companies in the parade tripped and fell on Merrimack street above city hall. The animal sustained a fracture of a leg and was shot by Dr. Hamblett. The rider escaped unhurt

While seated on the reviewing stand at city hall Lieut. Gov. Walsh saw a little girl barefooted on the sidewalk. He had the messenger go out and ask her into city hall and inquired into her condition and why she had no shoes. He instantly took up a collection, starting the list with a liberal donation for the benefit of the little girl who will have enough money to buy shoes and clothes for the rest of the year.

The appearance of so many nationalities in a St. Patrick's day celebration is unprecedented in this city. It may result in a more harmonious feeling among these different sections of the community.

The Mission church band of Roxbury, 75 pieces, led the Holy Name society of the Sacred Heart parish and rendered splendid music. It was the largest musical organization in line and was loudly applauded along the route.

How did those green bulletins of the Sun strike you?

Today we enjoyed special Irish weather.

The army of aids made a fine leading section of the parade.

The genuine Irish shamrocks furnished the aids by Chief Marshal McManmon from his flower store were greatly admired.

Lieut. Governor David I. Walsh arrived at the Northern station at 2.15 o'clock. He was escorted by his staff and was met at the station by Mr. James Hearn, secretary to the mayor, who represented the latter. The party were escorted to the reviewing stand at city hall, which they reached at 2.30 o'clock.

There is talk of changing St. Patrick's day from March 17 to March 29.

Mayor James E. O'Donnell, who served as an escort to the chief marshal, was one of the chief attractions of the parade. Mounted on the charger of the chief-of-police the mayor made a fine showing and was also given an opportunity to demonstrate his skill as a horseman, which is very good for an amateur. His Honor got to the reviewing stand before the parade broke up.

The Knights of the Sacred Heart of St. Joseph's school, of Somerville, an organization of boys made a great hit in the line. They wore a uniform of red coats and white duck trousers. They marched splendidly.

The Lord was good to the Irish today; the streets had been dirty and He sent rain to wash them; they were dusty and the floods laid the dust; the sun was hidden and he caused it to shine gloriously upon the paraders this afternoon.

That division comprising the Holy Name societies which marched in the grand procession drew the attention and admiration of all the spectators because of their large turnout and attractive array.

The merchants and others who decorated their places deserve commendation for their promptness and generosity in responding so willingly to the call, and lending to the city a festive appearance.

Out of the apparently indistinguishable intermingling of societies at the starting place early in the afternoon, there evolved a parade such as has never before been seen in Lowell in honor of such an occasion.

There was decided "class" to the music rendered by the numerous bands and fife and drum corps which marched in the ranks of the various societies.

The prominent guests who viewed the event from the reviewing stands received a treat in the line of a large and well governed turnout, which well repaid them for their journey to Lowell.

The delegation of Gratton Guards from Lawrence did not reach Lowell until 2.45 p. m., a few minutes after the procession had started on their scheduled line of march. The special car which brought them to Lowell was derailed in Methuen and delayed the arrival of the guards for nearly an hour. They were quickly formed in line by their officers upon reaching this city and marched to city hall where they joined the parade and completed the remainder of the route.

In former years after walking or riding in a St. Patrick's day parade on March 17 there were always a number of cases of pneumonia resulting, some of which proved fatal. This year, however, no such result is expected as the temperature was very mild and just right for marching over such a route.

Gen. Diaz in Naco

NACO, Ariz., March 29.—General Pedro Velasques Diaz and his 600 federal soldiers who were attacked near this town by one thousand state troops yesterday are in Naco, province of Sonora, today, having cut their way through the federal after terrific fighting. Diaz left several dead with the intention of relieving the garrison at Cananea. The surrender of Cananea frustrated this plan and left Diaz to make his way back to his headquarters as best he could.

BOSTON'S FUND $105,551

For Relief of the Flood Sufferers

BOSTON, March 29.—Boston's fund for the relief of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers went into six figures today. The total amount subscribed up to this afternoon was $105,551.

Badly in Need of Food

CHILLICOTHE, O., March 29—(Via telephone to Columbus)—There are 15 known dead from the flood in this city. The waters have receded but the afflicted districts are badly in need of food and clothing.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the authorities much looting was reported to have taken place last night.

The town of Richmond, having a population of 250 inhabitants, a few miles south of Chillicothe, was literally wiped from the map. All the inhabitants are said to have escaped.

To Protect Banks

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., March 29.—Gov. Hatfield today declared March 28, 29 and 31 legal holidays, to protect the banks here.

Looters Driven From City

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., March 29.—Brookville is practically under martial law today and 20 men have been driven out of the city after they were discovered looting damaged homes and buildings.

12,400 Are Homeless

CINCINNATI, March 29.—In the six Kentucky cities across the Ohio river from here the authorities today estimated there were 12,400 persons already homeless and that more than 3500 houses are flooded. Newport, Covington and Dayton, Ky., immediately opposite Cincinnati are badly damaged by the water.

PROFUSE DECORATIONS

Along the Route of Parade

Many of the side streets in the vicinity of the route were also decorated. Many of them, such as Market street, had very elaborate decorations.

The American and Irish colors are floating throughout the city today in honor of the St. Patrick's parade. Many business buildings are lined with the stars and stripes and the Irish flag, and both flags are seen on many private residences. Probably in no part of the city are buildings more elaborately decorated than those in the vicinity of Towers corner. The old Washington tavern is very appropriately decorated and a painting of St. Patrick is placed in the centre. Another building profusely decorated is the birthplace of Cardinal O'Connell on Gorham street, which is covered with bunting, in the centre of which is the papal flag. Among the stores and buildings that were decorated on the route of the parade yesterday afternoon, are the following:

ANNUAL TEXTILE SHOW

Attracted Large Crowd to Colonial Hall

The annual Textile show, by the students of the Lowell Textile school, was given last night at Colonial hall before the usual large audience. This show is a feature of the school year at the Moody street institution and the profits are turned over to the athletic fund. Last night's performance was produced with the same smoothness that always has characterized textile shows in the past.

The entertainment was on the vaudeville plan and the different numbers were often encored. After the overture by Hibbard's orchestra an amusing skit entitled "Not in the Regular Army" was first put on.

Dancing was enjoyed after the show until 12 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of: Charles H. Rayner, business manager; William F. Casey, assistant business manager; George A. Messenger, stage manager; Charles Alexander, properties; George S. Kyle, head usher and doorkeeper; ushers, Charles E. Sylvain, Elliott B. Plummer, Edwin T. Laughlin, Arnold B. Adams, Charles Alexander and Ray Pillsbury.

First Hair Cut Since 1896

WASHINGTON, March 28.—"Tex" Watson of Tonopah, Nev., had his hair cut the other day and the event was momentous enough for Senator Pitman to inform President Wilson and send him pictures of "Tex" before and after. Watson vowed in 1896 that he would never shave or get his hair cut until a democratic president was elected. The pictures which came to the White House today showed that his hair descended below his shoulders.

Cellars Flooded in Springfield

SPRINGFIELD March 29.—The crest of the Connecticut river flood passed here early today and swept into the state of Connecticut. In this city the water reached a height of 29 feet, two feet below the record rise.

The flood caused no material damage in this vicinity so far as could be ascertained. A few cellars in the North End were flooded by water which backed up through sewer manholes.

Ballground Inundated

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29.—Manager Mike Kelley of the Indianapolis ball team took one good look at Washington park yesterday, then cancelled all exhibition games scheduled before the opening of the season on April 24 and made preparations to take the team to St. Louis to complete its spring training. The club's playing ground was under several feet of water during the flood.

THE GREAT FLOODS

Continued

Destruction in Southern Valleys

INDIANAPOLIS, March 29.—Final recession of the flood waters in Indiana today is expected to lift the veil that has covered whatever loss of life has occurred in the flooded cities in the Wabash and White River valleys, while the flood crest, sweeping down toward the Ohio is spreading wide destruction in the southern valleys of the rivers and along the Ohio.

Terror increases in Evansville, Vincennes and all the small towns along the lower Wabash with each hour as the swollen waters of the Wabash and White rivers in Indiana swell the crest of the lower river. If loss of life occurs it will not be for lack of warning as the people, fearing repetitions of the horrors in Central Indiana, are spreading warning of the flood's approach throughout the great valley that is threatened. Relief work in Peru, West Indianapolis and Brookville, the worst point of the flood's attacks are progressing rapidly. Sixteen bodies have been recovered in Brookville, 20 are known dead in Peru, but search of all West Indianapolis thus far has failed to establish any drownings. Several small fires in West Indianapolis last night destroyed or damaged a number of homes, fire companies failing to get any water from the city mains. Indianapolis street car service is rapidly becoming normal, but it will be several days before a pure water supply can be furnished.

Refugees in Indiana towns are receiving ample provisions and Gov. Ralston will investigate the needs of all flood sufferers. Three companies of state militia have been ordered to Logansport to assist in the relief work and West Indianapolis, under strict quarantine, is being cleaned and made sanitary safe for the return of the refugees.

Refugees Flock to Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—With the Ohio river covering the entire lower section of this city and with refugees from the stricken up-state towns coming in by hundreds Cincinnati this morning faces a situation that will require the combined efforts of all of its relief and civic organizations to cope with. Every hotel in this city is crowded to its capacity while every moving van, auto truck and freight street car has been pressed into service removing families from the floor area. The river reached the stage of 65.9 feet at daybreak and was rising at a rate of 1½ tenths of a foot an hour. More than 60 city blocks are under water whose depths ranges from between half a foot to ten feet. The city was practically cut off from traffic communication with Covington, Ky., last evening when the approach to the suspension bridge became covered with water at a depth that prevented car or foot service. A rise of another foot will put the South Covington and Cincinnati street car company's lines, which operates all street cars entering from Kentucky, out of commission owing to the fact that the power house will become swamped at this stage. The central bridge leading into Newport was abandoned early last evening.

The water reached the second floors of a number of business houses on Front street and was up to the first floor of several blocks of houses on Second street. Several lines of the Cincinnati Traction Co. operating in the lower district have been abandoned.

Reassuring word from the packers, commission men and general produce merchants came early today when it was estimated by experts that Cincinnati had enough food supplies to last at least ten days without inconveniencing anyone.

Sixty city blocks in Newport and Covington are under water and as almost all the manufacturing plants on that side of the Ohio are located in the lowlands thousands have been thrown out of employment.

Baseball Grounds Flooded

CHICAGO, March 29.—The St. Louis National league baseball team arrived here last night from flood-bound Indianapolis minus their uniforms, bats, etc. Manager Huggins reported that the equipment reposes in the club house at the ball park there with water up to the fence tops. The club left on a later train for St. Louis for their first game of the spring series this afternoon with the St. Louis league team. New uniforms and other paraphernalia await them there but many of them were put out over the loss of favorite bats and gloves.

Wife of R. R. President Rescued

CHICAGO, March 29.—President Brown of the New York Central railroad company arrived here last night with his wife whom he saved from the flood at Dayton. Mrs. Brown was none the worse for her experience except that she is suffering from nervous strain. She had been marooned since Tuesday morning.

Bodies Recovered at Zanesville

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, March 29.—(Via telephone to Pittsburgh)—Four bodies had been recovered up to 6 o'clock this morning and the flood in the Muskingum river had receded to Second street.

John L. Sullivan Starts Relief Fund

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—John L. Sullivan, who refereed a prize fight last night called on the crowd to "come through like true sports" for the relief of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers. The former heavyweight champion dropped $50 in a hat and started it on its rounds. Other hats went through the cheering assembly and a golden flood was poured into the ring. The donation totalled $3069.

22 Bodies Recovered

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—The known dead at the four little villages of Harrison, Cleaves, Valley Junction and new Bethlehem at the mouth of the Great Miami where it empties into the Ohio is 22. Twelve bodies were recovered at Harrison, two at Cleves, six at Valley Junction, and two at New Bethlehem. With the exception of the bodies of two men all have been identified.

Hamilton Death Toll 100

HAMILTON, O., March 29.—Less than 100 is the estimate today of the dead in the flood here. As the water recedes the evidence of the property destruction is more appalling, but the death toll it is believed, will not exceed 100. Piled high upon the east side of the court house are caskets awaiting the flood victims, whose bodies are being gathered as rapidly as possible. Militia are guarding the city everywhere and though there have been reports of looting there is not evidence that any ghouls have operated successfully. E. G. Ruder, cashier of the First National bank announced that the banks of Hamilton are in excellent condition and would be opened for business as soon as general conditions would permit.

Sec. of War at Dayton

DAYTON, March 29.—Secretary of War Garrison and his staff arrived at Dayton at noon and immediately went into conference with John Patterson, chairman of the committee of fifteen.

Genesee River Highest in History

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 29.—With the Genesee rushing into the city with a greater volume than in 1865, the time of the memorable flood, merchants are today moving their goods as rapidly as possible to places of safety and establishing temporary quarters. It is conservatively estimated that the damage to property will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Front, Mill, Exchange, Andrews, Graves and Aqueduct streets are partly submerged and relief parties are going about in rowboats, transporting marooned residents and carrying food supplies.

A report from Mount Morris says the rain has stopped falling and that the river is slowly receding. It is reported that water is covering the flats in the valley near Geneseo.

The river early today was about eight feet high at the Rochester dam, the highest mark in the history of the city.

Binghamton Free From Flood

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 29.—Binghamton is today practically free of the flood which covered it for 72 hours. Several residences in the West Side are still under water, rowboats being used to deliver food to the inmates. The property damage will not exceed $30,000.

Militia Called Out

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 29.—Gov. Major today ordered Adjutant General George O'Meara to take three companies of Missouri National guard to Mississippi county to protect property from threatened floods.

More Bodies Recovered

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—The work of the searching parties at work in the flooded district today increased the list of bodies recovered from the water to fifty-six. The water was subsiding materially and the work of rescue was thus made easier. Scores of big transfer wagons traversed the inundated streets of the flood district today, carrying relief to the hundred marooned in the upper stories of houses. Many of those marooned refused today to leave their homes, declaring that the worst was over and that they wished to stay with their property. The military authorities allowed hundreds to return to their homes in the flooded area to make repairs and clean up their houses. The health authorities took charge of the cleaning up process.

Parties of searchers were organized today to penetrate the great drifts of debris extending along the flooded river as fast as the water goes down in the search for bodies.

Syracuse Residents Fear Flood

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 29.—Three thousand residents along the valley of Nine Mile creek fear a flood from Otisco lake. The Syracuse and suburban water company has a large dam at Marietta and flood gates have been opened to lower the water. High water which covered many streets in the southern part of Syracuse has receded. Onondaga lake is rising and some lake resorts are partly flooded.

Oswasco Lake Showed Drop

AUBURN, N. Y., March 29.—The crest of the floods in this section of the state has been reached and this morning Oswasco lake showed a drop of several inches. Elsewhere conditions have greatly improved. In Port Byron the water has dropped 12 inches in the flooded area.

Floods In Buffalo Over

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 29.—The floods in this end of the state are practically over. West of the Genesee valley and in western counties along the Pennsylvania line the waters are receding rapidly. Farmers suffered heavily from loss of stock and ruined fields.

Greatest Flood In History

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—The greatest flood in the history of the Mohawk and Hudson valleys is passing. The river gauge at Albany at nine o'clock today showed a fall of more than two feet since yesterday afternoon when the flood reached its height.

Special Flood Bulletin

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Here is today's special bulletin issued by the weather bureau:

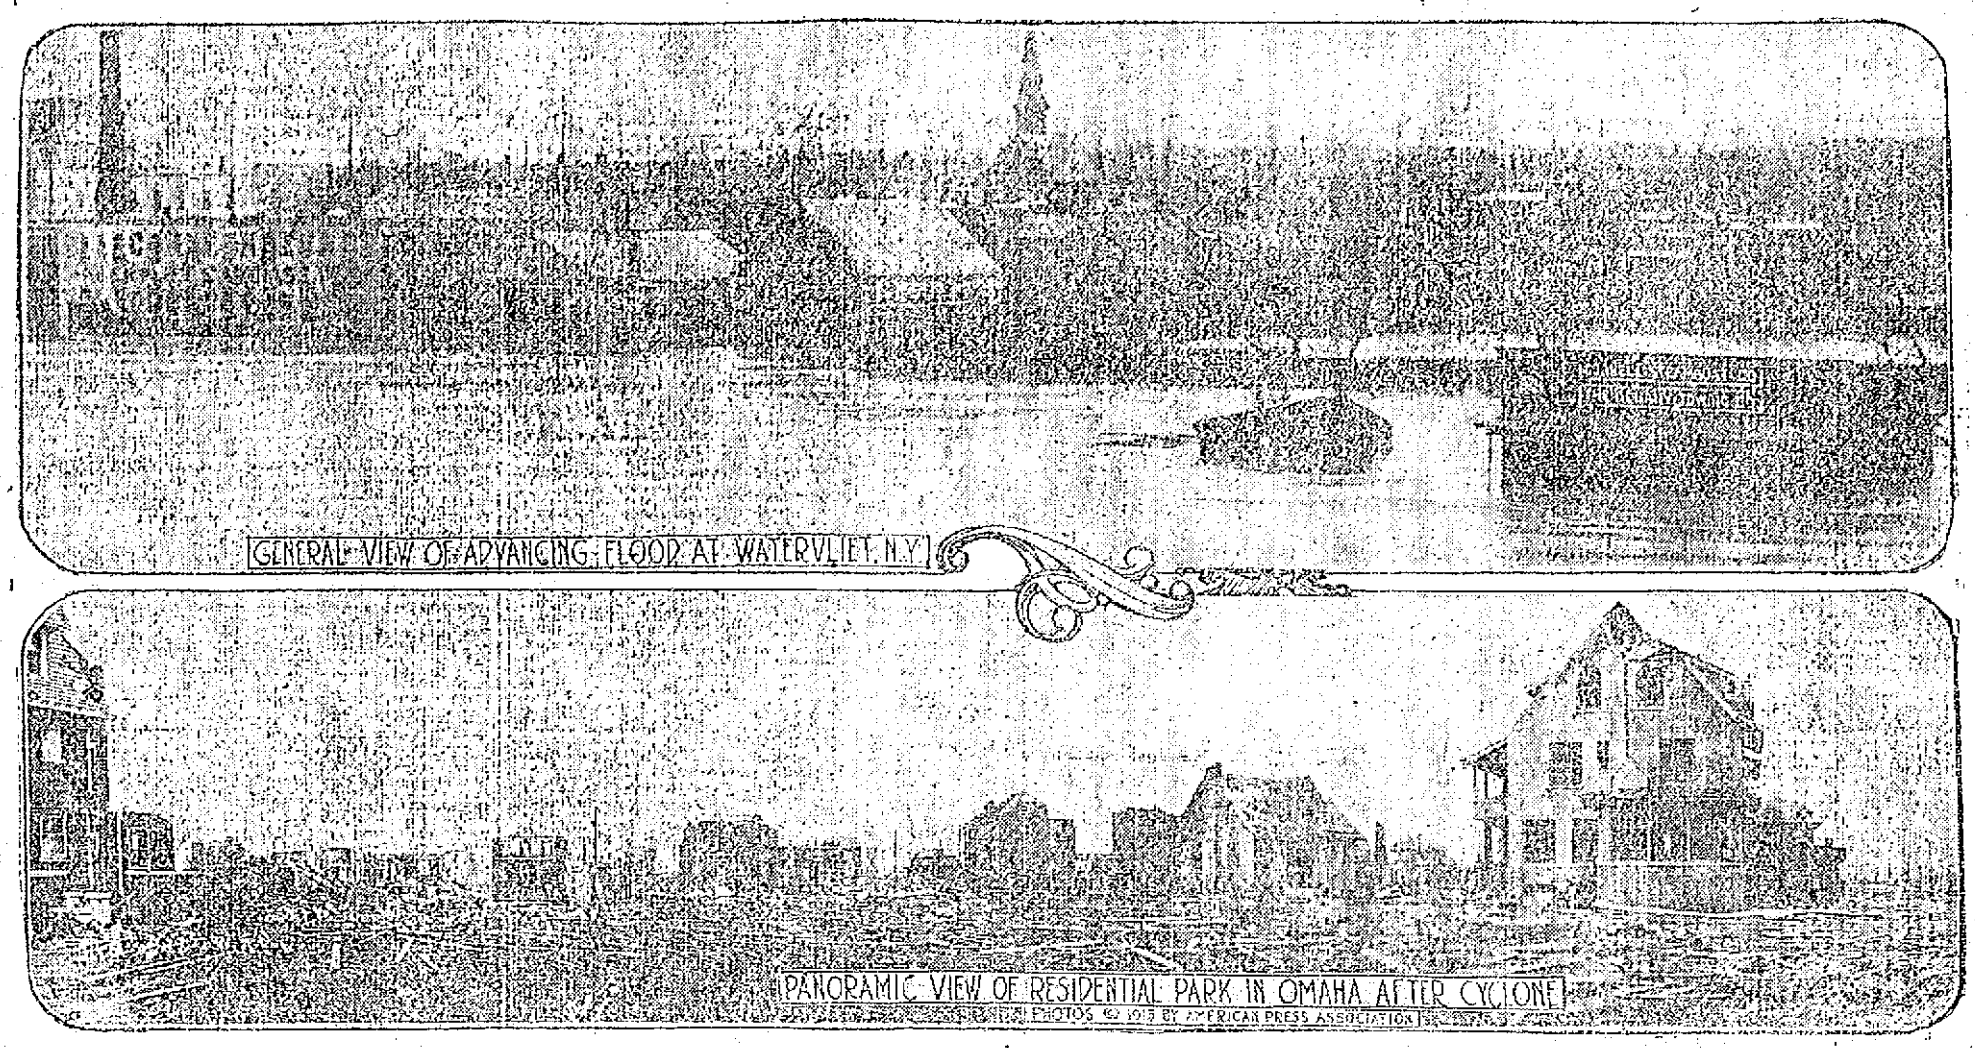

"The stage of the Ohio river at Pittsburgh Saturday morning was 24.5 feet, a fall of 5.5 feet since Friday morning. Reports from the stretch between Pittsburgh and Parkersburg are missing.

At Cincinnati the morning stage was 60 ft., 16 ft. above the flood stage and a further rise of about two feet is expected.

"Present indications at Cincinnati point to a somewhat crest stage than first reported about 65 feet, rather than 70 feet.

"At Louisville the morning stage is 41 feet, 13 feet above the flood stage. Another rise is expected.

"Reports from Evansville are missing. The last advices from that point indicated that the lowlands would be inundated last night. The Cairo stage this morning was 49.1 feet or 4.1 feet above the flood stage. The river at that point will rise more slowly for the next few days. The flood situation on the lower Mississippi remains unchanged."

Defaulted the Government

BOSTON, March 29.—Operations of smugglers of women's gowns at this port, as a result of which three arrests have been made, have defrauded the government of several million dollars in the past five years. This definite statement, made by a local customs officer today, is official confirmation of reports that a widespread conspiracy existed within the customs office. WASHINGTON, March 29.—Several telegrams were received by President Wilson today from people in Cincinnati urging that John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Co., convicted of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and sentenced to a prison term, be pardoned. The telegrams referred to Mr. Patterson's "heroic work and humanitarism." Patterson was convicted with many other officials of the company and all have appealed.

BROWN THERE IN PINCHES

Three Fingered Hurler Had the Class

Mordecai Brown, who hopes to be a regular on the Cincinnati Reds' staff this season, pitched many brilliant games for the Cubs, but none more effective and important than the playoff for the National league championship in New York Oct. 8, 1908. Brown's work that day showed his true class and proves that if his knee comes around all right he will be of greater assistance to the Reds. The Cubs reached New York shortly before noon on the great day and literally fought their way into the Polo grounds through the tremendous crowd which surrounded the gates and extended for several blocks down the street in front of the park.

Pfiester started out to pitch, but lasted less than an inning. A pass and a single put two men on, and then the left hander struck out Roger Bresnahan who first tried to bunt and then decided to wait for a base on balls and succumbed to Jack's curve ball. Donlin then doubled to right, scoring a run and leaving men on third and second, with only one out. Pfiester was relieved, and Brown went in to hold the Giants safe. He did so, laughing at the dangerous situation which confronted him. Brown struck out the next batter and then got the third man and finished a difficult round with only one run scored against the Cubs.

Chance's men fell severely on the great Mathewson in the third inning, when a pass, a triple by Tinker, a single by Evers and doubles by Schulte and Chance gave them four runs in a bunch, which was all they could score during the contest. Brown got by in his usual artistic manner until the seventh inning, when a pass and two hits filled the bases with Giants and no one out. The crowd was crazy with delight, seeing nothing worse than a tied score and, rooting like mad for the Giants to take the lead, as they felt confident that Matty could hold the Cubs safe for the next two innings. It was a ticklish place for a pitcher, but Brownie was equal to it. Chance, fearful that Brown was in bad shape, walked out to the box and said: "What's the matter, Brownie?" In a voice loud enough for all the infielders to hear him, Brown replied: "Nothing's the matter, Frank. I'll get 'em. Give me that ball."

He took the ball from Chance's hand with a movement of the most supreme confidence and stepped back into the box. His manner and their knowledge of the indomitable nerve inspired all the Cubs with a feeling that they could not lose and put them on their toes. Fred Tenney was at bat, with the bases full and no one out. His effort was a line drive to right field, which Schulte caught, the runner from third scoring after the catch. Larry Doyle, who was out of the game with a bad ankle, limped up to bat for the next hitter and lifted a high foul close to the grand stand. John Kling went back for it, ignoring the pop bottles and score cards which some of the more excitable fans tossed in his way to confuse him and made the catch. The third man was an easy out and Brown had gone by as tough a place as any pitcher was ever in, without damage.

The last two innings were a pipe for him, and the Cubs won the game and the championship, following this notable victory with a clean sweep over the Detroit Tigers in the world's series.

It was a splendid exhibition for Brown, whose calmness and guarantee in an emergency was reflected by his team. That was a great week for the Cubs, by the way. On Sunday they played the Pirates at Chicago in a game which would have given Pittsburgh the championship if they had won it. The Cubs won. Then they laid idle for three days, dashed to New York and played the memorable game, which would have given the Giants the championship if Brown had not been too strong for them. Then, two days later, the Cubs opened the world's series in Detroit and beat the Tigers in the first game of the world's series, which they eventually won—four games to one. So in one week they won three of the most crucial games ever played, and they did it on the nerve which kept up in the race for so many years and made them famous, besides coining a fortune for the owners of the club.

GEORGE E. WORTHEN

Elected Chief Marshal of Memorial Day Parade

At a meeting of the joint Memorial day committee, held at Post 120 hall last night, Comrade George E. Worthen was elected chief marshal of the Memorial day parade. Just as Mr. Worthen was about to respond in appreciation of his election as chief marshal, the sad news of the death of Colonel Royal S. Ripley was announced and the fifty or more comrades present received the sad intelligence standing and with heads bowed.

It was the second meeting of the committee and the chief of staff and other officers will be announced later. In accepting the position of chief marshal, Mr. Worthen said: "It may be possible that some of the comrades present may think that I have never served in this capacity before, but I did, and as far back as 1881." There was a twinkle in Mr. Worthen's eye as he said he thought it high time that his services were being recognized. "I have been playing second fiddle for you fellows for a number of years and if I do say it myself, I think the promotion well deserved." His comrades caught the spirit of his little banter and enjoyed it.

The joint Memorial day committee includes the members of the G. A. R. Posts 42, 120 and 185; Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans. Earl A. Thissell is chairman and Frank E. Peabody, secretary. Mr. Peabody is away from Lowell at the present time and Mr. Worthen has been acting as temporary secretary. Mr. Peabody will return to Lowell April 5.

Peculiar Shots in Golf

Many a tale has been told at the "nineteenth hole," where more golf is played than on the course, about freak shots; how a ball was hit so hard that a thorn was driven through it when it struck a bush or how a sparrow was killed on the wing or how balls have met in midair, but the latest comes from a player who resides not many miles from New York. He tells the tale as follows:

"The wind was slightly against us when we reached the fifteenth hole, and I decided to put a little extra steam in my drive. I hit a fine ball so far as distance was concerned, but it was off the line to the right, and a slice that developed carried the ball well over on to the adjoining fairway.

"There was a big cherry tree which prevented my seeing that my ball was about to strike a man who was in the act of playing the twelfth hole. He was on his downward swing for a full iron shot at the time. My ball struck his club squarely on the face, with the result that he sent my ball flying out of bounds."

It was only last summer that a Fox Hill golfer hit his ball out of the regular line, and it bounded merrily off into a bush. When he found the elusive sphere it was safely suspended in a cobweb of huge proportions, and not even a strand of the web was broken.

Perhaps no admonition is given the beginner in golf as often as "Keep your eye on the ball." It is the secret of success if a man has any ability at all, and to the novice it is one of the most difficult things to learn. J. H. Taylor, the famous British professional, classed as a wizard with his iron and mashie play, attributed his remarkable success to the knack of keeping his eye not only on the ball, but on the spot where it was, even after he had made his stroke.

The secret of this remarkable habit is said to be due to the practice he formed of stamping down the real or imaginary divot his club had cut.

BIG MATTRESS FACTORY

Owned by J. J. Doherty Who Purchased Land

HAS NOW 12,000 SQUARE FEET OF FLOOR SPACE

Mr. Doherty While Making All Kinds of Mattresses Makes a Specialty of Felt Quality

Some people in Lowell, perhaps, have never heard of the Lowell Mattress factory, which is located at No. 12 Hale street, formerly the Joseph Greene estate, and is owned and managed by John J. Doherty. The other day while passing through Hale street the writer met Mr. Doherty, an old friend of schoolboy days, and was pleased to learn from him that he had purchased the property on which he does business, and though not surprised, was pleased to hear of his success.

Mr. Doherty is a Lowell boy and after finishing his school days he engaged in the mattress business in the employ of the late Haygood Brothers on High street, where he was employed for several years, and where he learned the business in all its details. He left the employ of this firm to engage in business on his own account, and he has been continually increasing his business until at last he has purchased the property on which his factory is now located including his residence, and today the factory is one of the best equipped in New England, and mattresses of the very best quality are turned out by him at this factory. He has enlarged his business from a dozen mattresses a day, the output when he first started, to from 250 to 300 mattresses per day. He makes mattresses of any quality and description ordered, and his up-to-date machinery enables him to turn out fine work.

The building covers nearly 4000 square feet of land and comprises three floors, giving him a floor space of nearly 12,000 square feet. Going through this factory could be seen the mattress in all stages of manufacture. On the first floor is the sewing-room, where the ticking for the mattresses is stitched. This room is equipped with all modern appliances, and it is simply wonderful how quickly the mattress can be stitched, stuffed, sewed up and completed for the market by the aid of machinery designed for that purpose. There are many different kinds of machinery in the factory and they are quite expensive, one machine used for filling costing over $1000, but, as Mr. Doherty says, it is worth it. He said it is indispensable, and without it he would have to be satisfied with one-third of the business which he is receiving.

His trade is mostly supplying our local furniture dealers, and he supplies about every furniture house in the city in whole or in part. He also supplies most of the hospitals and hotels of our city with his mattresses. The mattresses are made of different materials, some are made of excelsior, others of silk floss, and others of hair, but Mr. Doherty's specialty is the felt mattress. This felt mattress is the popular mattress of today being durable, serviceable and comfortable, and the price is so reasonable that it is within the reach of everybody. Mr. Doherty is the only person in town who makes right in his own factory felt mattresses, or rather uses that material for stuffing. These mattresses are known as the Merrimack Brand, and are made exclusively in this city by the Doherty factory. On the second floor is located the office and stock room, and it certainly looked from the amount of ticking and other material used in the construction of mattresses that he had enough material on hand to take care of the mattress trade of New England.

The work rooms were a very interesting sight where men were busily engaged in preparing the felt which was passing from one machine to another until it had reached the right stage for the building of mattresses. It had a soft flexible, downlike texture, and is guaranteed not to get matted down to a substance that would in any way interfere with its comfort giving qualities. As Mr. Doherty says, which is quite true, his business furnishes more comfort to the human family than any other business, as nearly one-third of our life time is spent in peaceful rest and slumber, and without the aid of a restful mattress our rest would not be enjoyable.

There is no middleman between Mr. Doherty and the retailer. In many of the other big mattress establishments throughout the state they have to employ high priced drummers and salesmen going up and down the country getting large salaries for their efforts, and they also have expensive buildings to maintain, and the expense to the manufacturer, the drummers, and others add very materially to the expense of the average mattress, and necessarily somebody has to pay the bills, and, of course, it is the purchaser.

Renovating Mattresses

The sanitary condition of this factory is another feature that is looked after very closely, special care being given to the rebuilding and renovating of mattresses. Everything is scrupulously neat and clean in this place, and it is always in condition for public inspection.

It is a pleasure for one to unexpectedly run across an old school mate who has forged his way to the front from a very humble beginning to the owner and manager of one of the largest industries of this particular line in our city. He employs a large number of people in getting out his goods and his teams may be seen flying through the city here and there at all hours of the day. The Merrimack mattress which he called to my attention, he speaks of in the highest possible praise. The felt is a new find practically, and as he is the sole producer of this mattress he knows that there is a very great future for it, and that it will be only a short while before it takes the place of curled hair and other grades of material used in building mattresses.

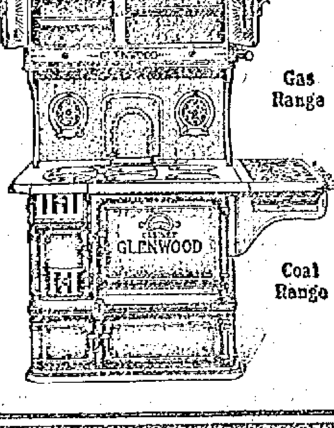

Honest determination to succeed, and a desire to do business above board and on the level with everybody has caused this thriving establishment to take root and develop in our city until it has reached the size we find it today. April 1st is known as the day on which Lowell's home made goods are exhibited, and Mr. Doherty will certainly fill an important part with the products of his factory. Mr. Doherty has our best wishes for future success.

JOHN WOODBURY KERNAN

Elected Superintendent of Park Dept.

THERE WERE MANY CANDIDATES FOR THE POSITION

Tribute to Late Freeman B. Shedd—Mr. Whittet's Work Praised—Moody School Steps Question Settled

John Woodbury Kernan of this city was elected superintendent of the park department last night by the park commission. Mr. Kernan is a civil engineer and is said to be a very capable young man. He will succeed Charles A. Whittet whose term of office expires today. There were a number of candidates for the position and the board, after looking him up, selected Mr. Kernan. Judge Pickman did not vote for him, but his inclinations were favorable. Judge Pickman did not vote at all. "I presume that Mr. Kernan is a very capable man," said Judge Pickman, "and while I do not feel as if I knew enough about him to vote for him, I am free to confess that my inclinations are for him." The other four members of the board, Messrs. Carr, Hall, Greene and Rountree, voted for Mr. Kernan. Other candidates for the position included Michael M. Sullivan, William J. Collins, Frank C. Stowell, Joseph C. Tufts of Roxbury, Alfred Skinner and Herbert E. Chapman.

Mrs. Lawrence of Crescent street was present, with two other ladies, at the meeting, and said that a charge of $13 had been made against her in 1905. She did not wish to pay the tax for moth work. She said that the city men forced themselves on her land when other men had been hired to do the work.

Judge Pickman allowed that the matter was up to the city solicitor for an opinion as to whether the tax may be abated. It was finally voted that a hearing be held at the next meeting, and that Mr. Stowell, who had charge of the work for the department, be present at that meeting.

Judge Pickman read a tribute to the memory of Freeman Ballard Shedd, who had done so much for the development of the park and playground system in Lowell, and who died in Miami, Fla., March 13. Judge Pickman said that Mr Shedd stands first of the citizens of Lowell on its roll of honor with respect to his gift to the city for rest and recreation purposes and for his interest in the playground movement in the city.

It was voted to send a properly engrossed copy of the memorial to the relatives of deceased, and that it be spread on the records of the park commission.

Judge Pickman then read an appreciation which he had prepared of Chas. A. Whittet, the retiring superintendent. He said that to Mr. Whittet is largely due whatever measure of success the commission has had in the administration of its trust. It was voted to send a copy of the resolution to Mr. Whittet and also that it be spread upon the records.

Will Pay for School Steps

The board voted to pay for the steps to the Moody school that were built two years ago and thus was buried a not very important controversy, but a matter that should have been settled long ago in order that the man who did the work might receive his pay. The majority of the commission voted to pay the bill.

Election of Mr. Kernan

Relative to the selection of a park superintendent, Judge Pickman, after reading communications from candidates, said he had written to Olmstead Bros. and they had recommended Ralph W. Curtis, a Cornell graduate, who was assistant superintendent of parks in Boston. Since this communication had been received, he said, Utica, N. Y., had snapped up Mr. Curtis. He receives $150 a month in Utica, which Mr. Rountree said, would prohibit him from being engaged here, where the salary is $1500 a year.

Mr. Carr felt that Mr. Kernan will fill the bill because he is a practical contracting engineer, who is very highly recommended. He said there is no politics in his selection of Mr. Kernan, if there was he would wait until a new member of the board is chosen.

Judge Pickman wanted the statements about Mr. Kernan fortified by recommendations other than from the man himself. He wished to look into the matter further.

Mr. Greene said he had received very good reports as to Mr. Kernan's abilities as an engineer.

Mr. Carr wanted action taken before the busy season opens, when it is very necessary that some competent man be employed.

Mr. Hall considered Mr. Kernan to be the most promising candidate he had talked with or heard from.

Mr. Carr moved and Mr. Rountree seconded that a vote be taken for superintendent of the park commission. It was so voted. Mr. Kernan was elected, receiving the votes of everybody except Mr. Pickman, who did not vote, saying, in substance, that his inclinations were to vote for Mr. Kernan, but that he did not know sufficiently about him to vote for him.

It was voted to have the secretary notify Mr. Kernan of his election and to state to him that his duties would begin April 1.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

The final performances of "Zaza" will be given by The Lonergan Players at the Opera House today and commencing next Monday and for the entire week, the company will be seen in James Hallack's Reid's powerful drama "The Confession," a play that has been endorsed by Cardinal Farley and many eminent Catholic clergymen. A strong point in this play is the unreliability of circumstantial evidence. How a chain of circumstances can be so arranged by skilful lawyers as to point to the guilt of a man, is clearly shown in this play, which deals with the experience of a man falsely accused of murder. He is convicted and sentenced to death, and even on circumstantial evidence the law of the state has decreed that he shall forfeit his life as a penalty for his crime. Almost too late it is made clear that the man is innocent of the accusation, and the state is kept from committing a crime to punish a crime.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE SINGERS

April 10th is the date for the appearance here at the Opera House of the Boston Opera House singers and already there is a lively interest in the engagement. Among the artists to appear are Mlle. Evelyn Scotney, Ernestine Gauthier, Myrna Sharlow, Messrs. Alfredo Ramella, Jose Mardones, Raoul Romito, Rudolpho Fornari and others. The program to be rendered will include the garden scene from "Faust," "Martha," in English, the third act from "Rigoletto," the sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor" and several other numbers.

Merrimack Square Theatre

When it comes to gathering interesting novelties Manager Carroll of the Merrimack Square theatre must be reckoned. This week he had the talking pictures and next week, aside from holding them over he has arranged an all feature program that's as good as anything Lowell has seen in a long time. As aforesaid the talking pictures have been held over and will be presented with an entire change of subjects. There will be an excellent variety, but perhaps the best known of them all is the speech made famous by Patrick Henry. This is declared by everyone to be the most notable achievement yet made by the talking pictures. Every word in this famous speech is in perfect accord with the picture, while the sound is as clear and distinct as if the speaker were on the stage in reality.

The Temple Players are to be here again. That ever popular band of fun makers back again with all the old favorites and a new offering. Other offerings of more than ordinary merit include Grace Young and company in the one act playlet, "At Rainbow Bridge;" Dora Rianco, the gypsy violinist and Marie Lurant, the silver voiced song bird.

Moving pictures of St. Patrick's day parade celebration taken today will be shown at all performances next week. If you were along the route of the parade you most likely got your picture taken. Come and see yourself next week. Other photo-plays include "The Battle of Bloody Ford" and some excellent comedy subjects. For the Sunday concerts to be given tomorrow a special program has been arranged.

Keith's Theatre

The success scored by the Thomas A. Edison talking motion pictures at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, has prompted the management to reach out and secure the very best subjects on the market at the present time, for the presentation next week. "The Temptations of Faust," a picture and record modelled after the world famous story, should bring to the minds of vaudeville goers the possibilities to be achieved in this new entertainment medium. The pictures of the present week faintly intimated what is to come in the future. Truly Shattuck, one of America's best known singing comediennes, will appear in the second act of pictures. In this she will sing her latest song hit, "When Mother Was Twenty-One," and a medley of the older songs. Miss Shattuck's voice records wonderfully well, while her wholly charming personality appears in the pictures. By special request the lecture picture of the present week will be shown. "The Telephone Girls," a plump half dozen, with Eddie Drake as their comedian, will hold down the second spot on the bill. With a tuneful extravagance they will delight all, for they are really pretty young women, with splendid voices and with a vehicle which is all new. Britt Wood, widely known as "the village cut-up" and the "town clown" will give his inimitable mouth-organ solos. Britt will also talk some, said talk being of a nature to arouse interest in the dullest soul. He is like unto no other entertainer. Arthur, Richards & Arthur, two young women and a man, have a dancing and singing novelty, while Courtez & Florence will present "The Tamer," a little sketch with an air of probability to it, and which is very cleverly done. Everywhere this pair have been the success of the sketch has been emphasized. Penn & Klaus, German dialect comedians, maltreat the English language in a laugh provoking manner, and Lewis & Chapin, "Just Nonsense," sing and talk and dance. The acrobatic feature of the bill will be that given by the Menards, a man and woman, whose lightning-like celerity will astound audiences. Good tickets for all performances during the week may be obtained in advance at the box office. Tomorrow afternoon and evening the special Sunday entertainments will be continued.

Concert by Hoffman Quartet

An event that promises to be the musical treat of the season to lovers of music, is the concert by the famous Hoffman string quartet of the Boston Symphony orchestra, assisted by local talent, that is to be held in Associate hall, tomorrow afternoon, in aid of the Knights of Columbus building fund. The opportunity to listen to a concert by the four artists that compose the Hoffman band of musicians is, indeed, a very rare one, and one that does not come to the lot of the people of this city very often. This quartet is eagerly sought for by all musical organizations throughout the entire country and it has engagements running well into next year already on its book, which would not be the case if its equal as a string quartet could be secured.

Four talented musicians with each and every one an expert on his own respective instrument, playing classical melodies that have come down the ages and have survived, is what is awaiting the ears of the people of this city in this concert.

In addition to the Hoffman group, the committee in charge has arranged with Miss Katherine Mullen, a local soprano, whose merits as a singer need not be retold in this instance and Miss Ouida Bissonnette, an accomplished pianist, to appear and contribute to the program.

The program to be given is as follows:

The Playhouse

The matinee performance of "The Minstrel of Clare," at The Playhouse this afternoon will not start at 2.15 o'clock, the usual time. Instead the curtain will go up on the first act at 3 o'clock to accommodate those who desire to see the parade. It is expected that the line will have passed the down-town section by this time. Next week Mr. Weston is to present The Drama Players in Preston Gibson's interesting American romantic comedy drama, "The Turning Point." The piece is one which enjoyed a successful run at The Hackett theatre, New York City. At that time the press and public of the metropolis endorsed the offering as one of the very best of its kind that New Yorkers had seen in seasons. The story of the play is unusually interesting and it has features attached to it that should appeal strongly to all. There is sufficient humor in its lines to satisfy all. In staging it Mr. Weston will again demonstrate his worth as a producer of unusual merit. Mr. J. Anthony Smythe and Miss Mann will appear in the leading roles and the others will be pleasingly cast. First performance Monday night. Prices 10 to 50 cents. Box office telephone 511.

If Mothers Only Knew!

By Dr. True

Nineteen-twentieths of the sickness of children have two causes: constipation and worms!

The danger of constipation is understood, but there are 50 different kinds of worms that may exist in the stomach and bowels, and children are especially apt to have them. Usually stomach and pin worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue; eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body may be hot; and often, in children, convulsions.

Rid the child of worms and you will have a healthy, happy child.

NOTE—Dr. True's own prescription, sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir, is the best remedy in the world for worms. It destroys all worm life, expels worms from the body and makes the child healthy again. All dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

Mr. McMannon by untiring energy and constant activity was a strong factor in the success of the parade while Mr. O'Donnell gave evidence of his military training and experience by his splendid work in the preliminary arrangements and in marshalling the various divisions into their respective positions.

The procession as a whole consisted of seven great divisions and these were arranged so as to be seen to the best advantage. No small part was made up of the out-of-town people who came to Lowell in great numbers to take part.

The route was about two miles in length; the start was made soon after 2 o'clock. At St. Patrick's parochial residence, the parade was reviewed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Anderson, Rt. Rev. Mgr. O'Brien and other clergymen and at city hall by Mayor O'Donnell and other members of the municipal board, Lt. Governor Walsh, State Secretary Donahue, the mayors of other cities and invited guests.

THE REVIEWING STANDS

Prominent Church and Civic Dignitaries Review Parade at City Hall and St. Patrick's Rectory

There were no spare seats on the very substantial reviewing stand at city hall. The stand was built by the lands and buildings department, which department is under Commissioner Cummings, and forms an extension to the Merrimack street entrance to the hall. It was made large enough to accommodate a good number and those who were seated there today, included Hon. David I. Walsh, lieutenant-governor; Hon. John Jacob Rogers; Frank J. Donahue, secretary of state; Hon. J. Edward Barry, mayor of Cambridge; Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, mayor of Boston; Hon. M. F. Scanlon, mayor of Lawrence; Hon. William Henchey, mayor of Woburn; Hon. William H. Barry, mayor of Nashua, N. H.; Hon. J. J. Dunn, mayor of Waltham; Hon. John F. Hurley, mayor of Salem; Congressman Eugene E. Reed, of Manchester, N. H. Mayor O'Donnell and other members of the municipal council; members of the senate and legislature from the Lowell districts; Hon. Thomas P. Riley, chairman of the democratic state committee, and ex-Mayors Noyes, Pickman, Casey, Meehan and Farnham, heads and superintendents of city departments and others.

All offices at city hall closed at the noon hour and Mayor O'Donnell entertained the visitors in his spacious reception room where a buffet lunch was served during the afternoon.

At St. Patrick's Rectory

The following named clergy occupied the reviewing stand at St. Patrick's church: Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Boston, representing Cardinal O'Connell; Rt. Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph. D., Rev. John J. Shaw, Rev. John A. Degan, Rev. Charles J. Galligan, Rev. Thomas A. Welsh, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. DIVISION ONE

Military Companies, Irish Volunteers and French Military Guards Make a Grand Showing

The first part of the first division was composed of a battalion of Massachusetts and New Hampshire militia companies, and indeed a parade is not complete without the boys in blue. The battalion was in command of Capt. Philip McNulty of Co. M, 9th regiment, who was acting major. The captain received great applause along the line and his military bearing as well as the fine appearance of the soldiers under his command was favorably commented upon.

It would be difficult to go into every little detail concerning the militia companies, but be it said that the local companies, C, G and M, commanded, the first by Captain George Peterson, the second by Capt. Walter R. Jeyes and the third by Lieut. Daniel Christian, were spick and span in their full dress uniforms of blue. The militiamen also wore white gloves and black shoes and carried rifles with the exception of the officers who carried swords. The three local companies turned out in full numbers and certainly made a hit with the thousands who cheered them along the course of the march.

The officers of the companies are as follows: Co. C.—Capt. George Peterson, First Lieut. Harold Patten and Second Lieut. James J. Powers. Co. G: —Capt. Walter R. Jeyes, First Lieut. Thomas W. Doyle and Second Lieut. Schuyler R. Waller. Co. M.:—Capt. Philip McNulty, First Lieut. Daniel Christian and Second Lieut. Paul E. Kittredge.

The members of Co. K, 1st N. H. regiment, Capt. Anthony J. Foye, and Co. B, 1st N. H. regiment, Capt. Edward J. Kelley, were also very numerous, and they were cheerfully welcomed to this city. Their marching and general appearance were perfect in every way and they are to be complimented on the fine showing they made both in number and appearance.

Wolfe Tone Guards

Another prominent body in the division of Irish military organizations was the famous Wolfe Tone guards, with Captain Patrick Fitzgerald leading the company. This body comprising about 60 members as they passed along the route were accorded enthusiastic applause from the spectators. The uniforms of the Wolfe Tone guards were similar to those of the militia and the other Irish volunteers, the men wearing dark blue military coats, light blue trousers, leggings, blue caps with insignia of the company on the front and carrying rifles. First Lieutenant Francis J. Kierce and Second Lieutenant Michael J. Monahan assisted Captain Fitzgerald in directing the company's movements.

Sheridan Guards

In the absence of Captain Thomas Daly of the Sheridan guards who was acting major of the entire battalion of Irish companies, Lieutenant Michael T. O'Rourke led the guards in his place. Like the other Irish military bodies, the Sheridan guards won much applause for their marching and general appearance. This company with the others contributed its share of the strikingly attractive military appearance of the St. Patrick's demonstration this afternoon. Their uniforms were similar to the others, the dark blue military coats and caps, the light blue trousers and the white gloves adding greatly to the general effect. The guards carried their rifles and the officers marched in their usual positions.

Meagher Guards

Another brilliant feature of this division was furnished by the Meagher guards, who wore attractive new uniforms, consisting of dark blue military coats, trousers of cadet blue, a dark blue military cap adorned with crossed guns and the letters "M. G." The men of this body carried their rifles and the military effect of the Meagher guards was most pleasing to the spectators and guests in the review stands who were not slow in manifesting their appreciation of the company. Captain John J. Higgins was the leader and the other officers including First Lieut. Charles O'Brien, First Sergt. Michael Hyde, and Quartermaster Sergt. John J. Curran marched in their respective positions. The company was heralded by a large American flag, together with the flag of green. This brilliantly uniformed organization was one of the features of the first division of the parade and the members numbered in the neighborhood of sixty men.

Out of Town Companies

Among the Irish military companies from other cities who came to Lowell to take part in the grand St. Patrick's demonstration which was witnessed by so many thousands of people this afternoon were the following: The Emmet Guards of Lynn, led by Captain McHugh; the Grattan Guards of Lawrence, led by Captain Graham; the Sarsfield Guards of Haverhill, with Captain Driscoll as their marshal, and the John Boyle O'Reilly guards of Charlestown commanded by Captain Clark. All of these were elaborately uniformed after the manner of the local organizations of a similar nature and from their splendid appearance and well drilled and spirited showing, met with the manifest approval of all. They carried their rifles, adding greatly to the grand military display of the first division of the parade.

The French Companies

The French-American guards of the city made a very fine showing and were well greeted all along the route of the parade. The four local guards form a part of the French American Volunteer Brigade of the United States, and also a battalion of the second regiment of the said brigade. At first it was a question as to whether the guards should participate in the parade as a battalion with Major Joseph Lamoureux, but finally it was decided that each guard turn out individually.

First in line came Garde Frontenac with Capt. Albert Bergeron in command. They were about 24 in number and indeed they made a very fine showing. The men, neatly attired in blue uniforms with yellow trimmings, and blue caps, and carrying swords, presented a brilliant scene. They marched in regular military order and occasionally cut very difficult figures, as they excel in fancy drilling, having on previous occasions won trophies in parades and prize drills.

The guard made quite a hit when at intervals under the command of the captain the men formed a cross and marched for some distance, then falling into squads of fours and eights. All along the route of the parade the men were warmly applauded by the many onlookers. The other officers of the guard are First Lieut. Horace Desilets and Second Lieut. Alphonse Vallerand.

Garde d'Honneur came next and the 26 men of this company, headed by their captain, Joseph L. Lamoureux, certainly did their share in the appearance of this semi-military division. The "soldiers" who carried rifles wore cadet gray pants and navy blue coats ornamented with red trimmings and gold braid, and blue caps. Their marching was perfect and many words of praise could be heard along the streets, reflecting much credit on this guard, which is composed of members of the C. M. A. C., and which is the oldest French-American guard in the city. The guard's appearance in every way was very pleasing, and its members once more showed how carefully they have been trained by their able captain.

Third in line came Garde Jacques-Cartier, consisting of about 24 men and officers. Although but a young organization, this military association has already made its mark in Lowell and their appearance today was still better than on previous occasions. They marched in squads of fours and eights, under the command of Capt. Alfred Grenier and their marching was perfect. The men, all well proportioned in build, were navy blue uniforms trimmed with pale blue braid, and carried rifles.

The A. G. Cadets was the only French semi-military organization which marched to the music of its own drum corps. Unfortunately only Co. A of the organization was able to turn out, but even at that some 40 boys were in line. Their uniform consisted of full navy blue coat and cap and white duck pants. The boys made a great showing and their work in the military line reflects much credit on the spiritual director of the Cadets, Rev. Jerome Diss, O. M. I., who spared no time in training the young ones and giving them instructions which are now very valuable to them. Also a great share of the credit goes to the major of the battalion, Arthur J. Lamoureux, who also spent much time at the armory of the Cadets in St. Joseph's college. The drum corps, which is composed of five snare drums, a base

The law that is to be framed by the present administration at the extra session of congress, regarding the levying of income tax, promises to be one that will raise questions of peculiar delicacy and difficulty, in framing which the democratic party will open up vast possibilities of future pain or less. Being one of the most far reaching measures of years it is already being generally discussed, as expected, and widely differing opinions are being expressed as to the proper methods to be employed in putting it in practice. Among those who suggest plans are interested parties who have long been inimical to federal income tax, and who now suggest radical measures under the guise of an awakened interest and approval. The sincerity of such must be questioned, particularly when among the suggestions offered by them is one that in levying income tax no income, however small, should be exempted. To do this they say is to descend to measures that are not distinctively American and democratic.

On the other hand there is a section of the public, including such notable men as Hon. Champ Clark, who would place the limit of exemption at a very high figure, and levy the income tax only from the possessors of large fortunes. It is also suggested by those who hold the latter view this tax should not be levied at a flat rate but should be arranged on a gradually ascending scale, those having most wealth paying a proportionately higher amount than those who receive smaller incomes. It would seem right and just in a general way that the bulk of federal income tax revenue should come from those who own immense fortunes, but on further consideration one must pause and realize that such an arrangement would savor much of socialism and seem rather a re-distribution of wealth than the levying of a national income which is the logical purpose of the income tax.

Those who claim that the exemption of any income from the operations of the proposed income tax is un-American and undemocratic will find it difficult to prove just how American and democratic any measure would be that would base a new national income on the meagre earnings of the poor. While such a measure would raise a stupendous revenue it would be at a great cost, built on a false foundation, and would ultimately have an injurious effect on national life and energy. Those who lean to the socialistic theory that would tend to check an accumulation of wealth are advocating measures still more un-American. There must necessarily be an exemption of income, and this exemption must be at a moderate figure. To try to reach the amount of this exemption limit at the present time is futile, for one proposing such figures considers merely the relations of industry and income in a sectional manner or as they affect the conditions of a definite region. It is only by a wide discussion and calm investigation that would include the interests of the whole country a law could be established that would be satisfactory to the majority. The present government has the means to make this searching investigation. Although federal income tax as a national measure is new to us it has long been successfully operating in other countries, and the prudence and justice of the president and his supporters may be depended upon at this juncture to evolve a method of tax levying that will be fully adequate, while entailing special hard-ships on no individual or class.

TO THE HAGUE

Although the Hague tribunal for the smoothing out of international complications has justified its existence and been a large factor towards preparing for more enlightened measures of arbitration between the nations for the future, the sphere of its usefulness has been recently extended. An international educational conference, to be held there next September, is a promise of the future possibilities that open up a vista of progress and usefulness such as was undreamed of in its formation. It is inspiring to think that future international conferences at the Hague will not have for their object the silencing of guns and the disbanding of hostile armies, but the discussion of plans that will be of mutual benefit to the young Russian in the far regions of Asia, the children of southern climes or the youth who searches for knowledge among the pulsing life of our American cities. Strange as it may seem, there is a natural sequence in this arrangement, largely through the elevation of the future must the dream of world peace and the federation of mankind be established. At this conference America will be represented by distinguished educators named by the Washington state department. Four have already been selected, including Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, who spoke here a few weeks ago; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., university, California; Dr. C. H. Judd, director of the school of education at the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, special collaborator of the United States bureau of education. It is significant that Mrs. Andrews has gained wide prominence for her views on world peace as it depends on education.

Although the future peace of all nations would be subserved by such conference as that to take place at the Hague, they will have a very direct and salutary result on the trend of modern education. All educational methods are either the result of tradition or the needs of modern requirements. Each branch has its faults and its virtues, and by a worldwide comparison of methods and results the good can be very readily separated from the bad. We have much to learn from the older countries and we have much that it would be to their advantage to know. Abroad, particularly in Germany, the general use of vocational training has grown, and their educators are able to tell from positive results in what the system is to be commended and in what it is defective. England prides herself in the thoroughness of her primary education and from her we could learn with advantage in this respect, for while our methods develop superficial cleverness and brilliancy we fail in developing accuracy. By a sincere and thorough exchange of ideas all of these topics could be covered, and uniform systems of education could be established that would go far towards promoting a better spirit in the future attitude of all peoples in their foreign and domestic relations.

THE PARADE

The splendid spectacle that passed through our streets today was one of which any city might well be proud. In honor of an old and cherished ideal the Irish people again demonstrated their unmistakable patriotism and devotion. Once again in these bright and hopeful days, as in the past when their way was darker, they mustered in their thousands and marched under flags and banners of freedom to the strains of martial music that woke fond and proud memories of hope and pride in their hearts and in the hearts of many of the multitude which lined the streets. But there was one feature that attracted special attention and favorable comment. Side by side with the Irish and American marchers were representatives of the French, Polish, Italian and Lithuanian races, all banded together in a common celebration. Such a spirit is inspiring and commendable, and as ingratitude is not an Irish trait, their action will be remembered in the future when celebrations of their respective festivals will call forth such a demonstration as that of today. Special praise is due also to the many participants from out of town who came here to add to the success of the occasion. To them and to all we offer congratulations on the success of a memorable event which reflects credit on Lowell and the spirit that made it possible.

SECRET SERVICE MEN

It is said that President Wilson is to retain the services of the three secret service men who acted as a personal guard to President Taft. Because of the sudden propensity to travel that Mr. Taft developed they were kept pretty busy during the last administration and were called upon to exercise their vigilance under more varied conditions, and in a greater degree, than seems to be promised by the present attitude of President Wilson. This should make them particularly valuable. Probably they will appreciate being kept on under the changed condition particularly as their tasks are to be lighter. Of course the portly figure of the last president was more easily watched, but the spare form of the present chief executive will be more easily guarded.

PROGRESSIVE

The four members of the progressive branch of the republicans in the house at Washington who have openly declared their intention of supporting President Wilson and his policies have done credit to their sense of right and fair-mindedness. The measures advocated by the president and his supporters are surely progressive enough to enlist the sympathy of all sincere men who march under any of the "progressive" banners. More good can now be gained for the people as a whole by a united, whole-hearted, support of the present administration than by a too strict and persistent adherence to party lines.

Seen and Heard

So far as we know, the first representative government that the world ever had appeared in the case of the Roman tribune. After a hard and long fight the plebians (the plain people) managed to get a tribune whose business it was to represent them in the government circles. Before the creation of the tribunate the common people had no representation whatever in the lawmaking part of the government, the whole thing being in the hands of the patricians. From the Roman tribunate have sprung historically and logically all the representative devices that are at present to be found on earth, says the New York American.

In earlier days it was a custom in many households for each child to learn a verse from the Bible each Sunday. In this way the children became familiar with the wonderful book, and to them the experience described by Rev. E. J. Hardy could not have happened.

Sir Ernest Shackleton said one morning to a little waiting maid who brought him tea, "What a rainy day, Mary! It is almost like the flood."

"The flood, sir?" responded the little maid, with a puzzled smile.

"Yes, the flood, Noah, you know, the ark, Mt. Ararat."

She shook her head and murmured apologetically, "I ain't had time to read the papers lately, sir."—Youth's Companion.

Robert Loraine, the English actor, was asked by a reporter if he liked America.

"Yes," Mr. Loraine replied, "I like America very much. I especially like American enterprise. American enterprise makes the enterprise of other nations look like Tommy Price.

"Tommy Price was a grocer in my native Australia. I entered his shop in my boyhood once and asked him for a bar of a certain kind of soap.

"'Ah, I've stopped keepin' it,' said Tommy, with a facial movement that was half a yawn and half a scowl.

"'Stopped keeping it!' said I. 'Why, Tommy, it's the most popular brand of soap on the market.'

"'That's the trouble,' said Tommy Price. 'People kep' comin' and comin' for it. By crinus, I'd get sold out as fast as I'd get stocked up. So I just stopped keepin' it.'"

WHEN ALL IS DONE

We rise in the morning as soon as 'tis light
To strive for such triumphs as others have won;
We toil all day long, and far into the night,
Yet what is it all when our labor is done?

We think to be happy with houses and lands,
So we battle and slave on our way to success;
We wear out our brains and we blister our hands,
And what are they worth when these things we possess?

We think 'twill be fine in great splendor to ride,
And o'er those we meet our own influence weave;
We puff up ourselves with importance and pride,
Yet what is it all when our point we achieve?

So we worry and fret throughout all of our years,
And sometimes we triumph, and sometimes we fail;
At the end we but sob through the mist of our tears,
What so many have asked: What does all this avail?

—Thomas F. Porter.

I could see the whole of the action. The three whales were swimming abreast, blowing now and then as they rose from a shallow dive. Only one of us moved and that was Caesar, and I noticed that he pushed the oar a little to port in order to avoid the bull and take the yearling. I had guessed rightly about the yellow streak, says a writer in Outing.

But even the yearling was no plaything and as he rose close under the bow the sea slid off his mountainous back as from a ledge of black rock, a light green in contrast to the deep blue into which it poured. The cavernous rush of air and water from his snout almost sprayed Bynoe in the face as he drove the iron down into him. He passed under us, our bow dropping into the swirl left by his tail and I could feel the bump of his back through Caesar's oar.

I wondered for the moment if the boat would tip. There seemed to be no turning, for the next instant the flying spray drove the lashes back into my eyes and I knew we were fast. Blinded for the moment, I could feel the boat going over and through the seas, skittering after the whale like a spoon being reeled in from a cast. When I finally succeeded in wiping the hairs out of my eyes there was nothing to be seen ahead but two walls of spray which rose from the very bows of the boat, with Bynoe still clinging to the stay with his head and shoulders clear of the flying water.

THE SMALL DREAMS

When I was a young girl I dreamed great dreams
Of giant castles fashioned on a hill of gold;
The gold is but a gorse-brush, and happily it seems
My castle's but a cottage, now that I am old.

Now that I am old, I dream small dreams
Of tiny feet that falter, and tiny songs unsung.
Though I heard the trumpet blare and saw red gleams
From the flying feet of Cherubim, when I was young.

When I was a young girl I dreamed long dreams
Of ever-flowing rivers and earth and sky unrolled;
My sky's a window square, the rivers are but streams,
And the earth is a hedged meadow, now that I am old.

Now that I am old, I dream short dreams
Of small, weird woods and little paths among;
I who saw stretched shadows and the sun's long beams
On the cedar trees of Lebanon, when I was young.

And youth is a memory with its long, deep dreams,
Its venture unadventured, the glory still untold;
But I can keep forever, unashamed it seems,
The small dear dreams of comfort, now that I am old.

Thousands of Women

Have Been Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

There is no doubt about this fact. Why! during the last 30 years we have published in the newspapers of this country volumes of letters from women who have been relieved of all their suffering by the timely aid of this grand old medicine. Letters like the following, true, genuine and honest expressions of gratitude coming from grateful hearts. Surely you can believe these women.

Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Mich., says:—

"Sometime ago I was taken with a terrible pain in my right side, such sharp pains just like a knife sticking me. I tried hot applications but that did no good. I went to our family doctor (we were living in Fayette, Ohio, at that time) and he said it was organic inflammation. I doctored with him a while but kept getting worse. The pain was so terrible I could hardly stand on my feet. I would have that sharp pain in my right side, and a dull heavy pain the whole length of my limb. I realized that something had to be done quickly, so I looked up all of your advertisements I could find, and saw several that described my case. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first dose, and when I had taken two bottles my trouble was gone. Your medicine has done so much for me that I am willing you should publish this letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Michigan.

Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, Girard, Pa., says:—

"I take pleasure in informing you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had a sick spell last February, and for some months after that I was not regular and had many bad feelings. I was tired all the time, had dull headaches, not much appetite, and also what the doctor called organic inflammation. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise as I am now able to do my own work. You are perfectly welcome to use my testimonial for the benefit of others."—Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, R.F.D. No. 1, Girard, Pa.

Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, Buffalo, N.Y., says:—

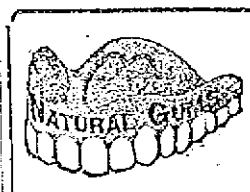

"I feel that I must write to you about your wonderful remedies. About ten years ago I was troubled with female weakness and was all run down. I was tired all the time and could hardly walk without feeling dizzy. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it, and also used the Sanative Wash. I got stronger, and have not had those dizzy spells since. I feel that I owe my health to you, and hope your remedies will help others as they have me. I tried most everything I heard of, and yours are the best medicines for women's ailments."—Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, 26 Glor Street, Buffalo, New York.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S

All these testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. The original of each came to us entirely unsolicited. They are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits received from the medicine.

COM. JAS. DONNELLY

Gave Hearings on Petitions for Improvements

Commissioner James E. Donnelly gave a hearing on street petitions last night.

The petition to pave Plain street brought out a number of persons interested in the project. William A. Hosan spoke in favor of it and R. C. Herman said that the thoroughfare at present is impassable. Laforest Earle, representing E. A. Wilson & Co., said that teams can't get through the street at times, because of the condition. He asked that it be paved with granite blocks. Charles H. Hanson believed it to be the worst street in Lowell and Daniel H. Walker who does a lot of trucking through there asked that the council consider only one thing, the paving with granite blocks. Many others favored the petition.

Miss Ellen L. Floyd appeared in favor of a petition to build a curbing on the easterly side of Dartmouth street, in front of premises at 158-160.

Miss Charlotte Ryan and A. J. Ryan favored a concrete sidewalk on portions of Westford and Rutland streets.

Daniel J. Hart and a Mr. Barker favored a petition for edgestones on the northerly side of Mt. Hope street, from Colonial avenue, a distance of about 120 feet.

Charles Stickney appeared in favor of his petition to widen Central street at its junction with Prescott street.

Mrs. Bridget Conroy and Mr. Hogan favored a petition to lay edgestones in Griffin street.

John Scholes favored edgestones being laid in front of his property at 80 Midland street.

On the petition of Josephine G. Chase for a cinder sidewalk on the westerly side of Lincoln street, between Hale street and Anglo street, John Gardner appeared in favor as did Meyer Markins of 47 Angle street, James Durkin, Mr. Bettencourt and Manuel Sousa.

On the petition of John Downing that a sidewalk with edgestones and cinders be laid on a portion of both sides of Tenth street, Mr. Downing appeared. The street is in a deplorable condition, he said, and many children pass through the street.

Adjourned.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT

C. M. A. C. Baseball Team Held Whist and Entertainment in Association's Rooms Last Evening

A crowd which taxed the capacity of C. M. A. C. hall last night attended the second annual whist and entertainment which was given by the baseball team of the club. The affair was a real success and reflected much credit on the organizers, especially on the chairman of the committee, Joseph Payette, who spared no time to make the event an unprecedented one in the history of the C. M. A. C.

The attendance numbered over 400 and all spent a very enjoyable evening. The first part of the soiree was devoted to whist and suitable prizes were awarded the following winners: S. Brunnelle, Dan Ayotte, Philippe Guimond, Mathias Morin, Bertha Carpentier, Arthur Archambault, Alice Poirier, Arthur Charron, Wilfrid Achin, Hormidas Bisson, Laura Chouinard, Arthur Chouinard, Eva Lablanc, Henri St. Cyr, Alma Levasseur, Alice Fauvel, Philippe Joly, Edgar Asselin, Flora Vincent, Ernest Lemire, P. Prescott, O. Rivard, Anna M. Blais, A. Guertin, L. Geoffroy, T. Trudel, Lena Boisvert, Ernestine Thurber, Hildege Ducharme, Fred Lussier, Miss L. Lafleur, Paul Genest, Emery Racette, Rose Lemay, M. L. Dupuis, A. Duval, Arthur Lussier, Mrs. Arthur Lussier.

The prize given by Frank Ricard was won by S. Brunelle and Dan Ayotte.

At the close of the whist tournament a minstrel show entitled "A Night at the Clubhouse," was presented by the members of the baseball team, and the sketch which proved very interesting and entertaining was well received.

Joseph Payette presided over the gathering. Those responsible for the affair were as follows: Joseph Payette, Arthur Lussier, George Simard, Louis Simard, J. B. Salvas, Isidore Trudel, Charles Chandonnet and Adelard Lussier. Isidore Trudel acted as interlocutor in the minstrel part and his work was very commendable. The Highland orchestra was also in attendance.

SMILING HANS WAGNER OUT FOR TY COBB'S BATTING HONORS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 29.—Judging by the manner in which Hans Wagner cavorted around the diamond in the recent series with the Boston Red Sox here, it surely looks as if the veteran shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates will have another great season to add to his already brilliant record. The "Flying Dutchman" batted, fielded and ran the bases like a youngster. Last spring Wagner did not show up so well at the training camp. Many critics were of the opinion that Father Time was beginning to take hold of the Pirate shortstop. However, Wagner again fooled the wise Ikes and had a fine year in all departments. Now that he will start the campaign in good condition the experts believe he will give Ty Cobb a good run for the batting honors of the major leagues. Wagner celebrated his thirty-ninth birthday recently and has been in harness longer than any other player in the major league.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lee Magee of the Cardinals is said to be the fastest man on the team. They say he has enough speed to furnish several athletes.

Manager Griffiths is in no hurry to get rid of his youngsters. The old fox wants to get as perfect a line as possible on his men before cutting any of them loose.

Muggsy McGraw still calls Cooper the greatest find of the year. The Giant leader is greatly impressed with the recruit's showing and may retain him as a regular on the team.

The St. Louis Cards are willing to take Rafael Almeida—that is, if the Reds are willing to let him go. The Cards could use an infielder who can hit.

McGraw has announced that players on his team sipping of the foaming hops will be fined $25. This is the first season the Giant pilot has taken a stand of this sort.

John Ganzel tells Rochester papers that he doesn't believe Tommy McMillan's hold-out will stick. He evidently has conversed with Thomas recently.

Hugh High, the youngster whom the Tigers obtained from the Connecticut state league last year, is pretty sure he will stick. He is unusually fast and a good sticker.

Manager McGraw has warned his players not to abuse the umpires. Muggsy says he will attend to the arbiters on unjust decisions.

Eddie Ainsmith of the Senators has been testing his throwing wing for the last couple of days and has been successful in lining the ball down to second in the same old way.

"Doc" Johnston has been doing great work at the initial sack for the Naps and has clinched the job.

Nap Rucker, the star hurler of the Superbas, picks the Pirates to land the flag this season, the Giants second and the Cubs third.

Buffalo expects to get Thorpe after McGraw has wrung all the advertising out of him.

Bresnahan Picks Cubs

Roger Bresnahan has joined the ranks of the prophets. The noted catcher who will wear a Chicago Cub uniform this year comes out boldly with the assertion that the team under the management of John J. Evers has a better chance to win the National league pennant than the Pittsburghs, providing, of course, that the Giants fail to come up to expectations. Bresnahan aired his views when asked recently why he signed a Cub contract instead of accepting the Pirates' liberal offer.

"I didn't double cross the Pirates and Barney Dreyfus," replied Roger, "because I never gave my word that I would play with them after I settled up with the Cardinals. I accepted what I believed was the best proposition available. Murphy offered me a fine contract to go with the Cubs, but it was no better than the one Dreyfuss was ready to pay. Herrmann, too, was anxious to secure me for Cincinnati, and probably would have topped both Murphy and Dreyfus in point of salary figures. I had all I wanted of a loser in St. Louis, and naturally having experienced the sensation of catching for a world's champion team in New York, under McGraw, I wanted to get with another winner. The Cubs looked pretty good to me on paper, and as Evers is a pal, I decided to sign and do my best.

"I firmly believe that the Cubs will finish ahead of the Pirates and will come very near winning the flag. The Cubs would have taken the pennant last year with a little more strength in the box. If we get into the world's series, there'll be a slice of big money for me which there wouldn't be a chance of picking up if I had gone to Pittsburgh or Cincinnati. The Cubs have a greatly strengthened pitching department, an improved outfield and a corking good shortstop in Corriden to replace Tinker. Archer and yours truly will make things hum behind the bat, and that means death to base stealers. I am satisfied to play ball and let somebody else do the managing in future. It makes life easier. We've got the Giants to beat!"

M'KINNON WON FROM GRUPPE

Jimmy Gardner Gave Clever Exhibition of Manly Art—Fiske Defeated Reardon

Bill McKinnon, the Roxbury middleweight, won his bout with Billy Gruppe of St. Louis last night in the eleventh round of a scheduled twelve-round go before the members of the Lowell A. C. Martin Flaherty, who refereed all the bouts, stopped the affair in the eleventh session on account of the marked advantage that the Roxbury boxer had and Gruppe's weakness from McKinnon's body punches.

Gruppe is one of the quickest and smoothest boxers that has ever been seen here and the way that he snapped himself back from the ropes was a revelation of ring work. Whenever McKinnon would prove too aggressive and follow him too closely Gruppe would sag back onto the ropes and the minute that his opponent came up close enough would spring from the ropes as though thrown from a sling. This was greatly appreciated by the members who took in the contest and, although a loser, Gruppe was the more popular of the two fighters after the bout had been stopped.

Up to the seventh round neither man had shown much more than an inclination to feel out the other but in the seventh both scrappers stood up and swapped some fine looking haymakers. McKinnon had all the better of the infighting but Gruppe would have had a chance if he had been able to stand him off and fight at long range. In the eighth, ninth and tenth sessions McKinnon worked over some hard punches to the St. Louis man's body which slowed him up visibly and succeeded in giving him a bad looking nasal organ as well. The eleventh round saw the last of Gruppe's strength leave him and Referee Flaherty's decision was generally acknowledged to be the only fair thing that could be done under the circumstances.

The feature of the evening, however, was the appearance of Jimmy Gardner in the ring with Jimmy Mahan as a punching bag. Gardner showed to the delighted audience just how he built up his boxing reputation and whipped over all sorts of blows which Mahan was powerless to stop. Both wore big exhibition gloves so that no damage was done by Gardner's blows. The pivot punch, a la Gardner, brought down the house.

Jimmy Reardon, the local boy who has twice appeared with Sailor Fiske, was slightly outpointed by the man from the navy in their eight-round semi. The Lowell boy has a great left-hand but did not seem to cut loose with it last night except on special occasions. Whenever he did use it he stabbed his opponent with great force and up to the last round it looked as though Reardon would be given the decision. In the last round, however, the sailor came strong and sent in some wicked looking swings with both hands.

Finney Boyle completely outclassed Young Smith, both local boys, and won on a knockout in the third period. Gardner Brooks was an easy winner over Young Cooney in the other preliminary, putting Cooney away in the second session of a scheduled six-round bout.

The Y. W. C. A. Basketball Team

The Y. W. C. A. basketball team will meet the girls' team from the Manchester high school this afternoon at three o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. hall.

This will be the last game of a very successful season as the local team has won six and lost two games this year.

The team is composed of the following: Miss Frances Leggat, rf; Gertrude Libbee, lf; Jennie Ray, lc, capt.; Blanche Harriman, sc; Sadie Sweatt, rg; Thora Johnson, lg; substitute, Misses Esther Leddes, Gladys Pendexter and Frances La Flamme; Miss Frances E. Bent, coach and manager.

Presented Diamond Ring

A pretty gathering of friends took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Caisse, 101 Fulton street, the occasion being the 21st anniversary of the birth of their daughter, Alice, who was agreeably surprised with the presentation of a handsome diamond ring.

In the early part of the evening over 50 couples, all friends of the young woman gathered at the home of her parents, and at 9 o'clock when she returned to her home she was seized by a number of her lady friends and carried into the reception room where the presentation was made by Miss Flora Primeau. The hostess of the evening although taken fully unaware responded in fitting terms, and a pleasant evening followed.

Evening Drawing School Awards

The members of the machine drawing class of the evening school received diplomas of graduation last night at the Mann school. The graduating class consisted of eight men and they were presented diplomas by Perry D. Thompson, of the school committee, who addressed them briefly.

Gustaf R. Olson was awarded a set of valuable drawing instruments by Samuel H. Thompson, for producing the best results during the past three years. Honorable mention was given to Eugene C. Gaudette and John O. Burman.

Several mechanical drawings were on exhibition during the evening and they showed the results of careful and thorough work. The end of this school year completed the 31st year of Mr. Stephens as a teacher of mechanical drawing in the public schools.

Bowling Games

The Hamilton team proved too strong for the Lawrence Hosiery in their bowling game last night, taking the match by the score of 1259 to 1251. The Wonders were easy winners in their game with the Jolly Six, taking the first two strings by large margins. The spool room had nine pins to the good after their contest with the Office bowling team last evening. Team Two defeated Team Three in the Y. M. C. A. bowling tournament. The winners took all three strings.

Price doesn't mean anything at these sales. We cut and double cut prices on all makes alike; we ask no favors, we want none, and we give none. TRIBUTE TO TOM HUGHES

Mack Says He Pitched Greatest Game

It would naturally be supposed that when any one referred to the best pitched game by any Washington pitcher last season the name of Walter Johnson would be mentioned because of his wonderful prowess. His name would suggest itself the minute the subject was broached, and yet to hear an authority than Connie Mack made the assertion the other day that the best pitched game he witnessed last season was delivered by Long Tom

CONNIE MACK OF THE ATHLETICS

Hughes. Mack referred to the game which Hughes pitched against his team in Philadelphia after seventeen straight had been won, and Hughes was slated to bring home the 18th. He apparently had the game cinched in the 9th inning, when with the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Nationals, two men out and none on the bases, two and two on Baker, the Athletics' great slugger drove the ball over the right field fence for a home run, and in the following inning Mack's team won.

"I have seen a lot of great games pitched in my time," said Mack, "but I don't recall a more brilliant exhibition than Hughes produced that day. I really felt so sorry for him when we won that I did not feel elated over the victory, for that sort of pitching deserves victory. Hughes need better judges of than I have seen in a long while. I virtually had my team cutting out of his hand, and it was the hardest kind of luck to lose the game as he lost that one."

Though Eddie Plank was one of the most successful pitchers in the league last season, there was one club when he always found troublesome and was frequently beaten by. Against the Chicago White Sox Plank did not look like a star. When he happened to win a game from the Sox it was only after a hard struggle, and most of the time he lost his games against the clan of Callahan.

Most every pitcher has one Jonah fear. Last season, for instance, St. Louis gave Walter Johnson more trouble than any of the others. It was the Browns which broke his winning streak, and almost every time that he faced them he would have to work his hardest. This, of course, was due largely to the fact that the Browns' pitchers were seldom to the liking of the Washington batters, so that the scores were usually very close, and any sort of a slip up put Walter in jeopardy.

None of the suggestions regarding changes in the playing rules was considered by either of the major leagues. In fact, the rules committee did not even meet, and the game will continue to be played during the coming season as it has in the past. Most everybody has some ideas as to rule changes which should be made in the code, but fortunately those in charge of the game see no necessity for making any changes, for the very good reason that the public seems to be satisfied with the game as it is played today.

It is no easy matter to improve baseball. It has about reached that state of perfection where new changes might prove detrimental. The old complaint that there is not enough batting is not borne out by the attendance figures. No one interested in baseball is staying away from the ball parks because he is not satisfied with the hitting. In fact, the game has pressed more since the rules decreased the number of safe drives than it ever did before. The old time slugging matches would not be popular now, when the games which are most enjoyed are those in which the score is close and which are not definitely decided until the last man is retired.

Tinker and Evers held the record last season for the number of double plays they started. If one can believe all the unkind things they are saying about each other just now they are competing this year not for a record in double plays, but in double crossing.

Between them Tinker and Evers broke into 151 double plays last season, Doyle and Fletcher of the Giants were second on the list with 142. Larry having participated in seventy-nine and his teammate in sixty-three. The new Cub leader was in seventy-three and the new commander of the Reds was in seventy-eight. Of the four men named Fletcher started the greatest number of two play retirements—namely, forty-one. Doyle had thirty-five to his credit, Evers thirty-three and Tinker thirty-two.

Many Cases in Flooded District---Men Digging Corpses From Mud

DAYTON, O., March 29.—The city water works, which have been out of commission since Tuesday morning were restored at noon today, relieving what has been one of the most serious phases of the situation here.

George F. Burba, secretary to Gov. Cox, has telegraphed the chief executive the following:

"The situation is rapidly improving. Ninety bodies have been recovered and the work of digging corpses from the mud and debris is progressing."

Official reports and identification of flood victims poured in steadily today. As fast as the bodies were identified they were buried.

Four Military Zones

Over a thousand militia under command of Adjt.-Gen. Wood have the afflicted zones thoroughly patrolled and little or no disorder is reported. The city is divided into four military zones.

Secretary of War Garrison sent word from Cincinnati today that he expected to reach Dayton late this afternoon. It was reported that the federal government would take control of Dayton both from a military and sanitation standpoint. Adjt.-Gen. Wood said he heard of no such plan and that he did not believe it would be put into effect. The water had drained off from almost all of the flooded area, leaving thick layers of mud. In some instances the mud was several feet deep. It soon began to dry in portions of the streets exposed to the sunshine, but for blocks the searchers for bodies waded through a sea of oozy mud.

Homes of 75,000 swept Away.

A brilliant sunshine threw an uncanny light over the distorted scenes in the areas where the homes of 75,000 people were swept away or toppled over. A view down almost any street revealed tumbled over houses, pianos, household utensils and dead horses massed together in indescribable confusion. At two points the bodies of horses were still caught in the tops of trees, where they had been swept by the rushing waters.

Relief Station Established

Over on the north side of Dayton, close to the flooded district, a relief station was established under martial law in the Longfellow schoolhouse, where thousands of homeless people gathered for supplies of food and clothing. Every able bodied man was pressed into service.

Curfew Regulations

The rapid fall of water has rendered useless the large number of big boats to be used here in rescue work. Lifesavers and searchers for bodies, however, were using canoes and shallow bottomed boats in certain sections, while in other districts relief squads were able to wade. Little organized looting has taken place. Absolute curfew regulations are maintained and no one can be out after six o'clock. A special train of supplies reached here from New York and other trains were expected today from other cities.

Announcement was made by the relief committee today that until conditions become normal no private messages to persons here will be delivered or answered, as the wire capacity is taxed to the utmost to carry official and public business.

Do Not Send Messages

The committee expressed the wish that people throughout the country refrain from sending messages of inquiry concerning the safety of relatives and friends here as such are futile.

It is impossible to ascertain definitely any information concerning people in the flooded districts. As fast as bodies are identified the names are being sent out by the news associations and these lists the committee declares must in the circumstances suffice.

Beautiful weather today rendered much more endurable the condition of the homeless. Food is being distributed as expeditiously as the facilities of the relief organization will permit. It is impossible, however, to provide milk for the thousands of babies in this city, including scores that have been born since the flood came.

In a statement issued by the citizens' relief committee today, it was declared that no further donations of cast off clothing would be accepted because of the fear that by this means some epidemic might be brought. Foodstuffs and particularly bread are wanted.

30 Killed When Building Fell

At least 30 people were killed when the Leonard building collapsed Wednesday night, according to the statement of Detective Kinkaird today. Kinkaird was marooned by the flood in the city hall just across Main street from the Leonard building. Standing in the window of police headquarters he was watching passersby on the street below prior to the coming of the torrent. He saw 20 people, he says, enter a saloon which occupied one-third of the ground space of the Leonard building. None of them got out. Other people had entered other stores in the building and some were on the upper floors. Kinkaird felt sure that there were at least 50 in the structure and possibly more.

When the waters came, a portion of the persons caught in the building made their way to the roof. As the walls began to tremble these let out terrible shrieks and calls for help. Two men leaped into the flood, a distance of four floors and were killed instantly. The others went down with the building.

Two Killed Instantly

Kinkaird said that the police were taking steps to examine the interior of the ruins. More than 20 persons were rescued from the market houses near the city building Thursday night by Edward Schaffer, who sat astride of his horse and swam into the markets carrying a rope. About 20 people were trapped in the markets and standing on meat blocks.

Schaeffer fastened the rope around one after another and the police officers and detectives in the building pulled the men to safety.

Hospital Filled With Sufferers

In the city proper the relief committees worked through the night, searching for the sick and destitute and sending them to places where they could be provided for. The city hospital is filled and the authorities have been notified that a number of cases of diphtheria have developed in the Good Samaritan hospital separated from the city proper by the flood. There have been three deaths since Thursday. All the public utilities are still out of commission but food and medicine brought overland from Brown's bridge on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad during the night has temporarily relieved the needs of a great many persons. It is not known that anyone was killed in the collapse of the Rogel hotel near the Baltimore & Ohio station yesterday as ample warning of the unsafe condition of the building had been given. The military and civil authorities have inspected many buildings and a number have been condemned, including the Schultz theatre, one of the largest blocks in the business section.

FROM STRICKEN DISTRICT

Pres. Wilson Receives Telegrams

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Telegrams came to President Wilson today from the stricken districts of Ohio, Indiana and Nebraska. Mayor Hunt of Cincinnati wired:

"Dayton relieved so far as immediate necessities for food are concerned."

Governor Ralston of Indiana telegraphed:

"The stricken people of Indiana appreciate your prompt and practicable assistance."

The Red Cross relief fund grew today to $400. Headquarters here received a $2500 contribution from Boston with the notification that they would send about $10,000 in all.

ENGINES PUMP WATER

Dayton is Assuming Normal Conditions

DAYTON, O., March 29.—Citizens of Dayton swarmed over the central part of the city today for the first time since Tuesday morning when the flood rushed over the town. The military announced that those who would dare the mud and occasional patches of water in the hollows might cross the bridges from other parts of the city without obtaining official permission. Men of all sorts and conditions rushed in to ascertain the condition of their places of business. Fire engines were busy pumping water from basements of the principal buildings and a more optimistic spirit prevailed.

PRICES HIGHER

AT THE OPENING OF THE STOCK MARKET TODAY

Large Buying Orders Were Executed —Restraint on Buying of Steel, Caused by Shutting Down Plants

NEW YORK, March 29.—Some large buying orders were executed at the opening of the market today. First prices were generally higher and a few of the active stocks which opened fractionally lower were quickly pulled up. Lehigh Valley was strongest, opening at an advance of a point. Canadian Pacific lost a point.

Some restraint was placed on the buying of steel by the losses incurred through the shutting down of various plants in the flooded district but the movement elsewhere was strong and confident. Reading, Union Pacific and Amal. spurted upwards in vigorous fashion with the whole market showing evidence of the resumption of energetic operation for the rise.

The market closed strong. Indications that much of the buying of the week was of an accumulative character impressed the bear faction forcibly and there was more eagerness to cover shorts than at any previous time since the rise began. Improvement in money conditions here and abroad paved the way for concerted bull support of the market. Diminishing fears regarding the flood catastrophe and belief that the property losses would be smaller than was at first supposed added to the confidence of operators on the long side of the market. Stocks in which a large short interest is commonly supposed to exist moved up briskly and the whole list showed unmistakable evidence of strength. Bonds were irregular.

THE MILITARY TRAINING SCHOOL FOR BOYS AND YOUNG MEN AS SEEN BY AN EXPERT

Oregon Agricultural College Armory, Gun Room and Lieutenant Hennessey.

Throughout the United States there is at the present time an awakening and extending interest in the subject of military training for boys and young men. The interest is fostered by the federal government, which details army officers to schools and colleges which express the desire to form their students into military battalions. Among those schools is the Oregon Agricultural college, which has one of the finest bodies of student militia in the United States and the largest armory west of the Mississippi river.

Military training in the different educational institutions in the United States is an important factor in the physical development of the students who take part in such work," says Lieutenant P. J. Hennessey, Fifteenth United States cavalry, the new commandant of the regimental corps of cadets of the college. "When one has the opportunity to compare the carriage of students of a college where military instruction is imparted with the carriage of students where no military instruction is given a marked difference is readily seen," continues the lieutenant. "In the former case it is noticed the student carries himself erect and gracefully, with his shoulders back and falling equally, with a natural swinging stride, with his head thrown back and up and with a full control of his hands and arms.

"The average student of the other college lacks the graceful carriage; the shoulders are prone to be stooped forward, the head is not carried up and back, the hands seem to be in the way and unless general gymnastic work is indulged in the muscular system is not as generally developed. One student will be a marked man in any crowd on account of his carriage, while the other will not be noticed.

"The ability to obey commands is an important one, whether the commands are called orders, instructions, directions, requests, etc., and the possession or lack of this ability spells success or failure in all walks of life. To be able to give commands or orders properly is also a very important factor in a college and comes to the majority of men only after experience. A command must be expressed clearly, concisely and in the simplest language and be given at the proper time with confidence in one's ability. Such training students get during military instruction, whether as commissioned officers or non-commissioned officers.

"Young men are prone to take the bridle in their teeth, so to speak, and like runaway horses do what they think is called for without much reasoning. This is natural, no doubt, but is not conducive to success, even in a college. Consequently at this age in a young man's life the hardest lesson to learn is obedience to superiors of any kind. The tendency is too often when a direction is given to attempt to do it in one's own way or to try to show how it might be done otherwise or to talk about it or to do it when time may be available in the future.

"A military order to be successful must be done in the way directed without any 'why or wherefore' and be executed promptly, quickly and willingly. All students in a proper military organization learn this. In addition to this mental training a student also learns the mechanism of the drill with others and his particular part in it.

"Anything that has a tendency to improve the physique and mentality of one has also a tendency to improve the moral fiber, and, irrespective of other factors, military instruction contributes its share to this.

"In our military system have been handed down certain customs, courtesies and marks of respect to superiors, military and civil, and to the flag that centuries of usage in armies all over the world have shown to be necessary and essential to the proper control of large bodies of men. The customs, courtesies and marks of respect are exactly what are found in civic life in the form of rules of conduct between gentlemen and between gentlemen and the gentler sex. A student learning these rules is a better student, as he appreciates his relationship to his country, his flag, his college, his instructors, his fellow students and to the outside world.

"Every military unit is an organization based upon the experiences of centuries. Each unit has its head, who must work hand and glove with superiors and subordinates. Thus, such an organization in actual practice has for its object one thing—team work with a body of men of any size at a time when national issues are at stake and when life is a secondary object. Such a time would be on the firing line in battle. A student while a member of the college military organization learns this lesson—team work.

"The object of college training, particularly in those colleges having the mechanic arts, agricultural science and military science and tactics as leading courses of study, is to train the student mentally, physically, morally and in addition, to equip him for the problems of life by application in the shops, laboratories and classrooms. The military training as outlined above improves his physique, his mentality and his morals."

drum and the cymbals was a great help to the young "soldiers," and their work was very commendable. The Cadets made a very fine showing and many a cheer and handclap they received on the line of march. The other officers of Co. A are: Arthur Desloges, captain; Joseph Duesceault, first lieutenant, and Alcide Bellefeuille, second lieutenant. The boys all carried rifles with the exception of the officers, who were equipped with swords.

Pulasky Hussars

About fifty members of the Pulasky Hussars, Polish society, dressed in highly colored uniforms and preceded by their fife and drum corps were next in line. They were led by Marshal Alexander DeLuga, who was mounted. He was followed by Capt. Benedict Lenard and men carrying the Polish and American flags after which came the members of the Pulasky Hussars all dressed in uniforms of crimson trousers, blue coat trimmed with white and black helmet with large plume. The above society made a very good appearance.

DIVISION TWO

Made Up of Local and Visiting Hibernian Divisions—County President Chief Marshal

Division Two was made up mainly of local and visiting lodges of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and it was one of the most attractive in line. County President James J. Harold of the A. O. H. was the division marshal. He and his staff were mounted and made a fine display at the head of the division.

The wearing of the regalia, similar for every division, attributed a neat effect to the marching of this body and this was emphasized by the fact that the marshals were distinguished in their rank by white sashes instead of green, while the officers wore the green sash and were distinguished by their frock coats and high hats. The Manchester Hibernians turned out in great numbers and vied with the others in attractive appearance. The Nashua members of the order to the extent of two divisions, one from Lawrence and the fourth division coming from Andover, completed the splendid array. The Spindle City band marched ahead and the division marched to the tune of lively Irish airs.

Division 1, A. O. H.

About 200 men turned out to swell the ranks of Division One, one of the oldest divisions in the state of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and formed the first section of the second division of the parade today, and the body was led by Marshal Jeremiah J. Connors and his aids, John Hughes and Charles Howe, all three being mounted. They were dressed uniformly in frock coats, high hats, white duck pants and dark leggins, wearing white gloves, and Marshal Connors wore a white sash. The sashes of the aids who rode behind Mr. Connors were green. To keep up the custom followed by the other Hibernian division, the forward platoon comprised the officers of the division, who wore tall hats, dark clothes and white gloves, and the regulation green sash of the order. The body of the division wore the customary insignia of the Hibernian order, consisting of the blue cap with green and gold trimmings, the green sash worn over the right shoulder, badges, belts and white gloves. They formed an attractive first rank for the Lowell section of the second division of the procession and received favorable comment along the course followed by the societies. A barouche accompanied this division, bearing Messrs. John O'Hare, Michael Linane, Terrence Gray and Charles Callahan.

Division 2, A. O. H.

Division 2 of the Hibernians beautifully accomplished its part in upholding the splendor and high standard of appearance in the parade of the order in general and as they passed the reviewing stands they were accorded a round of applause. They marched to the lively music of the Ft. Mathew Fife and Drum corps. The ranks were made up of about 125 members, dressed in the customary regalia of the order, including the blue-black caps, adorned with a band of tinsel and green border, green sashes, belts and swords, and white gloves. The officers presented an attractive appearance. Two of the officers carried batons, and the others blackthorn sticks. They wore tall silk hats, frock coats, dark trousers and white gloves. The marshal and his aids were mounted and led the division. They, too, wore the silk hat, prince Albert coat, white duck trousers, black leggins and tan gloves. Marshal Timothy J. O'Connor wore a white sash as a distinction of his rank while the aids wore the regulation green sash. This division well deserved the applause which it received from the spectators along the line of march.

Division 11, A. O. H.

With an attendance and general appearance well up to the mark of excellence which was in general set by the Order of Hibernians in this procession, Division 11, well known because of her energetic spirit in all such events, commanded the attention and admiration of the spectators as they marched along in their place in the second division together with the other A. O. H. divisions. Marshal John T. Hendricks led this body of men, and his staff of aids came next, the front platoon being made up of President John McInerney and the other officers and some of the past officers of the division was similar to that of the others of the Hibernian order.

Division 28, A. O. H.

Patrick McCann, a prominent member of the Hibernian order was the marshal and the leader of Division 28 in the parade and he presented a very neat appearance in his high silk hat, Prince Albert coat, white duck trousers and leggins, and mounted on a spirited horse. He was accompanied in the lead of the division by the following aids also mounted, James Sullivan, John Carville, John Lester and Mr. McLoughlin, all similarly attired as himself, only wearing dark trousers. All carried riding whips and wore white sashes. The division, one of the strongest and best known in the order comprised about 250 men in line, marching with an easy swing to the music furnished by the Brookline fife and drum corps. They wore the attractive uniform consisting of the dark caps with green adornments, green sash, belts and white gloves and carried canes. They were a strong factor in the appearance of the order and received their generous share of the applause from the enthusiastic spectators.

Division 8, A. O. H.

No less attractive than the others was the appearance of Division 8 of the Hibernian order. The marshal of Division 8 was Mr. Thomas Reynolds and he was in the lead and mounted, accompanied by a corps of aids. The officers formed the front rank in a well arranged platoon and wore frock coats, silk hats, white gloves and green sashes with the exception of President Daniel F. Reilly who wore a white sash similar to that of the marshal, to distinguish his rank. In this platoon were Andrew E. Barrett, Thomas Dorcy, Patrick Finnerty, John C. Rourke, John Barrett, Nicholas Soroghan, Michael Monahan and Patrick Heslin. All were attired as was President O'Reilly, but wore green sashes instead of white. The division itself, numbering in the neighborhood of 350 men, were the usual regalia worn in affairs of this kind, consisting of the dark cap with green trimmings, green sash and white gloves. They were arranged in an attractive manner and won the admiration of the spectators. They, too, bore up the standard of the A. O. H. in general.

The Manchester Hibernians

Immediately following the five Lowell divisions of Hibernians came divisions from Manchester, each comprising a large body and all together numbering considerably more than 1000 at a rough estimate. Great spirit was shown by the Manchester Hibernians in coming to this city in such large numbers to participate and assist in the celebration of the feast of St. Patrick. The marshal in general of all four of these divisions was Patrick H. Malley, and he, like the others, had a corps of aids following him and assisting in directing the movements of the division.

Other Hibernian Bodies

The final section of Division 2 of the parade comprised four Hibernian divisions, including Divs. 1 and 2 from Nashua, and Division 3 from Andover. They were accorded the same hearty reception and received the same favorable comment from all as did the other visitors, showing that the spirit manifested by them in coming to this city to parade was not unappreciated. Mr. B. F. Dunn of Nashua was the general marshal of this section and with aids chosen from the various divisions, marched in the lead.

DIVISION THREE

Made Up of Holy Name Societies of the Various Parishes Had Large Turn-Out

Division 3 of the parade, comprising the men of all the Irish Catholic parishes of the city, and some of the surrounding towns, and including the various branches of the Holy Name societies, was one of the largest and most imposing in the parade, having nearly 2000 men in the parade. This division was led by General Marshal Thomas J. Fitzgerald and his staff of aids, mounted, and wearing tall hats, frock coats, white duck trousers and black leggins and white gloves. The marshal wore a white sash. The Holy Name society of St. Patrick's parish came first in line, this distinction coming from the fact that it is the oldest in the city. The entire division, as well as the branch from St. Patrick's, was led by the Lowell Military band. A striking military touch was contributed to Division 3 by the company of O. M. I. Cadets, divided up into their various sections of infantry, cavalry and artillery and attractively arranged in the middle of the division.

St. Patrick's Holy Name Society

The Holy Name society of St. Patrick's parish bears the distinction of being one of the largest in the city and as it is the oldest, it led the division of Holy Name organizations. They turned out to the number of about 400 and the members wore dark colored suits, silk hats, white gloves and their coats were adorned with the beautiful badges of the organization. Their marshal, Thomas Mahoney, headed the society in the procession, accompanied by an escort of the aids and the officers marched in a special division immediately behind the marshal and his assistants. The chaplain, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, marched with the society. Music was furnished by the Lowell Military band. The Junior Branch of the society, 300 strong and accompanied by its own fife and drum corps, followed the senior branch. Altogether they formed a fine appearing body to lead the third division.

St. Peter's Holy Name

St. Peter's Holy Name society is well known as practically the largest in the city, and its members are possessed of a great spirit of enthusiasm. Thus it was in today's parade that they turned out with a delegation that well nigh reached the 600 mark. The well known Lowell Cadet band preceded them, furnishing music for the marching. Like the members of the same organization of the other parishes, the large body of men comprising St. Peter's Holy Name society were attired in uniform dark suits, derbies and white gloves and arranged in an attractive manner. The officers, of course, formed a special platoon in front and the body was led by its marshal, John L. McDonough, together with his staff of aids, all dressed in frock coats, high hats, and wearing white gloves. Rev. John F. Burns, spiritual director, marched with the society.

Immaculate Conception Parish

Charles H. Higgins was the marshal of the Holy Name society of the church of the Immaculate Conception, one of the largest as well as one of the most energetic in the city, which came next and the ranks of this organization was a great factor in the large turnout of the parish division in general. Following Mr. Higgins were his aids, and Joseph Dallagher, president of the society, with the other officers forming the first platoon.

O. M. I. Cadets

A beautiful as well as familiar feature of the procession was the appearance of Lowell's noted military organization of young men known as the O. M. I. Cadets, a well drilled and extremely neat appearing body as they swung along. The infantry section wore bright new uniforms, comprising blue coats, white duck pants, blue caps, and brown leggins. The cadets were led by Major Francis Haggerty and his staff, mounted, his staff including John Monahan, William Conroy, Owen Conway, Joseph Taft, Edward Lannon, Harry O'Dowd and Reginald Cox. They were followed immediately by the drum corps. Then came a big feature of the division in the form of a cavalry squad of 32 mounted cadets, dressed in neat khaki uniforms similar to those of the famous "Rough Riders." Next in line was the regiment, in their new uniforms and finally the artillery and hospital corps. The entire company formed a sort of an escort to the Immaculate Conception Holy Name society which body it followed. Lieut. McArdle, military instructor of the order, marched with the cadets as did Chaplain Fr. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. The cadets won great applause along the route.

St. Michael's Holy Name

The Holy Name society of St. Michael's parish was a prominent and heartily applauded feature of the parish division and they turned out to about the number of 250. Marshal John Haviland, led his staff of aids and the other officers of the organization followed. Next came a barouche containing Rev. Fr. Shaw, pastor of St. Michael's parish, John McCluskey, first president of the organization, and other past presidents. Rev. Fr. Mullin, chaplain of the society, also marched with the body in the forward ranks. The Naval Marine band of Charlestown, playing lively airs, rendered music marching just before the society.

Sacred Heart Parish

That division of the parade comprising the Holy Name organization of the Sacred Heart parish, preceded by the Mission church band of Roxbury, won applause from their numerous admirers along the line of march and were commented upon very favorably by those in the different reviewing stands. They were a fine appearing body of about four hundred members, led by John R. Kiggins, their marshal and his several aids. The officers marched next in a division by themselves. Dr. James B. O'Connor and John W. Daly, aids to Mr. Kiggins, took charge of the division after the manner of lieutenants. All wore the badges of the order. The society was heralded by two large banners, one the United States flag and the Irish flag.

St. Columba's Holy Name

Another well known branch of the Holy Name organization was that of the energetic little parish of St. Columba in Pawtucketville and the members of this society manifested a spirit of enthusiasm in turning out almost to a man, their number exceeding 100. Matthew Wholey, the marshal was the leader and his staff of aids and the officers formed the front platoon of this section. The members were uniformly dressed and received an enthusiastic greeting from the spectators along the line.

St. Andrew's of North Billerica

One hundred and seventy-five strong, the Holy Name organization of St. Andrew's church of North Billerica made a fine display, each of the members carrying a United States flag and wearing the badge of the order. Rev. E. J. Cornell, pastor of the church, marched with the society in a prominent place. Music was furnished by the Roxbury Mission Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps, a bright body of musicians for whom there was considerable favorable comment. Marshal Thomas Sheridan led the society and the officers including President John F. Gannon, Vice President John S. Welch, Recording Secretary Hart Hayes, Financial Secretary Charles Hayes and Treasurer Timothy McCarty formed the front rank. The marshal and officers wore high hats, frock coats and light colored gloves.

St. John's Church, No. Chelmsford

The men of St. John's church in No Chelmsford turned out in large numbers in the parade as a sign of their interest in the demonstration and a feature of the delegation from this parish was the appearance of the Boy Cadets in full uniform. The Forge Village Fife and Drum Corps furnished the music for both organizations. The ranks included a large number from St. Catherine's parish in Graniteville. This section was led by Marshal Edward Tucke and his staff of competent aids, all attired in tall hats, frock coats and wearing white gloves. The music was lively and the men won the applause of the spectators as they marched along.

DIVISION FOUR

This Feature of the Parade Was Made Up of Boys Who Made a Fine Showing

The St. Mary's Cadets of Lawrence had nearly 300 boys in line. They were accompanied by their fife and drum corps composed of 20 pieces, and they made a showing equal to any other military organization in the line. Wearing the regular cadet uniform and equipped with rifles, the members of this society have won fame in Lowell. They showed they were carefully trained to military marching and much credit reflects on Rev. J. A. McDonald, C. S. A., who has been in charge of the young soldiers for some time.

St. Joseph's Cadets

Three hundred of some of the best drilled boys in the country, the members of St. Joseph's Cadets of Somerville, who were accompanied by several members of the staff came next. The young boys arrived in this city on schedule time and with the St. Mary's Cadets of Lawrence formed the fourth division. They were preceded by their excellent fife and drum corps composed of forty pieces, and their general appearance could not have been better. They were commanded by Major Frank E. Clark.

DIVISION FIVE

The Irish National Foresters of Lowell and Lawrence Made Good Impression Along the Line

Division 5 was made up wholly of one organization, the Irish National Foresters with Mr. Jas. Cryan as marshal and Charles Shanley as chief aid. This organization is fast rising to a position of prominence in Lowell, its membership being at present over 250. It is a benefit organization whose headquarters are in Ireland, where the organization is one of the most patriotic in the land, appearing as it does on all occasions when national sentiment is to be represented.

Today's turnout was highly creditable both in respect to numbers and general appearance. The men marched splendidly as they are not strangers to public parades. The divisions from Lawrence also made a grand showing and the division as a whole won much applause along the route. It had its own band from Lawrence and carried the Irish flag with the stars and stripes. Mr. Thomas Nevins is secretary and James W. McKenna treasurer of the local organization. The visiting branches were entertained in Leather Workers hall after the parade.

DIVISION SIX

Made Up of Italian, Polish and Lithuanian Societies One of the Features of the Parade

The Italian society, St. Anthony of Padua, represented by about seventy members fully upheld the standard set by the other organizations that took part in the parade. They were led by Marshal Vincent Marotta and accompanied by the Umberto band of Lawrence. Mr. Frank George rode horse back. Each wore a dark uniform with badge and sash of red, white and green and also wore a small green flag. They carried both the Italian and American flags.

The Christopher Columbus society was represented by about 60 members and they were led by Marshal John Poulice, who was mounted. They were accompanied by a band and each member wore a sailor cap and sash. Both the Italian and American flags were carried and each member wore a society badge.

St. Joseph's Lithuanian Society

The St. Joseph's Lithuanian society turned out over two hundred members and they were preceded by the Italian band of Lawrence. Marshal J. G. Varoski rode horseback and he was followed by the flag carriers bearing the St. Joseph's society flag and the American flag. Each member wore a black cap and a military cape with the society colors, and a small green flag.

DIVISION SEVEN

Fine Display by Various Societies, the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus Bringing Up the Rear

The seventh and last division of the parade was composed of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum, whose marshal, Michael Kelley, also officiated as marshal of the entire seventh division, the Burke Temperance Institute, the Knights of Equity and the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, four large organizations, who made a wonderful display in keeping with the general high standard set by all of the organizations at the outset. Like the others, they received their large share of the applause and well merited applause it was.

C. Y. M. L.

The C. Y. M. L. of St. Patrick's parish made a good impression upon the spectators by their magnificent turnout. They were led by their marshal, Mr. Michael Kelley; next came the officers, Mr. Thomas McDermott, the president, and the others, forming the front rank and the body of the order, comprising about 250 in line, followed. All were dressed in dark colored suits, wore derbies and white gloves, and green badges. The C. Y. M. L., which is one of the best known societies of Lowell had many friends in line to greet them with cheers and handclapping and the visitors and others in the reviewing stands made manifest their approval. Humphrey O'Sullivan rode in a barouche with the officers of the society.

Burke Temperance Institute

Marshal John E. Lowney led his men, consisting of the members of the Burke Temperance Institute, before the reviewing stands and along the line of march, as the second section of the final division of the parade, and on all sides were heard words of appreciation and approval of the approximately 150 men. Following the marshal were his aids and in the front rank were President Patrick Mahoney and his fellow officers. They were frock coats and high hats. The members and officers alike wore the blue temperance badge in a conspicuous place on their coats, and they wore green carnations, supposed to be imported from Ireland. In the forward part of the society division was carried the large blue banner of the institute. Music for this society was furnished by its own fife and drum corps.

Knights of Equity

Another feature of the last division of the parade to receive a prolonged round of applause from the spectators was the Knights of Equity, who about 75 strong marched behind their marshal, Mr. Leo Molloy and his staff, the latter members being mounted and wearing the customary dress as an insignia of their rank. All the men wore derbies, dark colored suits, white gloves and looked well.

Fourth Degree, K. of C.

The Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, augmented by about 25 of the same order and marching to the music of the Lowell City band, formed a most beautiful and admirable organization to bring up the rear of the parade. Dr. T. F. Carroll was the marshal of this order. The knights were frock coats, black trousers, gray gloves and silk hats. They also were their swords and baldricks and the badge of the order. The band, as the society marched past the reviewing stand at St. Patrick's church played the "Ecclesiastical March" by Gounod, in honor of Bishop Anderson, the piece being procured especially for this occasion by Dr. Carroll. This was perhaps the first time it has been played by a band in the city of Lowell. The first rank of this section was composed of the officers of the order and the others followed. It was a most imposing display and won great applause from all as the members executed various marching evolutions, sometimes marching in the form of a cross and at others in other formations that would do credit to well trained military men.

The front rank of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus was made up of the following officers:

F. M. Dr. Thomas F. Carroll, F. C. Thomas J. Beane, F. A. Edward Cawley, F. P. Frank Mealey, Faithful Friar Rev. Francis J. Mullin, F. C. Fred Rooney, F. P. John A. Quinn, F. S. Jas. A. McKeon, I. S. Thomas B. Delaney, O. S. Peter A. Paradis.

An account of the decorations along the route appears elsewhere.

Met With Painful Accident

John J. Honan, of 24 Ames street, met with a very painful accident this morning at the Dennis Machine Company's shop, where he is employed. A bar of pigment iron fell from a bench and struck him in the left foot, crushing the great toe badly. Mr. Honan was taken to the Emergency hospital at once where his injury was quickly dressed. Although the injured member will lay him up for some time he was very fortunate to escape without having the entire foot crushed for the lump of iron was a large one and would undoubtedly have broken all the bones in his foot if it had landed fully upon it.

BOY DIES OF LOCKJAW

Frederick Mason, a Lynn Lad, Was Injured by Electric Car One Week Ago

LYNN, March 29.—From tetanus, which resulted from injuries received when he was struck by an electric car on Western avenue, a week ago, Frederick Mason, an 11-year-old deaf mute, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason of 17 Leighton street, died yesterday at the Lynn hospital.

When the boy was injured the skin was stripped from his right leg from the knee to the ankle and the limb was badly crushed. His mother volunteered to submit to the loss of much skin, which was to be grafted to the boy's leg, but when all preparations for the operation were completed, indications of lockjaw were noted and the boy's condition rapidly became worse.

LAW MOVES SWIFTLY

Harry Vaglas, Just Back From Greece, Arrested and Arraigned at Brockton in 30 Minutes

BROCKTON, March 29.—Harry Vaglas, aged 28, was given an example of quick movements on the part of the police department and police court yesterday. Harry formerly lived at 13 Everett street, but went to Greece after he had bought a ring and watch of S. D. Grossman, a local jeweler. The latter secured a warrant for Vaglas, but it was never served.

Yesterday Vaglas returned from Greece. He reached Brockton at 8.20. At 8.40 he was arrested by Inspector Brouillard and at 9.10 he was arraigned and sentenced to one month in the house of correction. He pleaded guilty to the charge of concealing leased property.

A CHILD'S WASTE CLOGGED BOWELS.

Makes it Cross, Peevish, Restless and Feverish—If Tongue is Coated Give "Syrup of Figs."

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get bilious and constipated just like grown-ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen, Mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

TWO HURT IN COLLISION

Auto Wrecked and Horse Killed in Crash

BOSTON, March 29.—Two men, one of whom the police say was learning to operate an automobile, narrowly missed death, the automobile was wrecked and a horse probably killed in a collision of an automobile and a team at Medford square, Medford, last night.

John F. Carr of 68 Walker road, Swampscott, was learning to drive the motor car, according to the police, and had an instructor with him. As they entered Medford square the automobile struck a horse hitched to a delivery wagon, swerved and crashed into a water hydrant.

Both Carr and the other man, whose name the police did not get, were thrown from their seats to the pavement. Both were badly cut and bruised and may have sustained internal injuries.

The automobile was shattered by the hydrant and the horse was knocked down and badly lacerated.

Destructive of Poultry Life

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Whether the concussion from the fire of the great naval guns kills chickens and geese in the sheds is a fact, Secretary Daniels of the navy department has been called upon to answer. He received a letter today from a woman on the Virginia coast near Cape Henry charging that the target practice of the battleship fleet in Chesapeake bay and even in the ocean outside was destructive to all poultry life in egg form. Even as she wrote she declared the heavy guns were booming and she estimated that she had lost $75 in eggs. The inspector of ordnance at Indian head already has reported that the heavy gun fire at the proving ground apparently did not in the slightest degree affect the fowl, which were hatched and raised in great numbers as close as 400 yards from the guns.

Loan of $10,000,000 to China

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Wilson learned today that an American financial syndicate stood ready to furnish the republic of China a short term loan of about $10,000,000 and would later negotiate a long term loan up to $100,000,000 or whatever should be China's need. The syndicate has asked for assurances that the United States government would not participate in any way in the negotiations.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

ACTIVITY STILL REIGNS

Salesmen of the Local Agencies Busy

THE LIST OF PROSPECTIVE BUYERS IS QUITE LARGE

Other Interesting Items Culled From Auto, Truck and Motorcycle Circles

At the Lowell Automobile corporation's salesrooms in Appleton street the salesmen, Milo Hale and Dan O'Day, are as busy on prospects worked up during the Boston show, as are bees about a newly made comb. Milo and Dan are two of the most conscientious workers that can be found, and once they get anyone interested enough as to even tell the scent of gasoline, they work and work, until a sale is consummated. The results of their labors are quite apparent on all thoroughfares of this city as well as in the adjoining towns, for the Buick is more numerous than any other make of car.

During this week a consignment of three car loads of Buicks was received and unloaded by the mechanics of this firm and now await their respective owners. The salesrooms are daily visited by a continually increasing number of enthusiasts, which would convince the most skeptical that the pleasure automobile clientele is not on the decline as some think.

Fords Selling Fast

There is no apparent let-up in the sales of the Ford car at the Lowell Motor Mart at the corner of Merrimack and Tilden streets and Mr. Rochette, the proprietor of the mart and agent for this city and surrounding towns for this make of cars, reports as an average a sale each day, which is going some and a record that any auto dealer might well feel proud of.

F. M. Bill, Lowell's largest wholesale grocer with an establishment in Market street, is among the latest local purchasers of Fords, and he had such faith in the car and the man that is selling them that the telephone sufficed in making the purchase. It was not necessary to wait on Mr. Bill and explain the mechanism and merits of the Ford, it sold itself, through the way it has battled, like a gladiator of old, with all tests that it is possible to give a car, many of which had been made in the roads and hills of this city and nearby towns with Mr. Bill as an interested spectator. Mr. Bill lost a much higher priced car by fire within the past two weeks and his purchase of a Ford is assuredly a high compliment for this car.

International and Alco Trucks

The Ervin E. Smith company in Market street, agents for the International and Alco trucks, the lowest and highest priced trucks being sold, reports a very encouraging outlook for the coming season on the placing of these particular makes of trucks with the merchants in the city proper and the approximate towns. The International as is well known, has been the accepted light delivery wagon for many years, a position it obtained through the thoroughness with which it is built and the guarantee under which it is sold. In the Alco the company has the best and highest priced motor truck being built in this country. Of course, there is a reason for the difference in the price of this car and those of other truck builders, and it has become generally known among the public and motor propelled vehicle-needing merchants throughout the country, that the variance in the prices is but a secondary matter when the standing and lasting qualities of the respective makes are taken into consideration.

Two sales constitute the activity of the sales for this firm during the past week and both were Internationals and were to A. B. Moore, the grocer of Pawtucketville, and to the Turner Centre Creamery Co. of Thorndike street. A specially built body, which was shown at the Boston Truck show, was on the chassis sold to the Turner company. It consists of a full panelled body with ample room for the carrying of a good load of milk and cream cans.

Near "New" Car

Harry Pitts of the Pitts Auto supply in Hurd street received his big Palmer-Singer car from the paint shop yesterday after it had received an unfinished coating of battleship gray, which is the accepted color on automobiles for the 1913 season. Harry is never behind in the appearance of his car and when he received the "breeze" that the new gray was to be the color used extensively on the cars for this season he set at work to gather all the leading shades of this particular color. He then started in on a blending process to get a shade that while having gray principally in the body of the mixture would stand all the wear that the sun and rain could give it, which of necessity must come to it when it is on a car being piloted by the genial Harry, for the extensive business he does necessitates his attention always and the ground that he has to cover in making calls on his patrons is so great that the use of a motor propelled vehicle is absolutely necessary in the making of all the calls.

Harry was quite proud of the car yesterday and received many complimentary remarks from numerous bystanders very graciously and just to show that he was a staunch believer in reciprocity he threw one of his expansive smiles in return. The lights, bodies, speedometer and trimmings of this car have all been nickel plated and with the outlinings of the cars which are black, combine in making the car one of the prettiest seen hereabouts.

New "Couch" Side Car

One of the niftiest side cars for use with a motorcycle that has been seen in this city since the fad of bringing "another" with you on your motorcycle trips is the couch car that Mark J. McCann brought over the road from the manufacturers in Cambridge, Mass., yesterday morning. This new car is of recent design and Mr. McCann considered himself very fortunate in procuring one of the first that the company put out. The car resembles when viewed from the rear the rumble seat of a runabout automobile model, but has a greater depth than the "third seat" of an auto. From the front it presents a very inviting appearance with deep upholstery, that cannot but lend a great amount of comfort to the occupant, constitutes the inside. A large and roomy seat with a slightly reclined back contains ample space from the carrying of a good sized person with comfort. The chair is balanced on a three point extension so true that it will not act as a deterent in traveling at a good rate of speed, providing one desires so doing.

The car is painted in colors in accordance with the accepted colors of the builders of the various makes of motorcycles. Mr. McCann had quite a large number of callers to see the car last evening and he reports several excellent prospects. Sales and deposits on motor cycles are being received daily by Mr. McCann and he looks forward to a busy season.

Popss and Indians

Interest in the Pope and Indian motorcycles, which are sold by George H. Batchelder of Postoffice ave., is daily on the increase and the enthusiasts of this city who chat over the improvements made on motorcycles within recent years, while of a very critical mind in general, speak highly of the many merits and advantages of owning an Indian or Pope. Many deposits and completed sales are already on Mr. Batchelder's books for early-season deliveries and if present orders foretell, the interest in riding motorcycles is growing daily and the demand for cycles this coming season will be far greater than ever before.

Reo Car Sold

Geo. F. White, agent for the Reo car, reports the sale of a car during the past week to Arthur W. Goodwin of 251 Appleton street.

FLOODS CAUSE SHORTAGE

New York's Food Supply is Cut Off

NEW YORK, March 29.—Not a pound of butter was brought into New York yesterday and the price went up four cents a pound. The milk supply also was inadequate, up-state floods making it impossible for shipments to reach the city.

Dealers declare that there is but three days' supply of meat in the city, and unless trains now stalled in the flooded districts reach here early next week New York will face a meat famine. Eggs and other foodstuffs also were advanced in price today.

To Impeach More Sheriffs

AUGUSTA, Me., March 29.—An amendment to include Sheriffs Wilbert E. Emerson of Penobscot county and John W. Ballou of Sagadahoc county in the impeachment proceedings instituted by Governor Haines against Sheriff Lewis W. Moulton of Cumberland county for alleged failure to enforce the prohibitory liquor law was offered in the house by Representative Newbert of this city, the democratic minority leader, yesterday, when the resolve for an investigation of the charges was received from the senate. The resolve as amended was passed. Mr. Moulton is a democrat, while the other two sheriffs are republicans.

An order introduced by Representatives Scates of Westbrook (democrat), calling upon Governor Haines to furnish the legislature with the names of the officials whom he mentioned in his message as being derelict in their duty, was passed. The amended resolve and order were to be considered in the senate late yesterday afternoon.

Increase German Army

BERLIN, March 29.—The suggested increase of the German army will be voted without opposition except from the socialists who will resist as a matter of form according to the general opinion expressed by the newspapers here today. The government's financial proposals to cover the necessary expenditure connected with the augmentation of the forces on which the federal council agreed only with difficulty will, however, be subjected to severe criticism.

Report of Census Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The census bureaus today issued its report showing cottonseed statistics for the 1912 crop as follows:

Cotton seed crushed 4,540,305 tons; linters obtained 605,704 running bales; number of establishments 829.

Suffragettes to Siege White House

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Siege is to be laid to the White House by the suffragists, it was announced today at national headquarters as a result of the declination of President Wilson to include in his message to congress some reference to the suffrage cause. The president's declination was based on his belief that congress should take the first steps and that he would not be justified in inaugurating such a sweeping reform through recommendations. Miss Lucy Burns, one of the White House visitors, declared the reception of the women was pleasant and the conference was "spontaneous." She was accompanied by three other leaders in the suffrage movement.

"We are liable to have many more of these spontaneous meetings with the president," said Miss Burns significantly. The women openly expressed their disappointment at the failure to induce the chief executive to make mention of the "cause" and reprisals were openly discussed.

"A month ago famine appeared in Adrianople. The food remaining was divided between the troops and civilians but the last few days starvation was at hand. The soldiers received bread made of hempseed mixed with straw and some horseflesh. The inhabitants could be seen by the besiegers gathering roots and plants hoping thus to find some kind of food."

Capture of Shukri Pasha

LONDON, March 29.—The honor of capturing Shukri Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief of Adrianople, with his headquarters staff, belongs to the Twentieth Servian regiment of infantry.

An official statement issued here today said that Shukri Pasha, two other Turkish generals, 22 field officers and 150 junior officers were in Hadwerluk to the northwest of the city when the Servian regiment stormed and captured it. On the following day Shukri Pasha was handed over by the Servians to General Nikola Ivanoff, the Bulgarian commander-in-chief. Seventeen thousand Ottoman troops also surrendered to the Servians and the quantity of war material captured by them in the taking of the city was enormous.

The Bulgarian headquarters staff has been informed that Servian cooperation with the Bulgarian troops is no longer necessary in the opinion of Servia and the withdrawal of the Servian forces from the vicinity of Adrianople will begin today.

Segregation Bill Defeated

DENVER, Colo., March 29.—The segregation bill was laughed to defeat in the house yesterday. Mrs. Agnes Riddle attacked the bill on the grounds that "fallen men should be segregated the same as fallen women." Rep. Bills declared his willingness to insert a section providing for her suggestion.

"But there would be no men left," objected Mrs. Riddle.

Whereupon the house burst into uproarious laughter, which lasted ten minutes. Upon roll call on the bill Mrs. Riddle rose and warned:

"Let him among you who is without sin cast the first vote."

No one voted.

CLEVER ORGANIZATION DELIGHTED LARGE AUDIENCE

In Associate Hall Last Evening—All Members Greeted With Vociferous Applause—Dancing Followed

The Twentieth Century Bachelor club, a group of songsters and comedians, who by their artistic work in all the cities and towns of this section, have added lustre to the name of Lowell as a musical center, gave their annual musical oddity and hop entitled "A Night at the Cabaret" in Associate hall last evening. It proved to be the finest show which the Bachelors have produced; and they have given the public some rattling fine shows. Not only was it a social success but it was a tasteful treat to all who take pleasure in sitting back and drinking in those delightful impressions that enliven the mind and quicken the heart when listening to the side-splitting sallies of comedians who get their comedy not from books but from nature itself, and to catchy, humorous and sentimental songs rendered with all the snap and jollity and sweetness for which these young men are justly noted.

Keenly attentive to every sound from the stage, people jammed the floor, balconies and stairways during the "show" while half that number glided about the polished boards when the alluring, intoxicating notes from the Bachelor's own orchestra sounded the introduction for the first dance on the program.

From the moment that the Bachelor's own orchestra struck up the first note all was melody. That first note started on its merry way the Bachelor Club March, a medley of tuneful airs indissolubly joined together by the club's musical director, Mr. Richard J. Noonan. It proved to be a mighty catchy march and if the applause be any criterion, it was, too, a mighty successful piece of work. Each and every number was given in an artistic manner and space does not permit a justifiable criticism. Mr. John Devlin sang "Sweet Aileen Asthore," Jerry Langley gave "If I said Please," Mr. Rene McCarthy rendered "Last Night Was the End of the World." Jas. Roache took "Melinda's Wedding Day," for his number. William Gookin's offering was "That's Why the Violets Live." Mr. William Warren entertained with "Low Bridge, Everybody Down." Francis Connor sang "In Twilight Town." Mr. Edward Shea delighted with "Don't Be Ashamed You're Irish." Commissioner James E. Donnelly rendered "My Dreams of You." Mr. Walter Davis' contribution was "That Broadway Glide." Mr. John J. Dalton gave "To Have, to Hold, to Love." "Good Bye, Sal" was the closing number on the program, Mr. John Gleason sustaining the solo.

The "oddity" having come to an end, the "hop" then began and continued until a late hour, the floor being thronged with dancers young and old.

The entertainment was under the direction of Mr. Charles D. Slattery, while Mr. Richard J. Noonan was the musical director.

The Old Lowell bank has received a contribution of $20 from Dr. William G. Ward toward the relief of the flood sufferers. The bank will be glad to receive any contributions and will see that the amounts are forwarded to the Massachusetts Red Cross society, in Boston.

MALLET LIBRARY

Was Purchased by L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique—District Council to Meet in Lynn

L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique which has three councils in this city, has again purchased the Mallet library, and the news of the transaction will be received with favor by the many members of the union. A few years ago the said library was purchased by the union, but later inasmuch as the money for the purchase had been taken from the funds of society, the insurance commissioners ordered the union to sell the library in order to return the money to its proper fund.

At this time a movement was started among the members of the union to raise funds for the purchase of the library with the result that a few days ago the transaction was completed and the money was returned to its proper fund. The Lowell councils donated the following amounts toward the purchase of the library: Carillon, $25; J. N. Jacques, $25 and Laval, $5. The secretary of the committee on the library was Joseph F. Montminy of this city.

The quarterly meeting of District council No. 5 of the union will be held at Lynn on Sunday, May 4. The affair will begin with a solemn high mass at St. Jean Baptiste church and will be followed by a dinner after which a public meeting will be held. The presiding officer of the day will be the substitute to the president general Joseph F. Montminy of Lowell. There will be delegates from councils from the following cities: Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport, Salem, Amesbury, Forge Village, Lynn, Danvers and Ipswich.

Jennings Found Guilty

BOSTON, March 29—"Guilty of murder in the second degree" was the verdict returned against James B. Jennings, the pugilist known as "Kid Carter," at 10.50 last night by a jury in the superior criminal court, for having shot William H. MacPherson in a barroom at Washington and Concord streets, South End, on Jan. 1.

Jennings heard the verdict with a sneer.

His counsel at once filed a bill of exceptions. The jury was dismissed by Judge Brown, and on the exceptions a continuance was ordered till April 26.

THREE CASES IN COURT

Few Offenders Before Judge Enright

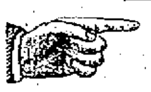

The police court session this morning was a short affair, there being only three cases to dispose of. There were four releases by Probation Officer Slattery.

William W. Mulhinch was brought into court again, his case having been continued until today by the prosecution. Mulhinch pleaded guilty to stealing a roll of leather from the John Pilling Shoe Co. There was 185 feet of leather in the roll, valued at 13 cents a foot. Judge Enright sent the defendant to jail for a term of four months.

The case of James Smith, the 78 year old man, which was continued a week ago for this morning's session, was heard by the court today. The old man told the judge last week that he had a daughter living in Attleboro, but inquiries by the police failed to discover any such person as he claimed to be related to. He was sent to the state farm, from which place, he will probably be taken to the hospital at Tewksbury.

William H. Campbell, a second offender for drunkenness, was fined $5 and allowed two weeks' time in which to pay it.
